Cable From Mussolini. Thicker Veils, Less Naked. Says Heaven to Pu Yi. Freight by Air, Some Day.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MUSSOLINI believes that war between Japan and Russia must come, with the United States dragged in, and, like the little boy in the bathtub reaching for the soap, "he won't be happy till he gets it."

The Russian Litvinoff has warned Japan in public speech:

"Soviet military forces are increasing continuously," and "Russia could make any aggressor lose its desire to REPEAT an attempt to attack."

NOTHING COULD be more illuminating than the article on the war, cabled by Mussolini to Mr. Hearst's newspapers, and published yesterday.

The Italian Premier sees war as an immediate danger. He says in his cabled message:

"Two armies confront each other at the frontier of Russia and Manchuria; the peril of war exists. It interests not only Russia and Japan; it also involves China and the United States, and indirectly, England, France, Italy and Holland."

At this moment, Mussolini says, Japan is "going through a period of dynamic imperialism."

He foresees a combination of Japan and China uniting against the United States and Europe, and thinks the white races should recognize their responsibility for the preservation of white civilization.

IT MAY come to that, with modern machinery, improved agriculture, lower death rate and vastly increased Asiatic populations and wealth, but it will not come in this century.

Meanwhile the United States can also, in Litvinoff's words, "make any aggressor lose its desire to REPEAT an attempt to attack."

The United States would create defensive and aggressive power to do that, if it had the brains of a microcephalic field mouse.

SOME YEARS ago, the Metropolitan Opera in New York produced "Salome," showing a lady, three-quarters or nine-tenths naked, dancing and singing, persuading a degraded Eastern potentate to chop off and give her the head of John the Baptist, who had refused the lady's advances.

She got the head and the opera showed her enjoying it, gloating over it, almost eating it, and the refined music went "glug, glug" to imitate dripping blood.

THIS WRITER at the time had the pleasure of writing in one of Mr. Hearst's New York newspapers an editorial objecting to that prostitution of musical art, comparing the idea of the opera to a dead, decayed toad, enshrined in a beautiful lily.

The opera stopped short, and it was said the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who ran the opera house, as he did nearly everything else, ordered the stars to sing, dance and play something else.

Now the Metropolitan revives the objectionable performance, and it is suggested to Mr. Cravath, opera boss, that, even with the lady not quite so naked, with perhaps less diaphanous veils and a less ardent desire to chew the poor saint's head, such a morgue and slaughter house motif disgraces music and the opera.

IT IS a comfort to know that your acts are approved by the powers above. Pu Yi, once heir to the throne of China, thrown out kindly but firmly, by the Chinese republic, is to be made Emperor of Manchuria, by the Japanese. Manchuria, or Manchukuo, is, in our language, Pu Yi's "home town."

His ancestors started there and became rulers of China, and now Pu Yi, "besought by the populace," which means Japan, discovers that Heaven itself wishes him to be Manchurian emperor, with Japanese strings attached, of course.

Pu Yi, guided by the wisdom of Confucius, will exercise his powers according to the principles of Wangtao, or "the kingly way," and says:

"Accepting the divine will, I will stay in Manchukuo forever."

There is nothing non-European about Japan's action in setting up a dummy ruler in Manchuria. Napoleon did it, and the Romans and Alexander did it, long ago. The British have strings on many little Indian and other potentates. Why not Japan?

THIS IS written on the train, going South, via the Pennsylvania and Seaboard Airline. California will want to know that both the Seaboard and the Atlantic Coast Line have cut running time from New York to Miami. It used to be two days and one night, or two nights and one day.

This train makes the run in thirty hours. California will ask the Union Pacific, Santa Fe and other transcontinental routes, and the Interstate Commerce Commission:

"What are you going to do about that?"

Airlines will answer all such questions so soon, however, that it is not worth while to bother about a few hours. You that read this will also read the advertisement:

"New York to San Francisco, by Diesel engine plane, fifteen dollars, meals not included. Flying time, ten hours."

Around the world trips will take entire schools and their faculties, and the flying will be

MARKETS BOOM ON MESSAGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Speculative markets raced higher in heavy trading today as far-reaching monetary developments were unfolded at Washington.

Strong prior to the President's message requesting limitation of dollar revaluation to between 50 and 60 per cent of former parity, stocks and staples reached their best prices after the message had been read and after the Treasury had announced that it would set its gold purchase price at $34.45 an ounce, compared with the $34.06 quotation which has held since December 18.

Shares had a general advance of $1 to more than $5, with larger gains for some of the more volatile issues. Wheat's gain exceeded 3 cents a bushel, and cotton was up around $1.50 a bale. The dollar declined both here and abroad.

Foreign exchange rates rallied strongly, French francs climbing nearly ¼ cent to 6.37, and sterling around 7 cents to above $5.15.

Bonds, particularly speculative issues, rose briskly. United States government securities joined the advance.

Share prices around the beginning of the last hour included: United States Steel, 52, up $3.12; American Telephone, $119.25, up $5.25; Johns-Manville, $61, up $4; General Motors, $36.50, up $2; Chrysler, $52.62, up $2; du Pont, $96.62, up $4.25; Homestake Mining, $328, up $18.

DR. WYNEKOOP BREAKS DOWN IN TRIAL

ROOSEVELT ASKS 'CUT' DOLLAR

Congress Requested to Back 50-60 Cent Price

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Roosevelt fluctuating dollar plan was put up to Congress today with expectation of approval.

The President, in a message that aroused conflicting comment in Senate and House, envisioned a dollar to range between 50 and 60 cents of the present gold backing. The value presumably would be shitted in accordance with a commodity price pattern that remains to be disclosed.

Secretary Morgenthau would have charge of the program, once the legislation is enacted. As a prelude, the Treasury cheapened the dollar about two cents by promising to pay beginning tomorrow $34.45 an ounce for newly mined domestic gold, as compared with the $34.06 RFC price today.

PRICE BRACKET

This brought the theoretical gold value of the dollar to within the 50-60 cents bracket mentioned by the President.

In his message he also asked Congress to invest title in the government to all American monetary gold.

From the over $3,500,000,000 profits which would derive from slashing the gold backing for the currency by 50 per cent, a $2,000,000,000 fund was proposed by the President for federal dealings in foreign exchange and government bonds.

Similar in some respects to the British equalization fund that

Repeal No Pardon For 'Dry' Convicts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today declined to open prison doors for persons convicted of violating the national prohibition act.

The court declined to grant a writ of review sought by Alfred R. Nerbonne, inmate of Lewisburg (Pa.) Federal Prison, who contended that he was being held illegally under a prohibition conviction because of repeal.

McNair Paid $604, Uses $217 for Taxes

Mayor McNair received $604.84 today for the services he has given the city these last two weeks.

Today was payday—McNair's first. As soon as he recived his check the Mayor, who has been urging city employes to collect taxes, paid the taxes on his own home at 1212 North Sheridan avenue, which is in the name of his wife. His bill was $217.02.

CWA Here Takes Only 4,000 Off Welfare Rolls

Less than 4,000 persons have been taken from the Allegheny County relief rolls since inauguration of the civil works employment program, George Mills, relief director, said today.

This is despite the fact that last week's CWA payroll, according to Administrator James L. Stuart, showed 21,000 employed on CWA projects.

Civil Works Administration regulations require that 50 per cent of all jobs are to go to persons on relief.

DELAY CITED

Philip W. Gibbs, local employment director, and A. W. Motley, state director, said, however, that the regulations were being followed to the letter. They said some of the CWA projects were of short duration and the worker was not removed from the relief rolls until an investigator had visited him and ascertained he was definitely at work.

The employment heads said there also was delay in removing the needy from the relief rolls even after they had gone to work.

The result, they said, is that many names remain on the rolls even after the persons have gone to work under the CWA.

POLITICS CHARGED

The disclosure followed revelation that union carpenters employed on CWA projects are being compelled to sign agreements to

BIDDLE BACKS CONVICTED AIDE

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan., 15.—Eric H. Biddle, State Civil Works administrator, today offered to resign his post rather than discharge David W. Charles, of Merion, whom he appointed assistant comptroller of the CWA "with a full knowledge" that Charles was facing charges of using bank funds for personal speculation.

Charles last Friday was given a suspended three-year sentence in Montgomery County courts. He was formerly assistant treasurer of the Merion Title and Trust Company. Biddle said:

"As executive director of the State Emergency Relief Board and later as State Civil Works Administrator I have never deviated from the policy of attempting to place the best person available in every position. "This case is no exception to that rule."

Biddle said he made a personal investigation of the charges on which Charles was convicted and found they were "based on the fine spun technical question as to whether certain acts or commissions on his part as a junior bank official indirectly might have caused the bank a loss."

NEW COUNTY WARD HOME PROPOSED

Lincoln Ave. Property Of Good Shepherd Order Favored

County Commissioners today proposed purchase of Eudes Institute, owned by Sisters of the Good Shepherd, 1625 Lincoln avenue, as a Juvenile Court headquarters and home, to replace the present "firetrap" detention quarters in Oakland.

The price is $125,000, and Commissioner C. M. Barr estimates an additional $40,000 will be necessary to put the four-story brick structure in shape for occupancy of the court.

Newly elected Judge Gustav L. Schramm, of Juvenile Court, and the Court Board heard the proposal at a meeting of the Commissioners tow hich they had been summoned this afternoon.

TERMS OUTLINED

No formal agreement for purchase of the property has been made, the Commissioners said. They have authority to act without approval of the court board.

Under terms of the proposed purchase $40,000 would be paid in cash and $85,000 would go to paying off 4 per cent mortgages over a period of three years.

The building, erected in 1906, is being used by the Sisters of the Good Shepherd as a home for delinquent and dependent children. It is 50 by 200 feet, has 36,000 square feet of floor space and a bed capacity of 125.

NEW HOME URGED

The site comprises between 11 and 12 acres. It is about two miles from the heart of East Liberty.

The plan is to house both the Juvenile Court and detention home in the building.

Erection of a new Juvenile court home by means of a loan from the Federal government was recently urged by the western branch of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs of the Public Charities Association.

A. L. Wills, superintendent of the present detention home at 3336 Fifth avenue, has asserted any attempt to remodel the existing plant would be a waste of money. The home has a capacity of from 60 to 65 children but frequently houses many more, at times in excess of 90.

Defies Murder Charges As State Airs Theory Of Insurance Plot

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop broke down and sobbed openly today when her attorney described her love for Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, the daughter-in-law for whose murder she is being tried.

Defiantly she had listened to State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty pile up the ominous contention of the prosecution that the 62-year-old woman had killed her son's wife to collect $10,000 life insurance.

Almost balefully she had drawn herself up to full height to refute by her attitude the state's promise to prove that her son Earle had purchased cartridges for the gun that killed Rheta on the very day the life insurance policies arrived at the Wynekoop home.

WEEPS AT KIND WORDS

It took kind words to twist the dagger in the woman doctor's heart, and bring unashamed tears to her wrinkled face. W. W. Smith, chief defense counsel, said:

"The unfortunate Rheta was continually complaining because Earle would not support her, and because the greatest love she got in life came from this defendant."

Dr. Wynekoop was in a hurry to have Rheta insured because she said Rheta was going to "take a trip out West," declared State's Attorney Dougherty in his opening address to the jury.

Yet the state will prove that no trip of any kind was ever contemplated by the red-haired Rheta, who lived with her mother-in-law, although estranged from her husband, Earle, said Prosecutor Dougherty.

Three months after the insurance was taken out Rheta was dead, and Dr. Wynekoop was the beneficiary of $10,000 worth of in-

RUM SALES NET $15,000 IN DAY

Pittsburghers spent more than $15,000 in the three state liquor stores here in their opening day.

Philip W. Gundelfinger, superintendent of liquor stores in this district, today gave out the figures for business Saturday, the first for stores in the city.

Three more stores were added in the county today, one at 1805 Carson street, making the fourth in Pittsburgh; at 1213 South Main street, Sharpsburg, and in Oakmont. The three bring the total for Allegheny County to 10.

Tomorrow, stores will be opened at Forbes and Atwood streets and at 1629 Beaver avenue, Gundelfinger said. Difficulty in obtaining satisfactory leases is delaying the opening of stores in some districts, he said.

The county ultimately will have 22 liquor dispensaries.

New Kensington's first store opened today at 1011 Fifth avenue.

Falling Tree Branch Perils British King

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The royal motor car, containing King George, Premier Ramsay MacDonald, the Duke and Duchess of York and Princess Elizabeth, narrowly escaped being hit by the falling branch of a tree yesterday.

Just as the car drew up to Sandringham Church, a six-foot limb was dislodged by a strong wind. It banged down on the roadway only a few yards behind the car.

Virginia Bruce Walks Out on Star; Takes Baby Along

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15.—Hollywood fairly rocked and reverberated once more today with the news that the fourth marital venture of John Gilbert, noted the world over as "the great lover" of the screen, had gone on the rocks.

His bride of little more than a year, titian-haired Virginia Bruce admitted that she had moved out of their luxurious tower road home in Beverly Hills, taking their five-month's old daughter Susan with her, and that she and the dashing Jack had separated.

With baby, bags and baggage she has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Briggs in North Hollywood and after settling herself there, as she says for an "indefinite stay" she gave out the following statement:

"Yes, it is true. Jack and I have separated. I do not contemplate any divorce action—that is immediately.

"Jack and I simply could not agree on some things and we both decided to give each other a chance to think things over.

"I think still that he is grand . . . I hope it all turns out for the best."

Back in the Gilbert Beverly Hills residence Jack said tersely:

"I have nothing to say."

The couple was married in Gilbert's dressing room at a movie studio August 10, 1932, between scenes of a picture. It was Gilbert's fourth marriage and the first for Miss Bruce.

Gilbert's marriages to Olivia Burrell, Leatrice Joy and Ina Claire ended in divorce.

POSTMAN FLEES IN STAMP THEFT

As a warrant was issued today by the United States Commissioner for Harry H. Middleman, 32, a letter carrier of the McKeesport postoffice, on a charge of removing an uncancelled stamp from a letter last Friday, McKeesport police reported him missing.

Middleman was taken into custody by Postal Inspectors D. H. Stephens and L. C. Kennedy Friday, but later released pending his surrender Saturday. He failed to appear, officials said. Inspectors declared Middleman confessed removing uncancelled and substituting cancelled stamps on letters, and substituting three-cent with two-cent stamps on local letters over a prolonged period of time.

Mrs. Middleman today reported him missing, McKeesport police told Deputy United States Marshal D. A. Goldman. Middleman has been in the postal service 13 years.

Hevia Named President of Cuba

U. S.-Trained Navy Man Takes Reins On Island

HAVANA, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Carlos Hevia, secretary of agriculture, was named president of Cuba today.

His appointment was made by the revolutionary Junta—the leaders of the revolutionary government which placed Ramon Grau San Martin in power some time ago. Grau San Martin tendered his resignation last night.

Carlos Mendieta, Nationalist leader, was regarded as another possible choice for president and the Junta remained deadlocked nearly 24 hours over the selection of the new chief executive of the nation. Mendieta approved Hevia's appointment.

Shortly before the announcement was made that Cuba had a new president, the troops at Camp Columbia suddenly were assembled and four 3-inch field pieces were mounted at strategic points.

An expectant but undemonstrative crowd of several hundred persons gathered at the presidential palace and throngs of curious also gathered at the naval headquarters where sandbag barricades had been erected.

Hevia is the only Cuban ever to be graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

For that reason he commanded the revolutionary expedition against former President Gerardo Machado which landed in August, 1931, at Gibara, Oriente Province, only to be bottled up promptly by Machado's troops. He was imprisoned and exiled to the United States.

Picked machine-gunners remained on guard about the American-owned Cuban Electric Company plants as the government retained its control over the concern after a violent strike by employes.

Under a hastily prepared decree signed by President Grau, the government took charge of the $100,000,000 property early Sunday when all power and gas facilities for a large part of the island were cut off.

PROTEST SEIZURES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Acting Secretary of State Phillips today said the United States would send "appropriate instructions" to Jefferson Caffery, President Roosevelt's personal representative in Cuba, concerning seizure of properties of the Cuban Electric Company by the Cuban government.

Phillips' announcement followed a conference at the State Department with S. J. Mahoney, president of the Cuban Electric Company.

Mahoney protested against the seizure of property owned by his company, an affiliate of the Electric Bond and Share, valued at approximately 200 million dollars.

LABOR CHIEFS MEET JAN. 24 TO REPORT ON NRA

30-HOUR WEEK DEMAND TO BE SPURRED

Jobless Figures Still High; A. F. L. Fights Company Unions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Heads of the international unions composing the American Federation of Labor will gather in Washington January 24 to report on actual operation of NRA all over the country and to draft a program of legislative demands to protect worker interest.

The A. F. of L. program probably will be the signal for numerous efforts to amend the industrial law, most of which are being held in abeyance by their sponsors until labor decides what it wants.

The essentials of the program probably will call for radical shortening of work hours and substantial increase of minimum wages, plus definite legislation to forbid employer-fostered company unions.

SURVEY BEING MADE

Besides the reports of the union heads, the federation is having assembled a survey of NRA results outside of union channels. College economists have been enlisted for this task to give the result an impartial tinge.

At present the feeling of labor leaders, as privately expressed, combines dissatisfaction and alarm. Outwardly they minimize the alarm part, support NRA principles and insist on a 30-hour work week and a say in the government of coded industries.

The federation estimates of reemployment, however, are considered frankly discouraging. The labor statisticians report 6,400,000 new jobs made under the entire recovery program, including the Public Works and Civil Works Administration, but at the same time place the number of those still jobless at 10,702,000, suggesting a constant loss in regular employment. At the low point of last March the unemployment estimate stood at 13,000,000.

HIT COMPANY UNIONS

Of the 6,400,000 new jobs they credit only 1,800,000 to private industry operating under codes. An average reduction of 4½ hours in the work time of industrial employes is the net credited to the codes.

However, the most serious issue from the union side, the leaders say, is the increase in company unions, and the organized, aggressive campaign against national unions they assert is now being waged by industrialists generally.

Outstanding cases of what the employers call "employe representation" plans are now before the National Labor Board, NRA and the Department of Justice, but so far nothing definite has been done. Senator Wagner, Labor Board chairman, is drafting a bill to remove all doubts as to where employe rights begin and end, and to give government encouragement rather than passive assent to unionization.

Ban of Court on NRA Enforcement Continued

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 15.—(INS.)—A temporary order restraining NRA authorities from enforcing provisions of the suit and coat industry code in Connecticut was continued for 10 days in Federal Court here today by United States Judge Edwin S. Thomas.

The action, brought by five Connecticut manufacturers, seeks to permanently enjoin Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and the State NRA from enforcing the code in that industry on the grounds it has ruined business through its wage and hour restrictions.

David P. Siegel, of New York City, announced last night that 100 coat and suit manufacturers in New York will challenge the right of the National Recovery Administration to enforce their code.

RAY TO DEVOTE TIME TO NRA

Wilson K. Ray has been relieved of his duties as district manager of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce to devote all of his time as NRA compliance director here, Charles A. Carpenter, of Pittsburgh, has been appointed acting manager of the commerce office.

Carpenter attended Cornell University and has specialized in engineering and economics. His duties will cover Western Pennsylvania Eastern Ohio and West Virginia.

TIRE DEALERS MAKE PROTEST

Unfair competition by several national tire manufacturers against local distributors and dealers seeking City of Pittsburgh business today was charged by the tire dealers' division of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association.

Bids at prices, in some instances, as much as 25 and 30 per cent under the wholesale price to dealers are being submitted, it was charged. Protests were written to two well known manufacturers by the association, W. N. Owings, secretary, charged the manufacturers with unethical practices. The protest further stated that "such practice was discriminating against dealers of this district who have money invested in their business."

While the tire dealers have no retail code, Owings said, the protest nevertheless cited the bidding was against the purpose of the NRA and that the competition should be eliminated.

RULING DELAYED ON CAPTIVE PITS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—National Labor Board officials said the chances of reaching a decision today on the disputes between owners of the Western Pennsylvania captive mines and the elected representatives of their employes are remote.

It had been hoped that negotiations toward an agreement would be completed by telephone with industrial members of the board. This was not possible, however, as none of these members was in Washington.

Officials of the board said the long-awaited decision probably will not be handed down until tomorrow or Wednesday.

MINES WORKING DESPITE STRIKE

WILKES-BARRE, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Attempts of the United Anthracite Miners' Union to tie up coal production in the northern tier fell short of its mark today.

Surveys showed at least half of the collieries were operating with work for about 20,000 men.

Pickets and police crossed each other's paths at colliery outposts but several hours after the strike offensive began no reports of disorder had been heard.

Independent surveys showed that the picket lines were comparatively light. All companies reported they had at least one colliery working, although production in many instances was only at 50 per cent of capacity.

Headquarters of the union which authorized the strike in defiance of the U. M. W. of A. claimed that a partial report listed 12 collieries in the idle group with the number of men thrown out of work estimated at 12,000.

CANADA JAILS MARTIN INSULL

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Martin J. Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, was jailed today when Justice Charles Garrow denied a motion to free him from custody. Previously he had been at liberty on $10,000 bail.

Insull now stands under order of extradition to Cook County, Illinois, to face trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement involving losses growing out of the collapse of Mid-West Utilites.

It was indcated that Insull would make a further fight against a return to Chicago, appealing next from the extradition order issued last fall.

U. S. Loans Railroad 2 Million for Cars

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(INS.)—A loan of two million dollars to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company to purchase 50 new passenger cars was announced by the Public Works Administration today.

Work will get under way in March, as a result of this allotment, in the shops where coaches are built and in the connected industries. A previous allotment of three and one-half million dollars has been made to the New Haven for repair and rebuilding of locomotives, cars and other equipment in the Readville (Mass.) and Van Nest (N. Y.) shops.

RELIEF ROLLS HELPED LITTLE BY CWA

pay half of their wages to their union locals when they are in arrears on dues.

Charges that the CWA activities here are dominated by politics brought action today from Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator in Washington.

An International News Service dispatch said Hawkins sent orders to Eric Biddle, state CWA director, today to investigate the charges of political domination.

The CWA had been expected to absorb at least a third of the 60,000 persons on the rolls of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association, of which Mills is the director.

Examination of the records for the week ending January 4 disclosed only 1,500 persons had been stricken from the relief rolls up to that date. The CWA payroll as of that date showed 13,000 employed on CWA projects.

UNION DUES LOCAL RULE

While there were no more current figures available, Mills said that since January 4 the total stricken from the list is less than 4,000.

The practice of carpenters' union locals in requiring union men to assign half of their pay to pay up back dues is an entirely local program, according to William L. Hutcheson, international president of the Carpenters' and Joiners' Brotherhood at Indianapolis.

Inquiry in other cities revealed the unions are being lenient toward jobless men who are in arrears in their dues. Philadelphia, Cleveland, Harrisburg and Cincinnati district council officials said they were not making demands on the men, but are obtaining voluntary payments.

Hutcheson declared that district unions have local autonomy in matters such as waiving delinquent dues for cash settlement. He said that after the district council passed on it, it would be referred to the president for sanction.

William J. Kelly, business agent of the Pittsburgh district council, declared the council would have been "perfectly within its right" to have denied union privileges to any but paid-up members. Instead, however, he maintained, the payment plan was a humanitarian act. He had nothing to say about the stringent terms of the plan which took, in some cases, more than 65 per cent of the man's earnings for the first week.

PROBE AT STANDSTILL

The district business agent reiterated his denial that carpenters were taken off the Cathedral of Learning project because of nonpayment of back dues or failure to affiliate themselves with the union.

The investigation ordered Saturday by State CWA Administrator Eric H. Biddle was at a standstill over the week-end with James L. Stuart, local deputy administrator, taking personal charge. Reviewing the statement issued by Kelly, he expressed himself as being at a loss to know what he could investigate. He said:

"Hasn't Kelly admitted everything? Hasn't he made the statement that the collections were for back dues?

"I don't see that there is anything more I can do about it. Of course, I shall report to Mr. Biddle."

surance with a double indemnity clause for accidental death. The premiums were paid, although those on Dr. Wynekoop's own life and her son's were in default at the time.

CARTRIDGES BOUGHT

And the day the insurance policy was delivered Earle Wynekoop, Rheta's husband, purchased cartridges for his gun and delievered them to his mother.

These are the main points of the state's case against the woman doctor, as outlined by the prosecutor with calm earnestness. His charges culminated in a half-strangled "Oh!" from the defendant when Earle, her "boby" son, was mentioned. It was the first show of fire she betrayed all morning.

The prosecution did not demand the death penalty, but made no mention of the kind of punishment expected.

The opening speech described a cold-blooded, carefully-planned crime, the details of which held a courtroom spelbound for almost an hour.

No time wos spent going into thec lose relation between Earle and his mother, no dramatics indulged in. Just a recital of how a younw woman, unsuspecting, walked into a trap, every spring of which had been greased and tested, for her undoing.

FRIEND TO TESTIFY

Dr. Wynekoop's friend, Julia HcCarthy, an insurance saleswoman, will testify as to the woman physician's anxiety to get the policy signed quickly, it was said.

Insurance agents will tell how they never saw Rheta during negotiations for the policy, but gave the policy to the mother-in-law, who carried it upstairs for signature.

A doctor who rejected the girl as an insurance prospect will testify that Dr. Wynekoop unsolicited sent the results of a blood test to him, to prove that Rheta was a legitimate insurance risk, the prosecutor said.

It will also be shown, he added, that Dr. Wynekoop prepared for the theory of a crime committed by prowlers by telling friends tthree times her house had been burglarized, although never reporting the eventts to police.

WHEELED INTO COURT

Dr. Wynekoop, a sick old woman, had been wheeled into court to answer the charge that she murdered her daughter-in-law.

The woman physician, who was so weak after a heart attack she could not walk a step, was lifted from a wheelchair to her seat at counsel table, after lengthy discussion of the effect of this "strain" on her general condition.

At her side, throughout the trial, it was decided, a physician must be posted to watch her heart action, lest death cheat the state of it's chance to prove that the pretty wife of Earle Wynekoop met her death at the hands of an over-material mother mother-in-law, hard pressed for cash. State's Attorney Dougherty, his back to the clay-faced defendant, began his opening address, describing the crime, at 10:30 a. m.

Up until 10:25 it was problematical whether Dr. Wynekoop would be able to attend without special dispensation of the court. For 25 minutes lawyers argued the proposition that she come into the court in her wheelchair.

STRAIN DANGEROUS

Defense attorneys claimed the woman had been advised by physicians that any strain would be dangerous, even that of being transferred from her wheelchair to walk across the room, since her heart was weak.

State's attorneys protested all her symptoms were subjective and indicated they would like a neutral physician to examine her.

By mutual agreement, however, Dr. James Whitney Hall, alienist who figured in the Loeb-Leopold case, was called to the stand. He testified he had examined the elderly doctor this morning and found her heart in bad shape. He said:

"It is not performing its duty properly, that is plain. The heart is suffering an air hunger, resulting in rapid breathing. Her pulse is 94, normal pulse for her age is around 74."

Dr. Wynekoop's life is in jeopardy during any physical or mental stress, declared Dr. Hall, and the transfer from wheelchair to courtroom chair would be a strain, he said. He added:

"But it would be less strain if she were transferred from the wheelchair in the courtroom without walking a step, before the jury entered the box."

As this procedure was adopted spectators stirred in their seats. Judge David shouted a warning that they were there "on sufferance" and might be ejected at any time. He cried:

"This is no show—it is a law suit!

"There will be no display of curiosity."

Pinchot Declared 'Very Much Better'

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, who is at St. Luke's Hospital recovering from an attack of shingles, was described as feeling "very much better" today. A secretary said:

"The Governor spent a restful night and is feeling much better than he has for two or three days."

Bride Balking At Motherhood Gets Divorce

MRS. MARION Z. KAHN

WIFE NAMES 'UNKNOWN'

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Marion Zucker Kahn, young bride whose husband unsuccessfully sued for an annulment in 1931 because she refused to have children, has divorced the suing husband, Alfred, it was revealed today.

Granting of the decree was confirmed by Mrs. Kahn's attorney, Joseph Robinson, who said:

"Mrs. Kahn has obtained a divorce in this state.

"I think reconciliation is highly unlikely. I made no attempt to bring one about during either annulment or divorce proceedings."

The divorce, he revealed, was undefended. The girl had detectives follow her husband for three months in the fall of 1932 and two months in the spring of 1933. An "unknown woman" was corespondent in the final action.

The husband, Alfred Kahn, today would say nothing.

Mrs. Kahn's refusal to become a mother and the resultant annulment suit caused wide comment among feminists and clerical leaders.

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, head of the Birth Control League, said:

"I consider Marion Kahn's refusal to become a mother until financially able to care for a child a splendid example of conscious maternity."

Gunmen Loot Two New Jersey Banks

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Forcing three men to lie on the floor, two masked robbers, both armed, held up the Fairview Agency of the West Jersey Trust Company in South Camden today and escaped with several hundred dollars.

HILLSIDE, N. J., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Three men flourishing revolvers entered the Hillside Trust Company today, forced three employes and several customers of the bank into a rear room and fled with cash believed to be not more than $500.

BANK TAX CASE PERILS COUNTY FINANCES

Means $800,000 Cut in Revenue If Court Upholds Law

The credit of Allegheny County will be impaired if the county is prevented from collecting the four-mill tax on interest bearing bank deposits, Thomas E. Whitten, assistant county solicitor, told Judge Thomas P. Trimble in Orphans Court today.

Whitten made the statement in arguing that the Einstein Act exempting such deposits from taxation is unconstitutional.

BACKS EINSTEIN ACT

The right of the county to collect the tax was attacked by counsel for the estate of James Downley, late of 42 South Thirty-second street. George E. Alter, former Attorney General, joined A. C. Teplitz and Arthur D. Scully as counsel for the estate.

Alter told the court the Einstein Act was reasonable and should be sustained on the grounds of public policy. In response to the county's contention that the Legislature has no authority to pass a special law exempting any property from taxation, he pointed out that farmers are not required to pay an occupation tax, and said that if the act is declared constitutional, it will be in the interest of the public and the banks.

MEANS $800,000 CUT

Alter said the Supreme Court in 1929 sustained an act of the Legislature exempting from gross receipts of motor buses and taxicabs.

Whitten said the county would be deprived of approximately $800,000 a year if the tax repealer is upheld. T. Ralph Barr, in charge of the personal property tax division of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes, testified that amount was collected as the tax last year.

After hearing the arguments, Judge Trimble directed both sides to submit briefs.

MDIVANI 'BOYS' GO ON TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Charged with the grand theft of $30,746 in funds from the Pacific Shore Oil Company, David and Serge Mdivani, petroleum operators, but better known as Georgian princes and former husbands of stage and screen celebrities, go on trial in Superior Court today.

It was for this case a process server tried to deliver a subpena to Alexis Mdivani, husband of the heiress, Barbara Hutton. He escaped it by keeping out of California and sailing from Vancouver, B. C., to join his bride in Japan. She sailed from San Francisco.

The interest of the state in Alexis arose from the assertion of the defendants that they did not take the money, but placed it in trust with their brother so it could not be attached. They deny any wrong doing.

The brothers recently were divorced, David by Mae Murray, the actress, and Serge by Mary McCormic, the singer. Formerly Serge was married to Pola Negri, actress.

Standard Oil Closes 800 Gas Stations

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced today it would discontinue operating 800 leased service stations in Indiana by the end of January because of the increase of Indiana's chain store tax from $25 to $150 a unit.

Leases and employment agreements are being canceled as rapidly as possible, the company said, and it understood other gasoline companies were adopting a similar course.

Auto Licenses Far Ahead of '33 Mark

HARRISBURG, Jan. 15.—(INS)—Automobile licenses issued for 1934 at the middle of January today exceed by 46,486 the aggregate on January 15 of last year, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles reported today.

The total issued to date is 1,292,707. Applications filled during the first half of January this year have exceeded by more than 23,000 the number of tags issued in the first 15 days of January, 1932.

Four Ralph Smiths Here In Identity Tangle

If you care for parlor games try untangling Pittsburgh's Ralph Smiths.

There are four of them and they're constantly victims of incorrect indentification.

There's young Judge Ralph H. Smith, Pinchot spokesman. His office is in the Law and Finance Building.

There's Police Magistrate Ralph E. Smith, a Democrat. He sits at Central Police Court.

Then there are two attorneys—Ralph L. Smith, in the Union Trust Building, and Ralph Frank Smith in the Fifth-Grant Building.

What's more, the Fifth-Grant Building at Fifth avenue and Grant street is unrelated to the Grant Building at Grant street and Third avenue.

'Wolf of Wall Street' Unmourned at Morgue

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Unwept and unbefriended, the body of David Lamar, whose financial operations won him the appellation "The Wolf of Wall Street," today lay unclaimed at the morgue while an attorney sought relatives and friends to arrange funeral services for the one-time spectacular speculator.

Lamar died of heart disease in a mid-town hotel room where for the past several months he had been living in obscurity and near poverty.

Neither relative nor friend appeared to claim the body of the man through whose fingers once trickled millions from gullible stock market players.

The only person interesting himself in the death was Armin Kohn, an attorney. Kohn said he had tried to communicate with Dorothy Lamar, a daughter of "The Wolf" now living in Pittsfield, Mass., and also with Lamar's second wife, the former Edna Eck, but had received no word from either of them.

Kohn said he had arranged to pay for burial of the broken speculator if it is found Lamar died without sufficient funds.

In death as in life, Lamar remained the Lone Wolf.

His origin, his real name and his family connections remained a secret with himself alone. Even those once intimate with him were unable to throw any light on Lamar's early history.

RUDY FLEES EAST TO ESCAPE FAY'S PROCESS SERVERS

LEAVES STARS WAITING AT GALA BALL

Wife Offered $3,000 To Appear in N. Y. Cabaret

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Rudy Vallee sped eastward toward New York by train today to fulfill contract engagements, leaving behind for the moment process servers and the turmoil of Fay Webb Vallee's separate maintenance action against him.

Vallee forsook his duties as master of ceremonies at the Screen Actors' Guild ball Saturday night and boarded an airplane for Needles, Cal., where he took the train for New York.

Reports that Alice Faye, featured singer with Vallee's orchestra, had accompanied him were denied at a film studio and at Miss Faye's home.

Mrs. Vallee's saparate maintenance suit accuses Vallee of association with Miss Faye and asks alimony of $7,400 monthly.

Mrs. Vallee's father, Clarence Webb, Santa Monica, Cal., chief of police, said she had been offered $3,000 a week to play in a New York night club in opposition to her husband. Webb said his daughter's health prevented acceptance.

Fay Only 'Kidding' On Phone, Leon Says

Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15.—Gary Leon, adagio dancer, whose spicy telephone chats with Fay Webb Vallee were revealed in a New York courtroom by Rudy Vallee last week, today described Fay as "a girl who used to fall in and out of love."

Leon said it was "ridiculous" to think that he and Mrs. Vallee, who had known each other since both were in grammar school, carried on any real romance. As his dancer bride, Marian Mitchell, looked on and listened, Leon said:

"Fay was engaged half a dozen times before she was married. To understand those telephone conversations I had with Fay anyone would have to know our whole history. I had known Fay since she was 10 and I was 12.

"Knowing each other since we were children, naturally, we were not formal about our conversation. Fay was just sort of kidding when she made those references over the telephone."

Gould to Reopen Casino at Nice

NICE, France, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Frank Jay Gould, American sportsman, is reliably reported to be planning to reopen his casino, Palais Mediterrane, next winter under his personal direction.

The casino, which has been under lease, was closed recently because of the lack of tourists. The present operator was understood to have given up his lease.

Fugitive Asks Return to Prison

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Irene McCann, 23, who twice escaped from the Women's Penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo., decided today that freedom was beginning to pall and asked the police to send her back to prison.

She had fled from the Missouri Prison while serving a 10-year term for second degree murder. Her husband, Albert, is serving 50 years for the same crime, the murder of Keeper Bray of the Joplin City Jail on May 29, 1931.

Weather Conditions.

There are a number of highs and lows on the map this morning. The more important ones are located over the panhandle of Texas, and north of the Great Lakes, separating a high over the Gulf States from another over the far Northwest. There is some cloudiness over the Middle Atlantic States and westward over the central plains, but for the country as a whole, the skies are most clear. Precipitation was limited to light snow over Western Pennsylvania and Ohio, Lake Erie, and rain or snow west of the Rocky Mountains. Temperature changes were slight east of the Mississippi, but there was a rather marked rise over the central plains and a drop in the North west.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 3.4 feet; Lock No. 7, Mon., 12.8; Pittsburgh, 12.7; Dam No. 4, 10.3; No. 6, 9.7; No. 10, 10.3; No. 12, 9.2. The dams are up.

CO-EDS SEEKING 4-DATE WEEKS

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The reward for girls who study hard at Allegheny College is the privilege of having four "dates" a week each if they want 'em.

That is, if the faculty approves a new set of rules the girls have drafted and it is expected approval will be given at a meeting today.

Besides the maximum of four "dates" the good students would be allowed four "special permissions" each month. A "special permission" would allow a visit to friends in town overnight except when attending college parties.

The women students at their meeting fixed up a scale that goes like this:

Those with an "A" average, four dates a week and four special permissions a month; with "B" average three dates a week and three special permissions a month, and with "C" average two dates a week and two special permissions a month.

MAYVIEW HELD FIRE TRAP

Mayview is to have its own volunteer fire department and fire alarm system if recommendations of Southard Hay, director of welfare, is approved by Council.

Hay today sent a letter to Council asking authority to name three men as a nucleus of a fire department at the city home and hospital. He inclosed a communication from Louis J. Conley, assistant city fire chief, stating that conditions at Mayview presented serious fire hazard.

Conley set forth that many doors swing inward, that there are many dead-end corridors, that wiring in all old buildings is bad, that fire-fighting apparatus is obsolete and the heating system dangerous in many places.

Of the fire hose, Conley said:

"I touched some and it fell apart."

done in huge ships, flying and remaining six miles up above storms and clouds, dropping passengers at their various designations and taking on passengers, on small planes, the big ship landing rarely, for repairs only.

What men can imagine, they can do, and that is easy to imagine.

WAITING FOR this train at the Trenton, N. J., station, a "fruit express" freight train, thousands of feet long, comes roaring and hammering over the rails, at slow speed for these days, high speed for a long freight train.

Thousands of wheels pound the rails and the roadbed, wasteful friction everywhere, grinding, bumping, hammering, braking.

And for such slow travel, the fruit must be picked before it is ripe. You who read will see fruit picked ripe in Florida, California, Texas, Oregon, one day, delivered in New York or Chicago the next day by giant freight, all-metal dirigibles.

Gas lighter than air will lift the load above surface conditions.

No costly right of way, no friction, perfect "road-bed," 25,000 miles wide, no front, rear or side end collisions, less cost for fuel than with fast surface freight, no gigantic investment or crippling taxes for thousands of miles of railroad tracks.

The air is free, untaxed, and does not wear out.

McKeesport Aviatrix Going in Vaudeville

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances Marsallis, of Garden City, N. Y., and Miss Helen Richey, of McKeesport, Pa., landed at Floyd Bennett airport yesterday in their monoplane from Miami, Fla., where they established a women's record for endurance flyfling.

Following a reception at the flying field, they went to a hotel to rest. They will shortly appear in vaudeville. Their refueling plane, piloted by Jack Loesing and Fred Fetterman, preceded them to a landing by several minutes.

YOUTH JAILED IN EXTORTION

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The arrest of a youth who said he was Joseph Barrett, 22, of Bayonne, N. J., on a charge of attempted extortion of $25,000 from G. H. Van Sendin, vice president of the Shell Union Gas and Oil Company, became known today.

Barrett, who said he was a student cook, was arrested last night in Van Sendin's apartment on Central Park West by detectives under Capt. Michael McDermott, of the alien squad, and federal agents under Francis X. Fay. He was held under the "Lindbergh law."

Van Sendin, who came to New York three months ago with his wife, said on January 6 he received the following letter:

"We want $25,000. You know, accidents can happen. It's best to do as you are told. We mean business. If you notify the police it means death."

Confession Reported In Extortion Plot

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Police say Stephen Popia, 42, confessed that he and his nephew, Paul Diehl, 21, of Bellaire, O., attempted to extort $5,000 from Robert and Israel Rubin, clothing merchants.

Popia, a North Wheeling unemployed mechanic, was arrested yesterday. Diehl was arrested Friday in a Bellaire drug store while in a conversation with one of the Rubins, officers assert.

Gambling Patrons Face Jail in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's drive to make New York too uncomfortable for gamblers, a campaign which has brought more than 700 arrests in four days, won the aid of Magistrate Guy Van Amringe today.

He served notice that patrons of gambling games might expect to receive sentences for disorderly conduct in the future. Hitherto patrons of gambling games, unless actually caught in the act of gambling, have gone free.

STERILIZATION HEARING DUE IN DETROIT

Charges of Trickery, Operation in Chains To Be Aired

International News Service.

DETROIT, Jan. 15.—A frightened youth chained to an operating table and forced to submit to sterilization . . .

A young girl tricked into a sterilization operation which she knew nothing about until she awakened from the ether . . .

A normal healthy young man, saved from "unjustifiable" sterilization only because money for the operation was lacking . . .

These are some of the startling charges to be aired today when the Wayne County Board of Auditors opens its inquiry into alleged "wanton violation of human rights" in sterilizing boy and girl inmates of the County Training School at Northville.

Charges that chains and trickery were used to force unwilling subjects under the surgeon's knife were made by Fred Raymond and Harold Truax, investigators for the Prosecutor's office.

CHARGES PROBED

They were assigned by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy to investigate charges of County Auditor Edward H. Williams that young public wards at the training school have been sterilized "with less regard for human rights than in Hitlerite Germany."

Mrs. Margaret Ainsworth, chief social worker at the training school, has denied Williams' charges, claiming that in every case sterilization orders from the Probate Court were carried out in accordance with Michigan law.

Data collected by the prosecutor's investigators included a report that 904 young inmates of the Michigan Home and Training School at Lapeer have been sterilized during the last 20 years. During 1933 a total of 129 boys and girls underwent the operation.

COURT BANS OPERATION

Judge Henry S. Hulbert, of Probate Court, on Saturday vacated an order for sterilization of Milton Friedberg, 21. The youth had been ordered sterilized last June while he was an inmate of the Wayne County institution. On Friday Williams had two physicians examine him and both reported him normal and healthy. They declared sterilization in his case would be "unjustifiable."

Mrs. Ainsworth said the boy would have been sterilized immediately after the order was issued last summer if there had been funds available to pay for the surgery.

Raymond and Truax said they interviewed one 18-year-old boy who told of being chained to an operating table in a hospital when he refused to submit to sterilization. His parents, according to the investigators, denied giving their permission.

KILLED ILL SON, MOTHER SAYS

International News Service.

SHARON, Pa., Jan 15.—Police today were investigating the confession of Mrs. Mary Zitnyar, 28, that she killed her 2-year-old son, Rudolph, almost four years ago.

Mrs. Zitnyar said the child was a cripple, unable to talk or walk, and in order to keep him from a life of misery, strangled him with a handkerchief. The child was buried, Mrs. Zitnyar contends, without the crime being discovered. She said she did not tell her husband until recently.

He advised her to give herself up to authorities. Conscious-stricken, she did so.

County detectives and city police said the body of the child would probably be exhumed before any other action is decided upon.

Slain in the Street

MISS ROSE BALOGH, 19 . . . SHE TURNED DOWN A PROPOSAL

Miss Balogh, New Castle church pianist, fatally shot down in the street as during a walk home she rejected the marriage proposal of John Mozesz, 23, who shot and seriously wounded himself. Suitor Mozesz six months ago went to New Castle from Pittsburg, Cal., found a job, soon met Miss Balogh at a church affair.

POPE CANONIZES NUN AS SAINT

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Six Swiss guards high on a balcony of St. Peter's Cathedral sounded their trumpets yesterday as Mother Thouret, heroic healer and educator of the French revolutionary period, was joined to the ranks of Catholic saints by Pope Pius.

The bells of Rome's 400 churches rang a paean of joy when the Pope had finished his measured Latin injunction that Giovanna Antida Thouret "be inscribed in the catalog of the saints and her memory be celebrated in the universal church every year with pious devotion."

Thousands of Italian, French and other devouts, including many Americans, cheered in close-packed unison.

Inside the cathedral were 4,000 sisters of charity, including Sisters Cecilia Castena and Paola Alfieri, who were subjects of what the congregation rites held to be miraculous cures worked through an appeal to the Mother Thouret, justifying her elevation to sainthood.

After years of research by high-ranking prelates, Mother Thouret's vouched-for healings from Heaven were recently approved by the Pope as abundant grounds for her canonization.

N. Y. Not to Put Ban On Emma Goldman

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(Universal.)—Police Commissioner O'Ryan today said he would encourage rather than prevent radical oratorical assemblies in Union Square. Even Emma Goldman, anarchist agitator, who is expected soon to return to America temporarily, will not be barred. The Commissioner said:

"The more they talk, the less harm they are likely to do."

MOROSCO NEAR DEATH IN WEST

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—On a hospital cot Oliver Morosco, the last of the trio of theatrical brains who endowed the stage with one of its greatest eras, battled for life today.

It was Belasco, Morosco and Ziegfeld who made theatrical history in the United States in the last half century.

Early Sunday a passer-by hurrying through the gloom of half-lights on Hollywood boulevard, found a man fallen flat upon the pavement. He was identified at a hospital. His jaw was broken and his head and face bruised. It was learned Morosco had collapsed from a heart attack, an illness from which the 53-year-old producer has suffered some time.

His full name was Oliver Morosco Mitchell.

Son Sent to School, Mother Released

YORK, Pa., Jan. 15.—(INS.)—Mrs. Curtis E. Howard, of Springfield Township, who was sentenced to jail for five days by a justice of the peace because she refused to send her 8-year-old son, Curtis, Jr., to school, was free today, after promising authorities the boy would attend classes. She spent two days in jail.

Curtis, meanwhile, attended school for the first time in his life.

Child Sees Father Electrocuted in Tub

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 15.—(Universal.)—Inadvertently striking a wire while taking a bath and tipping an electric heater into the tub, Andrew Patterson, 24, was electrocuted in sight of his son, Frederick, 4.

The boy saw his father stiffen and collapse, and called his mother. A pulmotor was tried without success.

SALOME BRINGS DOWN HOUSE IN COMEBACK

Opera Singer's Dance Of Seven Veils Gets 35 Curtain Calls

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—There was some artistic pother around town today over Mme. Goeta Ljungberg's dance of the Seven Veils.

When the Metropolitan Opera House did "Salome" during the reign of the first Roosevelt in 1906 the dance shocked some of the customers right out from under their diamond tiaras. The opera was promptly retired from circulation, and the Metropolitan boards once more rattled to the orthodox dancing of "Martha's" merry villagers, and such.

Much music has passed over the violin bridge in the intervening years, however, and some of the bolder spirits of art felt this year that a revival of the Richard Strauss opus might be essayed without undue reverberations.

Olive Fremstad was the "Salome" when that blood-thirsty lady made her brief Metropolitan appearance in 1906. Mme. Fremstad sang the role, but she did not do the dance. The veil-throwing routine was undertaken by a lady versed in such business, Mme. Fremstad meantime conserving her breath for certain high notes—especially an A-sharp—which had to be undertaken subsequently.

35 CURTAIN CALLS

In the current production, which was given its first performance Saturday night, and which is to be repeated Friday (everything else being equal), Mme. Ljungberg does the dance as well as the vocal. This enterprise on her part has given rise to talk among some critics that the diva might well have excused herself from the terpsichorean undertaking and concentrated on the vocal contest with the orchestra which in any Strauss entertainment is a challenge to human fortissimo.

Mme. Ljungberg stood by her veils today, however, and intimated that the 35 curtain calls she took Saturday night were not given her because the customers' hands were cold.

THE SEVEN VEILS

She said:

"They tell me that in the 1906 production the dance was fiery, languorous and full of caprice. I discussed the dance with Strauss, and I do it according to his own interpretation.

"Strauss told me he did not want the dance to be hoppy and jumpy. It was a thought dance, to him, the actual movements of the dance were secondary, symbolical. That is what he intended.

"I am not a dancer, but I am willing to do the dance so that I may sing the Salome music."

The crux of the dance controversy, as the prima donna sees it, is that the public expected an Oscar Wilde dance and got instead a Richard Strauss dance.

As sort of a fashion note Mme. Ljungberg added that the veils, one to seven inclusive, are of chiffon, and that number seven is green.

THUGS SHACKLE 8, ROB BANK

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Handcuffing eight employes and waiting for the time lock on the vault to be released, two robbers held up the Sixtieth and Ludlow streets branch of the Corn Exchange Bank and Trust Company in West Philadelphia today and escaped with $20,000.

A third member of the robber band, who remained on guard outside the bank during the holdup, fled with the others in their automobile.

The robbers entered the bank early today through a skylight. As the watchman arrived for duty, they handcuffed him, and did the same to each of the bank's seven other employes as they came in.

French Strikers Camp in City Hall

COMPIEGNE, France, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Sixty unemployed canal boat pilots have been encamped in the City Hall of Longueil-Annel since Friday, demanding financial relief.

Granted permission to hold a meeting in the hall, they decided to stay and commandeered firewood.

Five-Pound Infant Found in Suitcase

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(Universal.)—Entering his home in Brooklyn today, Harry Berkowitz heard faint cries. Investigating he found a new born baby in a brown suitcase lying on the floor of the hallway. He rushed the infant to a hospital, where physicians said it was a healthy girl of five pounds.

Body of Man Found, Believed Cold Victim

FARRELL, Pa., Jan. 15.—After a search of two days, relatives located the body of Michael Godda, 55, in a woods near the Hubbard road. Coroner William Applegate believes the man froze to death.

dominates values of the pound, this would be administered by Morgenthau.

RFC foreign gold purchases to date have approached $97,000,000.

At the White House the Treasury Secretary refused to explain details of what impends to reporters, saying official explanations were being prepared.

DEADLINE SET

The Treasury also set Wednesday night as another deadline for return of gold to the Treasury. Deliveries of this will be paid for at the mint price of $20.67 and not at the new price named for newly-mined gold, however.

Gold illegally held would be seized and the owners subject to a penalty equal to twice its value under the tentative bill submitted to Congress by President Roosevelt to carry out his program.

Chairman Fletcher, of the Senate Banking Committee, said he would submit the bill to his committee tomorrow for consideration.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader of the Senate, took the lead in supporting the President, asserting that to fix a maximum on change in the gold content of the dollar would "limit to a narrow margin the uncertainty as to what may be done regarding the subject."

Senator McNary, the Republican leader, decided to postpone comment but called a party conference for tomorrow morning to consider the Chief Executive's program and Republican tactics thereon.

Roosevelt Issues Orders On Stabilization Fund

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt today issued three executive orders paving the way for operation of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund which he will set up when Congress carries out his requests of today.

The orders, highly technical and lengthy, gave the Secretary of the Treasury definite power over all international exchange transactions involving United States currency.

The orders acted to amend those issued by the President during the banking holiday last spring prohibiting the exportation of gold.

The new orders will have little or no effect on individuals. They were directed principally at exporting and importing houses.

QUAKE KILLS 21 IN INDIA

CALCUTTA, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—At least 21 persons were killed and many were injured in a protracted earthquake which rocked all India today.

The wife and children of G. W. Brown, the British manager of the Railway Work Shop, and the wife of the Indian district medical officer were killed in the collapse of the Jamalpur Railway Station.

Eight persons were killed at Patna and nine at Gaya.

Office occupants, in Calcutta, panic stricken, rushed into the streets and many buildings were slightly damaged.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—A great earth shock, believed to have been felt somewhere off the coast of Alaska, was registered today at 8:45 a. m. on the seismographs of England. The vibrations continued long afterward.

MENACE BISHOP MURDER GROUP

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Eeven Armenians accused of the murder of Archbishop Leon Tourian in Holy Cross Armenia Church the day before Christmas were taken from Homicide Court today to the accompaniment of shrill cries of "kill the murderers," from hundreds of men and women held at bay by police.

They were returned to Tombs Prison under heavy police guard after Magistrate William Klapp had granted a further adjournment of their hearing until January 22.

Assistant District Attorney Max Weider told the magistrate the District Attorney's office was not ready and that the case was being prepared for the grand jury.

SPRAGUE AIRS MONEY PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Dr. O. M. W. Sprague told the House coinage committee today that "no country ever devalued its currency in circumstances quite like those that obtain in the United States at the present time."

Rum Imports Raised To Balk Bootleggers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(INS.)—In a determined effort to circumvent the bootlegger, the State Department today moved to permit a new flood of foreign liquor into this country during the next 15 days.

Ireland's liquor quota was increased by 150 per cent, Portugal's quota was doubled and measures were taken to expedite the movement of French and British liquor shipments, the quotas on which already have been doubled.

Treasury Raises Price of Gold 30 Cents an Ounce

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today that beginning tomorrow, January 16, the price for newly-mined domestic gold would be $34.45 an ounce, less one-quarter of 1 per cent for handling charges.

He also set Wednesday night as the deadline for delivery to the Treasury of all gold held by individuals in the United States, but not including Federal Reserve banks.

In setting a gold price at $34.45 for newly-miney domestic metal, the Treasury did not indicate whether this would be paid by the Treasury itself or the RFC, but since the corporation was not mentioned in the order, it was assumed to be the Treasury price.

The deduction of one quarter of 1 per cent, would make the metal worth to the miner approximately $34.36, or 30 cents above the price of $34.06, which the RFC has maintained for 21 business days.

The effect of the new Treasury gold price is further to cheapen the dollar's value and was assumed the preliminary to devaluation by the President after Congress has extended the authority sought in a special message today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The new Treasury gold price of $34.45 an ounce, to be effective tomorrow, will give the dollar an indicated gold value of 60 per cent, of parity, which is the upper limit of revaluation proposed by President Roosevelt.

WALL ST. SEES STABILITY

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—More stable conditions in foreign exchange and in the United States government bond markets were foreseen by Wall street monetary authorities today, on reading President Roosevelt's message to Congress requesting limitation of the devaluation of the dollar to between 60 and 50 per cent of former parity, and suggesting the establishing of a $2,000,000,000 equalization fund.

Neither extreme inflationists nor confirmed hard money men found much comfort in the message, and it was widely agreed that the administration was manifestly keeping to a middle-of-the-road policy.

Some banking experts thought, however, that more stable conditions should be expected to facilitate the huge expansion of bank credit and bank deposits, as the movement is primed by the government's expenditure program.

LONDON CALM AT MOVE

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—"Just about what was to be expected," was the authoritative comment in London financial circles today on President Roosevelt's gold program.

In the "city," the program was considered the logical development of the United States government's policy.

It was believed the re-action on the foreign exchange market here would not be materially affected, sterling being expected to hold steady at around the $5 mark or perhaps a few points above.

The President's announcement also was expected to have a stabilizing effect although de jure stabilization is not yet in sight.

Two Bank Bandits Captured in Battle

STURGIS, Mich., Jan. 15.—(INS.)—Two of the four bandits who today held up the First National Bank in Burr Oak, near here, and escaped with $1,000 in loot, were captured by state troopers at Middle Lake after a gun battle. The other two are believed surrounded.

LEADERS PRAISE PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Most congressional Democrats rallied to support of President Roosevelt's monetary program today as Senate Republicans called a party conference to shape their policy.

Speaker Rainey, stating that the new plan "isn't surprising," added that "this step does not materially affect the dollar, now about 62 cents."

Other Democratic comment:

Representative Scrugham, of Nevada, a leader of the silver campaign on the House side:

"The President is moving as fast as he can."

Representative Rankin, of Mississippi:

"If carried to its logical conclusion, it will do more to restore prosperity to the American people generally, and to the American farmers and home owners in particular, than everything else that has been done up to the present time."

Representative Koppleman, of Connecticut:

"I find mysIf in a position to be able to follow the President's leadership easier than at any time since I took office."

Representative Williams, of Missouri:

"It is proper to give benefits to the government instead of to banks."

Representative Farley, of Indiana:

"In the main it is logical, correct and fair, and I am heartily in accord with the program."

Representative Reilly, of Wisconsin:

"I don't see how we can take gold away from corporations and not from the Federal Reserve, which is after all a quasi-private organization."

In opposition, Representative Luce, of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the House Banking Committee, osserted:

"The Federal Reserve banks hold this property as trustees for the member banks, and for them it is part of the investment of the depositors, rich and poor alike, big and little, the savings of the many as well as the capital of the few.

"To take away two-fifths of their property, possibly one-half, without just compensation, would be a blot on the honor of the country."

'SHOCKING' VICE PROBE CLOSED

International News Service.

NILES, Mich., Jan. 15.—Justice Thomas Farrell, sitting as a one-man grand jury, will probably make no further inquiry into charges of "shocking" vice conditions in Berrien County, involving numerous young girls under 16.

This was indicated today when the justice failed to reopen the grand jury hearing which was adjourned Friday. He said he would confer with Patrick H. O'Brien, Attorney General, at Lansing on Wednesday, and would not announce his findings until after his conference.

Warrants for three unnamed Niles men have been issued as a result of the investigation. Justice Farrell intimated no further arrests would be ordered. One of the men named is accused of taking a 16-year-old girl across the Indiana line for allegedly immoral purposes. The other two are sought on charges involving young girls.

Subway Bond Repeal Again Before Council

A subway bond repeal ordinance was introduced in Council today by Councilman John M. Huston. It would cancel $5,880,000 remaining of the $6,000,000 voted by the people for a downtown subway.

A similar measure was passed by the old Council but was vetoed by former Mayor John S. Herron on the ground that the Transit Commission should be given further opportunity to study the project.

Full Text of Roosevelt's Message on Money

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The text of President Roosevelt's monetary message to Congress follows:

To the Congress:

In conformity with the progress we are making in restoring a fairer price level and with our purpose of arriving eventually at a less variable purchasing power for the dollar, I ask the Congress for certain additional legislation to improve our financial and monetary system.

By making clear that we are establishing permanent metallic reserves in the possession and ownership of the federal government, we can organize a currency system which will be both sound and adequate.

The issuance and control of the medium of exchange which we call "money" is a high prerogative of government.

It has been such for many centuries.

Because they were scarce, because they could readily be subdivided and transported, gold and silver have been used either for money or as a basis for forms of money which in themselves had only nominal intrinsic value.

In pure theory, of course, a government could issue mere tokens to serve as money—tokens which would be accepted at their face value if it were certain that the amount of these tokens were permanently limited and confined to the total amount necessary for the daily cash needs of the community.

Because this assurance could not always or sufficiently be given, governments have found that reserves or bases of gold and silver behind their paper or token currency added stability to their financial systems.

MUCH CONFUSION

Their is still much confusion of thought which prevents a world-wide agreement creating a uniform monetary policy.

Many advocate gold as the sole basis of currency; others advocate silver; still others advocate both gold and silver whether as separate bases, or on a basis with a fixed ration, or on a fused basis.

We hope that, despite present world confusion, events are leading to some future form of general agreement. The recent London agreement in regard to silver was a step, though only a step, in this direction.

At this time we can usefully take a further step, which we hope will contribute to an ultimate world-wide solution.

Certain lessons seem clear. For example, the free circulation of gold coins is unnecessary, leads to hoarding, and tends to a possible weakening of nation financial structures in times of emergency.

The practice of transferring gold from one individual to another or from the government to an individual within a nation is not only unnecessary, but is in every way undesirable. The transfer of gold in bulk is essential only for the payment of international trade balances.

Therefore it is a prudent step to vest in the government of a nation the title to and possession of all monetary gold within its boundaries and to keep that gold in the form of bullion rather than in coin.

Because the safekeeping of this monetary basis rests with the government, we have already called in the gold which was in the possession of private individuals or corporations. There remains, however, a very large weight in gold bullion and coins which is still in the possession or control of the Federal Reserve banks.

SPECIFIC ENACTMENT

Although under existing law there is authority, by executive act, to take title to the gold in the possession or control of the reserve banks, this is a step of such importance that I prefer to ask the Congress to specific enactment to vest in the United States government title to all supplies of American-owned monetary gold, with provision for the payment therefor in gold certificates.

These gold certificates will be, as now, secured at all times dollar for dollar by gold in the treasury—gold for each dollar of such weight and fineness as may be established from time to time.

Such legislation places the right, title and ownership to our gold reserves in the government itself; it makes clear the government's ownership of any added dollar value of the country's stock of gold which would result from any decrease of the gold content of the dollar which may be made in the public interest.

It would also, of course, with equal justice, cast upon the government the loss of such dollar value if the public interest in the future should require an increase in the amount of gold designated as a dollar.

The title to all gold being in the government, the total stock will serve as a permanent and fixed metallic reserve which will change in amount only so far as necessary for the settlement of international balances or may be required by a future agreement among the nations of the world for a redistribution of the world stock of monetary gold.

WORLD UNCERTAINTIES

With the establishment of this permanent policy, placing all monetary gold in the ownership of the government as a bullion base for its currency, the time has come for a more certain determination of the gold value of the American dollar. Because of world uncertainties, I do not believe it desirable in the public interest that an exact value be now fixed.

The President is authorized by present legislation to fix the lower limit of permissable revaluation at 50 per cent. Careful study leads me to believe that any revaluation at more than 60 per cent of the present statutory value would not be in the public interest. I, therefore, recommend to the Congress that it fix the upper limit of permissible revaluation at 60 per cent.

That we may be further prepared to bring some greater degree of stability to foreign exchange rates in the interests of our people, there should be added to the present power of the Secretary of the Treasury to buy and sell gold at home and abroad, express power to deal in foreign exchange as such.

As a part of this power, I suggest that, out of the profits of any devaluation there should be set up a fund of two billion dollars for such purchases and sales of gold, foreign exchange, and government securities as the regulation of the currency, the maintenance of the credit of the government and the general welfare of the United States may require.

Certain amendments of existing legislation relating to the purchase and sale of gold and to other monetary matters would add to the convenience of handling current problems in this field. The Secretary of the Treasury is prepared to submit information concerning such changes to the appropriate committees of the Congress.

SILVER PROBLEM

The foregoing recommendations relate chiefly to gold. The other principal precious metal—silver—has also been used from time immemorial as a metallic base for currencies as well as for actual currency itself.

It is used as such by probably half the population of the world. It constitutes a very important part of our own monetry structure. It is such a crucial factor in much of the world's international trade that it cannot be neglected.

On December 21, 1933, I issued a proclamation providing for the coinage of our newly-mined silver and for increasing our reserves of silver bullion, thereby putting us among the first nations to carry out the silver agreement entered into by 66 governments at the London conference. This agreement is distinctly a step in the right direction and we are proceeding to perform our part of it.

All of the 66 nations agreed to refrain from melting or debasing their silver coins, to replace paper currency of small denominations with silver coins and to refrain from legislation that would depreciate the value of silver in the world markets. Those nations producing large quantities of silver agreed to take specified amounts from their domestic production and those holding and using large quanties agreed to restrict the amount they would sell during the four years covered by the agreement.

If all these undertakings are carried out by the governments concerned, there will be a marked increase in the use and value of silver.

Governments can well, as they have in the past, employ silver as a basis for currency, and I look for a greatly increased use. I am, however, withholding any recommendation to the Congress looking to further extension of the monetary use of silver because I believe that we should gain more knowledge of the results of the London agreement and of our other monetary measures.

SOUND CURRENCY

Permit me once more to stress two principles. Our national currency must be maintained as a sound currency which, insofar as possible, will have a fairly constant standard of purchasing power and be adequate for the purposes of daily use and the establishment of credit.

The other principle is the inherent right of government to issue currency and to be the sole custodian and owner of the base or reserve of precious metals underlying that currency. With this goes the prerogative of government to determine from time to time the extent and nature of the metallic reserve.

I am confident that the nation will well realize the definite purpose of the government to maintain the credit of that government and, at the same time, to provide a sound medium of exchange which will serve the needs of our people.

COUGHLIN ASKS SUPPORT

DETROIT, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin today sought popular support of his monetary program, which he claimed would make possible the issuance of 25 billion currency dollars.

In a speech yesterday, which he said was an answer to an open letter sent him last week by James P. Warburg, New York banker, Father Coughlin asked his audience to write to their Congressmen or Senators and urge the enactment of his program.

Father Coughlin said that not only was there enough precious metal available, but "there is more than enough in America if we use it to serve men instead of forcing man to worship at its shrine." He said there was enough metal for $25,000,000,000 in currency.

SENATE VOTES TO EXTEND LIFE OF RFC

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Senate today passed without a record vote the administration bill extending the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation until February 1, 1935 and increasing its lending powers by 850 million dollars.

A similar bill is pending in the House.

Laying aside the St. Lawrence treaty temporarily to take up the measure, the Senate heard a brief explanation of its contents by Chairman Fletcher of the Banking Committee.

FARM BILL WINS

The administration bill to guarantee the principal as well as interest on farm mortgage bonds was approved by the Senate Banking Committee by 9 to 3.

Few important changes were made in the bill, which is designed to place the government guarantee back of two billion dollars for farm mortgage bonds authorized by the last Congress.

LIMITS POWER

One of the changes would limit the proposed Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation's borrowing power to February 1, 1936. The original bill, as submitted by the administration had no such limit.

Two of the three votes against the bill were cast by Democrats—Glass, of Virginia, and Gore, of Oklahoma. The tthird opposing votes was made by Senator Walcott (Rep.), Coonnecticut.

$97,000,000 IN GOLD BOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Reconstruction Corporation has purchased approximately $97,000,000 of foreign gold, it became known today, including $19,000,000 bought since January 1.

The corporation has increased its gold purchasing fund to $150,000,000, of which all except about $25,000,000 already has been used.

Domestic gold purchases up to today and held by the corporation totaled 681,374 ounces, for which $22,898,735 has been paid in debentures due February 1.

Devaluation of the dollar will leave the corporation with a profit on its gold, Jones said. Asked if the corporation might have to turn in its gold at the statutory price of $20.67, Jones said:

"If you will remember, at the outset it was stated that the RFC can sell its gold in foreign markets.

"Naturally there will be no dispute. The RFC will have to synchronize with the Treasury."

Don't Pledge Jobs, Davis Warns Politicians

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, offers a tip to the aspiring politician.

The man who promises jobs in a new era of public service now dawning isn't going to get to first base, he said in effect. The man who has his wits about him will tell the people he is in favor of reducing taxes.

Davis continued:

"The government has no right to inflict a property tax on a man who owns a home worth from $3,500 to $5,000, if he is unemployed. A sheriff has no right to take that home away from him if he cannot pay the mortgage on it."

Americans appreciate frankness—and we propose to take the public into our confidence. We propose at all times to give a frank statement of fact about the products which are under the protection of the name Schenley.

We dedicate our sincerity and resources to continue to build a fine name for Schenley, for we propose to hold the name Schenley high on the honor roll of respected names in American industry.

To our thousands of employees in New York, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and to our representatives here and abroad, this is the platform and these are the principles that will guide our relationship with the American public.

For we know that upon the integrity of our employees and representatives rests the good will of the public.

But we also know that the sincerity of our purpose can be reflected only in the honest quality of our products. And so, plans are now under way for the formation of the Schenley Research Institute, which will safeguard and maintain the high standards of quality of our products. Scientists will be members of its board . . . and we will be guided by their scientific findings.

We realize that only time can prove our sincerity. And we realize that only your experience can determine our measure of devotion to quality.

TAX ON SALES BACKED BY SENATORS

Senators and Congressmen from Western Pennsylvania are in the majority of cases, favorable to a federal manufacturers sales tax at the source, it was revealed in a poll made today in Pittsburgh and Washington.

Those who have not as yet expressed themseves are making surveys prior to taking a stand on the tax, which is being sponsored by organizations in many sections of the nation.

Statements by some of the delegation follow:

SENATOR DAVID A. REED—Since the war we have been depending very largely on the income tax to furnish money to run the national government. After the slump hit us, everybody's income was reduced, and consequently the income tax has fallen off. A sales tax has been suggested, applying to practically all articles except food and clothing. Apply it to your own case. Remembering that food and clothing are exempt, and that there would be no tax on rent. I think you would find that the most you would be likely to pay would be $5 or $6 a year.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTHEW A. DUNN—In taxes as in everything else, I am in favor of legislation that will benefit the masses. The income tax on the man who earns a modest salary is not fair, and if the sales tax exempts food, clothing and other necessities and is spread lightly over many purchases so that it is not felt by the home-maker, it provides revenue with the least possible burden upon the people.

REPRESENTATIVE CHARLES I. FADDIS—I strongly favor a general manufacturers' sales tax. Such a tax would in my opinion relieve real estate of the burden of taxation now sinking it into the mire. Real estate is the fundamental source of wealth and business cannot function successfully as long as real estate is so incumbered. Justice and equality are the fundamental principles of our system of government. The sales tax is directly in accord with justice and equality.

A general manufacturers sales tax is a tax which will tax all in proportion to their spending power. It is a tax which can be economically collected. I think it should be in the form of a properly graduated stamp tax and should be on all exceptions, as exceptions are only loop holes. The sales tax on cigarets, gasoline, etc., has demonstrated that it is the most painlessly collected of all taxes. As to the argument that the rich will pay in a sales tax a much smaller tax on their actual wealth than those in more moderate circumstances that is a fact and it will be necessary to balance this with an inheritance tax. I would favor some system of taxation which will eliminate the income tax which while ideal in theory is unsatisfactory in practice.

MOVE TO UNITE JEWS OF WORLD

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Jewish organizations throughout the country were asked by the executive committee of the American Jewish Congress today to join in planning a World Jewish Congress for the masses.

Conditions have strengthened the belief, said Bernard S. Deutsch, president, "that the fate of the Jews of the world and the struggle for Jewish emancipation must pass into the hands of a democratically elected body representing to the world at large and to the Jews themselves the union of forces of the vast majority of the Jewish people, if not of all Jewry."

The proceedings were the first step toward holding elections in the United States next spring to choose delegates to a world congress to be held next summer at a date and place to be decided.

A manifesto issued by the meeting discussed discrimination against Jews in Germany and said that present Jewish organizations were unable to cope with the situation. Coupled with an appeal for aid in the document was a charge that the "old guard" of Jewry has refused to acknowledge social changes and clings to the "charity concept" of solving Jewish problems.

Greek Steamer Sends Out Distress Signals

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Greek steamer Zannia L Cambanis was reported in distress in the vicinity of the south coast of England, in a communication received by the Radio Marine Corporation yesterday.

A report received by Mackay Radio Corporation said the ship's anchor chain had parted and that 10 minutes after the distress call the steamer was "secured."

Greensburg Flier Gets Federal Job

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 15.—Richard C. Copeland, son of Judge Charles D. Copeland and pioneer in aviation in this district, has been appointed federal airways extension superintendent in the New England district at $4,400. Copeland has more than 5,000 flying hours to his credit. His new territory will extend from the Canadian border to Norfolk, Va.

A Columnist's Girl Friday Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear Robinson Crusoe-what?: Dozens of squawks on the phone about your indorsing the judge for giving panhandlers jobs via the CWA—the callers asking if they have to first be panhandlers to rate a job etc. . . . Modiste Tappe called. Very pleasant, but she is his best customer, and he says he isn't to be her groom. I told him you didn't say he would be, but that "people were saying so" . . . "Broncho Billy Anderson is managing a smart theater at fancy wages, according to his employer, visiting here . . . And he isn't in distress. I said you heard he was and wasted no time trying to let his friends know, so that he wouldn't be . . . Don't be such a samaritan, it's a thankless job.

A lad, who gave his initials as F. E. L., said he isn't sorry for the chorus girls who were gypped by stock exchangers passing phoney checks on them. Because many a chorus girl "took" him for plenty . . . Funny mans . . You were amused because there actually is a man named Lavender Deerfoot. Well, there is a nice man, an attorney, at No. 225 B'way, named Hyacinthe Ringrose . . . Some waitresses in B'way places wish you would snarl at the men who patronize their restaurant, and bet on horses that are still running, and they are fussy about their service, but do not even leave nickel tips! . . . The girls say these birds read your column, and if you mentioned it, maybe it would give the girls a break . . . The World Almanac, on page 735, lists Buddy Rogers as born in 1883 . . . Making him 51 years old! Must mean 1903, huh?

All female ballet dancers do turns to the right, all male ballet dancers do turns to the left. How come? . . . Joe Penner innocently enough was used by process servers to trap Mary McCormic with a summons the other eve back stage . . Was Penner's face pink? . . . Lotte Lehmann and her groom are immensely happy . . . Murray Joffee is now MC at the Ritz on the Heights . . . The Epicure is the smartest idea developed for wine lists used in snooty places . . . Ray Featherstone was in. Said the honeymoon is positively over when he starts wearing long underwear! . . . Lowell Thomas has a neat way of poking fun at the Washington crowd. He says: "The dope from Washington says, etc." . . Walter O'Keefe read this in a garment center weekly, to wit: "Moe Greenbaum of Klassy Kloes, is that way about Sally Stein of Tru-Fit" . . . Heheheh.

Russ King was in. Said that statistics show 21 more couples married last June than the previous June at the Li'l Church Around the Corner, but it really is nothing to worry about unless, of course, you were one of the grooms.

The talk that the former Guinan girls are stranded in Miami Beach isn't true. Feet Edson says he heard such a rumor was around here, and would you help him deny it? . . . Some time ago when Gene Fowler happened to be on Staten Island he saw a beautiful rose bush in a garden . . . In order to possess the roses, he bought the whole house!. . . And Gene, in an interview recently, said the H'wood peasants were "insane" . . . Maybe he's right, at that . . . The Hays office just told the picture people they can use the words "love nest," "infidelity" or "scarlet" in their theater ads. 'Sall right to use them (or show 'em) on the screen, but don't go around calling attention to it . . . They deny it, but the rumor around the Club Richman's new whoopsm'dear revue the other day had it that Jean Malin's widow and one of the cast took out a marriage permit.

One of those press agents with no brains was in and offered an item about an orchestra leader and his new heart. I reminded him that the man was happily married! . . . He was as embarrassed as a sleepwalker with insomnia . . . After 23 years, one of the big light and power companies omitted bonuses for the first time . . . Marjorie Dorand, former Rasch dancer, will bride it Jan. 26 . . . There's a smell about that case in B'klyn where the mother and her brood were in distress. She was having another baby, and the interne who came with his ambulance and the attending officer didn't think she needed aid! . . . Makes me furious . . . Nan Blakston is at the new Petit Palais; she sings songs the way I like. The "Follies" beauties at the Winter Garden now punch a time clock!

Beatrice Townsend, plenty social, does color-aura reading, it's an ancient science and society is all agog-ga over it . . . She sends you yours, to wit: She says you should wear blue (which you've been doing for 25 years) because if you wear blue, it "will give him a sence of rhythm in all things"—as well as "a keen sense of the ridiculous and a genius for making anyone see the funny side of the situation."

However, if you would be creative you should wear red, she says . . . Then, if you want to vitalize yourself, whatever that is, you should wear purple! If you do, this will make you the sort of person who must be known to be loved. In other words you are not known . . . Oh, yes, Miss Townsend's color-aura reading of you goes on with: "By wearing red he will guard himself against being too egotistical and critical" . . . She says the vibration of this color will stop you from being critical.

Dr. Isaac Goldberg, the historian, biographer and story teller, is finishing "Queen of Hearts: The Life and Loves of Lola Montez," which isn't to be confused with the fictional account in the papers recently. It's a grand story, but with Dr. Goldberg writing it—it will be grander—what a girl was Lola! . . . B. B. Richards is very ill . . . At the Joint Disease Hosp . . . His friends may want to help They say Raphaelson backed "Wooden Slipper" which died after a few performances . . . Toughest thing to get in town is a reservation when you want it to Florida . . . Eddie Elkins and crew at the Savoy-Plaza are fine.

Here is the "Hell Divers Cocktail"—One-third orange juice, two-thirds gin, 3 dashes absinthe, 3 ditto grenadine syrup—shake well, strain and serve and then boom! . . . Hilda Moreno is the lead in a picture being made in Madrid, wishes you'd tell her friends...I hear there is a chance of Peggy Rich and Freddie, her divorced groom, getting together again . . . This fascinated me in the subway the other day. There's an ad showing a baby yawning. Everybody who looks at it invariably yawns. I rode past my station watching this phenomenon. Look, you're yawning yourself!

Football Star Tries for Movies

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15.—Another athletic star is knocking at Hollywood's gates. Jimmy Phelan, football coach for the University of Washington, is staking Bill Smith, his All-America end, to a trip to the film colony to seek fame before the camera.

Mr. Smith

Smith, who is six feet two inches tall, weighs 198 pounds, and who has been called the handsomest man in West Coast football, arrived in Hollywood with a letter to Norman McLeod, Paramount director, who used to go to Washington.

Before the day was over, it was all set for him to make a test for Cecil B. De Mille. The veteran director is looking for men with fine physiques for his picture, "Cleopatra," and if Smith can make any kind of histrionic showing, he is assured of a part in the forthcoming spectacle.

The young gridiron star was mentioned in nine of the 11 major selections for the mythical All-America team.

One of the better stories of the week is told by Lou Holtz, who is now brightening the Hollywood late spots.

A young American couple, playing at Monte Carlo, were down to their last 100 francs. Suddenly, the man reached up, plucked a golden hair from his partner's head and wrapped it around the one remaining note. He placed the bet and it changed their luck. Before the evening was over they had won half a million francs.

"Do you know where they are today?" asks Holtz. "They are in Chicago. He hasn't got a dime and she hasn't got a hair in her head."

Hollywood can't figure Vivian Gaye and Randy Scott. For weeks now, their eventual marriage has been an accepted thing. Now Randy, back from England and Charlotte, N. C., says:

Mr. Scott

"She is my best woman friend but we absolutely have no plans."

Randy has moved back into the house where he and Carey Grant were living before their departure for London. He won't seek any permanent quarters until he hears from Carey.

Constance Bennett always has been extremely nervous about previews, and the Marquis de la Falaise has had a lot of fun ribbing her about it. One of the funnier sights of last week, then, was to see the usually calm Hank go into a perfect state of jitters when they previewed his Bali film the other night. He rushed up and down the aisle a half dozen times during the film.

And when it was all over, Connie had her innings.

Seeing in this column that Harold Lloyd was studying the Cantonese dialect for his new film, Y. S. Kiang, local Chinese consul and the motion picture representative of his country's legation, called the Lloyd studio and pointed out in a friendly way that Cantonese is never spoken in the city of Cheng Tu, Sze Chuan province, which is the locale of the early part of "The Catspaw."

Now Harold may have to learn another dialect entirely.

Eddie Carewe, (remember "Ramona," "Resurrection" and all those other films?) is taking up the megaphone again to direct "Are We Civilized?" at the General Service studios . . . Harry Green is passing around cigars. It's a 7-pound 12-ounce boy . . . When the honeymooners, Pat Wing and Bill Perry, reach Panama, they'll be entertained by the government. Pat's father, Capt. Paul Wing, arranged it. In the days before he became a company manager at Paramount, he served for two years in Panama . . . The latest evening shoes, introduced by Joan Crawford, are made of latticed strips of brilliants. Joan has made a change in her coiffure, too. She parts her hair in the middle now, the sides dropping plain to the ends, which are curled . . . Isabel O'Neil, sister of Sally O'Neil and Molly O'Day, is entertaining at the Club Montmartre in Hollywood. Sally and Hardie Albright make the place a rendezvous . . . Was the Paramount commissary impressed the other day when Josef von Sternberg appeared in a brown velvet, double-breasted coat? . . . Ruth Waterbury is arriving soon to edit Movie Mirror from the West Coast. Jerry Asher will remain in charge of the reviews and gossip department.

ANN HARDING HAS THE TITLE PART IN "GALLANT LADY," COMING FRIDAY TO PENN

Farnum Back In Films

William Farnum, still a bigger than average fellow despite a long illness and the passing of years, surveys the cinema scene with more grace and equanimity than the usual actor who once knew the heights.

In 1914, fresh from his great screen triumph in Rex Beach's "The Spoilers," Farnum was the star in a silent version of "The Sign of the Cross." The script had been written by a fellow named B. P. Schulberg.

Today William Farnum has a none-too-large part in "Good Dame," a B. P. Schulberg production, starring Sylvia Sydney and Fredric March, the lad who played in the DeMille version of "The Sign of the Cross."

For nearly a decade William Farnum rode the crest as the great he-man star of the films. He was the highest paid star at Fox, with a salary around $10,000 a week. It was about 10 years ago, he says, that he underwent a siege of typhoid fever, and the after-effects kept him inactive six years.

In "The Spoilers," Farnum's fight with the late Tom Santschi made film history. Stars got typed then as now for the next five years saw Farnum fighting in every picture he made.

"When Rex Beach first asked me to play in the picture," Farnum recalls, "I told him to stop his kidding. 'Pictures?' I asked him. Do you mean those funny flickering things the vaudeville houses use to drive the audience out after the show?

"But I came anyway—and what miracles have happened since then to 'those funny flickering things!'"

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Greta Garbo and John Gilbert, reunited on the screen after a separation of a number of years, will be seen tonight in the Nixon in "Queen Christina," the first picture made by the glamorous Greta since her long vacation abroad. In this one Miss Garbo portrays a historical figure of her own country, Sweden, in which she is a sort of Scandinavian "Paddy, the Next Best Thing." That is her father had wished for a boy, and when the stork made a mistake, the king saw to it that the youngster became adept in all manly sports, so that she might rule, when the time came, with something of a masculine touch. She did so well that she leaned backward in that direction, and shocked the nation. But beneath there remained femininity, and the combination of the woman and the ruler is what makes the story.

New screen features for the current week will include "Gallant Lady," which will be the attraction in the Penn Friday with Ann Harding in the stellar role. Others in the cast will be Clive Brook, Ott Kruger and Dickie Moore.

The Stanley attraction the same day will be the latest Paul Muni starring vehicle, "Hi, Nellie!"

The next screen feature in the Fulton, opening Thursday, will be El Brendel and Walter Catlett in "Olesen's Big Moment," which, of course, would be a comedy.

Richard Barthelmess is young American Indian in "Massacre," photoplay coming Friday to the Warner. It's a melodrama of the West.

Charles Farrell, Ricardo Cortez and Bette Davis have the leading roles in "The Big Shakedown," feature that will be seen Friday in the Davis.

The Pitt stage feature Friday will be "Spices of 1934," while the screen attraction will be Wallace Ford in "East of Fifth Avenue."

The Golden Triangle Players for Children will present Ray E. Hurd's "Anything Might Happen" in the Twentieth Century Club next Saturday morning. The cast, instead of being all adults, will include two youngsters, Donald Buka and High Moor. Mr. Hurd is said to be planning to have the Gargoyle Club, of Shady Side Academy, make some road appearances in this play.

The Resurrection Players, of Brookline, are planning for their second production of the season, "The Alarm Clock," to be given in the Brookline Public School auditorium February 12 and 13.

The "Y" Playhouse has in preparation the English version of Ansky's "The Dybbuk," to be presented Sunday, February 4 and Tuesday, February 6.

Ann Morrison (Mrs. Chapin to Pittsburgh friends) who slightly more than a year ago announced that she had a new play, "Broken Doll," may see it produced shortly. It is reported to be in rehearsal in New York. Two of the most successful plays from the pen of Miss Morrison were "Pigs" and "Jonesey," both comedies. There also was "The Wild Westcotts," which pleased New York and Chicago but did not get into the hit class.

"The Green Pastures" company has completed its tour of the South, which began October 4 in Roanoke, Va., and is now swinging toward the Northwest, expecting to be back in New York state by February 26, the fourth anniversary of the opening of the Marc Connelly play in New York . . . "Dodsworth," dramatization of a Sinclair Lewis novel by Sidney Howard, will reach Broadway in February with Walter Huston and Fay Bainter in the leads.

Jimmy Durante Hailed As Stage Cupid

Jimmy is "Cupid" Durante to Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur. It was under the shadow of the Durante schnozzle that the actress and the writer first felt the arrows.

Whenever they went to a show, after their first meeting, MacArthur insisted that it be one in which Jimmy was featured.

"And it was during those excursions to Durante's shows that we fell in love," they say.

Strictly Confidential

STRANGE how reports get around.

And stranger still how these reports get more and more out of bounds as they pass along.

Before I left for the coast, for example, I advised plenty of my friends to put a small wager on Columbia when that team played Stanford University.

To my way of thinking, the odds of three, four and five to one in favor of Stanford were absurd.

Knowing that Columbia was the best team in the East in its last four games, and analyzing Stanford's poor work against Northwestern, it was my contention that Columbia should have been a slight favorite.

As it turned out, strangely enough, I was correct.

I made several bets, both in the East and in the West, and arranged the odds on those bets so that—if Columbia lost—I broke even.

And if Columbia won I stood to make about $900.

As you know, Columbia won.

Directly after the game the excitement started.

Meeting Lee Tracy in the Colony Club that night, I was congratulated on the fact that I had won $5,000.

Later that night, Lewis Milestone told me it was a well-known fact that I had won $8,000 on the game.

Coming home on the Twentieth Century from Chicago the conductor said the newspapers had printed a story to the effect that I had won $14,000.

During the long trip from Los Angeles to New York I played poker with Jack Lait and Ted Husing—and lost most of the $900 that I had won on the football game.

Arriving back in New York the wife greeted me with a prolonged kiss that would have made any husband suspicious.

"What's the idea?" I growled.

"Oh, darling," she cried, "I'm so happy about it all. Good news travels fast. I've already ordered that new coat. Just think of you winning $45,000 on a football game!"

I don't think I'll ever bet again. . .

The railroad service in this country needs a swift kick in the pants.

Although more than a month has elapsed since Repeal, neither the Twentieth Century nor the Chief—two of the nation's crack trains—had a drop of brandy aboard as late as last week.

The Chief had nothing aboard but bourbon.

The club cars on both trains are laden with the dullest reading imaginable; railroad men's men's magazines predominating.

Neither train had a set of chips, and when I asked for a backgammon or a checker board, I was gazed at blankly.

A small library of current novels would cost the railroads very little.

A few games would cost them even less.

A complete wine card is the least that can be expected on an extra-fare train.

Flying and bus competition being what it is, the railroads should do everything possible to cater to the customer.

In providing minor comforts the roads are twenty years behind the times.

It could happen only on Broadway.

A columnist was recently compelled to sue a firm of picture producers for a sum due him for story services rendered on a production.

The columnist sat in court all day and left only when the judge reserved decision.

As he left the courtroom one of the producers whom he had sued draped an arm around the columnist's shoulders.

"We've got to get together tonight or tomorrow, Mark," he said. "I've got a story that you must work on for me right away!"

Where else could it happen?

The new Ziegfeld Follies is, I think, a fast, tuneful and expert revue.

I still believe there was no occasion to drag in Ziegfeld's name, for no title ever made a show a hit.

Were the name of this show "Artists and Models" or "Temptations of 1934," it would be just as good a bet at the box office.

If Flo were alive, however, he would have nothing of which to be ashamed in this production.

The comedy is excellent, the lighting fine and the casting an expert job.

The Shuberts are to be congratulated—

Much as I hate to admit it . .

A MONSTER benefit was staged not long ago in the city of Chicago.

A comedian whose name is hailed from coast to coast, was a prime factor in the movement.

He went to a great amount of trouble to secure acts, and he finally nailed the leader of a very important orchestra.

"You'll have to play my benefit Sunday night," he told the bandmaster. "I won't take no for an answer. You must."

The orchestra leader said it was impossible because he was playing a concert that night for a sum of $7,000.

But the comedian insisted.

He argued and argued as to the greatness of the cause—and he finally talked the orchestra leader into canceling his $7,000 date in order to pay for charity.

On the big night, the leader arrived at the theater and looked around for the comedian.

But the comedian wasn't there

He had flown to New York that afternoon to see his girl!

JUNIOR PATROL

Be courteous, fellows, even with other boys and girls your own age!

Courtesy, wise men tell us, is the oil that makes the world go round smoothly. They mean, of course, that every human being likes to be treated in a kindly, sensible way.

But courtesy doesn't just happen. If you are rude to other folks when you are growing up, you will probably stay rude all your life. Speak kindly, treat girls and women as nicely as you can. Being courteous is really one dandy way to help others.

Now here is another letter from William Rush, of 1025 Rue Grand Vue, Elliott. He writes:

"I have 25 members. We meet at my home. I am elected captain of my patrol. Do we go for adventure! Junior, why don't you get out a book to paste the Mail Box in, and give them out to all the captains and members who ask for them? Theater parties sure do draw members, I think, and say again I'll bet we could beat any club in the whole United States, if we try a whole lot."

Badges for your members and your armband will soon be on the way, Bill. We are thinking about a theater party but we haven't been able to fix things up yet. That's a good idea about pasting the Mail Box, but all you need is just a plain note book.

Margaret Plate, of 1828 Ridge avenue, Arnold, Pa., is the captain, and Betty Pearl is the assistant captain of a new patrol with 14 members. Sorry, girls, we can't send extra badges unless you send the signed pladges or copies of the pledge.

Norman Rosenberg, of 2339 Eldridge street, Pittsburgh—how about getting your gang together and starting a patrol. Thanks for the letter.

Rhea Rothman, of 315 Ewart Drive, Minersville, writes to say that everyone she knows in her neighborhood is going to join The Junior Patrol, and start a big club. Hurray! Send in those pledges! Hold a meeting soon!

Another new captain today is Anna Martini, of 526 Paulson avenue, Pittsburgh. She sends 11 pledges, and her patrol has plans for lots of things.

E. Pittsburgh High Wins by Yearbook

East Pittsburgh High School has been awarded first place in the 1933 mimeographed yearbook contest held by the Pennsylvania School Press Association in Harrisburg, it was announced today. This makes the second consecutive year that East Pittsburgh has won the award. Miss Julia Behane was faculty adviser to the yearbook staff.

Tilden's Win On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

"Big Bill" Tilden's amazing victory over the youthful Ellsworth Vines at Madison Square Garden in New York is vividly pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News with a description of the play by the Globe Trotter. More than 16,000 tennis fans crowded Madison Square Garden to see the professional debut of the 22-year-old Vines playing against the canny 41-year-old veteran.

First pictures of the rejoicing in Japan over the birth of the Emperor's first son show vast crowds assembled in the palace grounds at Tokio. Diplomats head the populace in homage to the new born Crown Prince. The national anthem and "banzais" fill the air.

Work is being speeded on Boulder Dam and thrilling pictures show the final great blast on the mountainside with dynamite in 27,000 holes touched off simultaneously.

The strange calamities befalling those who first ventured into the tomb of Tut-ankh-amen are told in vivid pictures of the victims and scenes attending the Lord Carnarvon expedition.

Senator Tydings, of Maryland, tells how he is leading a movement to induce President Roosevelt to urge a halt on the oppression of Jews in Germany.

Commemorating the visit of the wise men to the Infant Jesus, high priests of the Greek Church celebrate age-old rites at Tarpon Springs, Fla. Divers seek to recover a golden cross thrown into a pool by the Greek archbishop.

United States Attorney General Cummings outlies the government's war on bootleggers and appeals to the public to withhold its patronage from these lawbreakers.

Note—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedules, it is possible some of the subjects of the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

DOCTORS HERE FACE TEST BY RELIEF

Medical leadership during the present emergency medical relief plan is on trial as never before, according to Dr Walter F. Donaldson, of 4724 Bayard street.

As secretary of the Medical Society of Pennsylvania and member of the advisory committee to the State Emergency Relief Board, he said that the doctors are now being paid a fee for their unemployment relief service, adding:

"Every order issued to doctors by the county emergency relief boards for medical service to the indigent sick, every report card, bill and prescription filled by the doctors is minutely checked and studied by this representative committee of the County Medical Society, insuring that the best of treatment and the fairest charge is made in all cases.

"In other words the County Medical Society and the medical society of the state accept sponsorship for this large work."

Electrical Engineer To Discuss 'Russia'

Industrial Russia will be discussed before the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers by Gordon Fox, of Chicago, Friday night in the William Penn Hotel.

Mr. Fox, an electrical engineer, will illustrate his talk with motion pictures he made during the last five years. The steel mill developments will be particularly outlined.

Gov. Landon 'Takes' Hunters at 'Pitch'

TOPEKNA, Kan., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Gov. Alf M. Landon went coon hunting Saturday night in the hills around Wamego, but the closest the hunt got to a coon was the eating of one caught in advance.

The hunt wasn't entirely unsuccessful from the Governor's point of view, however, as he claims to have taken all the best "pitch" players among the hunters to a cleaning later in the night.

NEW ORLEANS BANS FAN DANCE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—George Reyer, superintendent of police, says New Orleans "is no city for a fan dance"—and, because he stopped the show at the last minute, counsel for the Marcus Revue seeks to enjoin police from barring it.

Promptly at midnight last night, when the revue—featuring a nude fan dancer—was scheduled to go on in City Auditorum, the police halted the performance, informed customers there would be "no show tonight" and dismissed a throng of curious outside.

Reyer said the "best citizens" had complained to him that the extravaganza was "immoral, obscene and entirely beyond bounds in its suggestiveness."

A. B. Marcus, in charge of the show, termed it "of high moral character."

FAN DANCER, AIR PILOT SAFE

WINNIPEG, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Fay Baker, fan dancer, of Watertown, Wis., and Pilot Bill May, who had been missing on a flight to Winnipeg, landed yesterday at Beausejour, Man.

They said they were forced down at Whisky Jack Island, 90 miles north of Winnepegosis, Man., due to motor trouble, and in landing damaged the undercarriage of the machine.

May made temporary repairs and flew to Beausejour and thence to Winnepegosis.

Society Woman Weds Film Art Director

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Janet McCormick, former society woman of New York and Washington, D. C., and Stephen Goosson, film art director, were married here yesterday.

Mrs. McCormick is the former wife of John McCormick, motion picture producer, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Rickard Lee Fearn, of Washington and New York.

Two Men Injured In Park Blasting

A. Glentz, of Ross Township, was in the Marine Hospital today and Charles Farrell was recovering in his North Side home from injuries suffered when they were showered with rock during blasting operations in North Park. Police said the men, both CWA workers, had taken refuge behind a tree.

Sociologist to Talk At Teachers' School

A lecture on parents' and children's problems will be given by Dr Ernest R. Groves tomorrow night at Frick Teachers' Training School auditorium. Dr. Groves is a professor of sociology at North Carolina University.

Dr. Groves

His subject will be "Mental Hygiene in the Home." He is also associate editor of "Social Forces" and an editor of "Junior Home."

CHURCH SEIZED BY 'REBELS'

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—"Insurgent" members stole a march on the opposition and took charge of St. Gregory's Apostolic Armenian Church yesterday. The move was against a group that has been in charge of the church since last April.

The "insurgents" descended on the church at 7 a. m. They forced the door and took possession, and with their own pastor in the pulpit, held services.

The trouble at the church was over the election of vestrymen some time ago. It is said that Archbishop Leon Tourian, killed recently in New York, had disapproved the election as contrary to the law of the church.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

BAUER RITES ARRANGED

Requiem mass will be said Wednesday morning in St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, Millvale, for Joseph Bauer who died Saturday at his home, 21 Sherman street, Millvale. Mr. Bauer was born in Neuhausl, Austria, in 1864, and had lived in Millvale since coming to America in his youth.

He was a member of the Knights of St. George, Holy Name Society and the St. Antonius Society and St. Anthony's Church. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Margaret Hoeffner Bauer; three sons, Joseph M., George J. and Aloysius F. Bauer; three daughters, Mrs. Anna Heilman, Mrs. Hilda Mitchell and Mrs. Philomena Kramer, and 10 grandchildren.

Medical Society To Hold Meeting

A scientific meeting and exhibit will be held by the Allegheny County Medical Society tomorrow night in Hotel Schenley.

Speakers will include Drs. Harry L. Baer, Lester Hollander, George J. Wright, W. S. McElroy, A. J. Bruecken, E. P. Buchanan and E. M. Meredith. The Pittsburgh Medical Center will direct the scientific exhibit.

While it is non-specific, many cases report remarkably quick relief; often symptoms diminish and normal sleep returns within 3 days. Contains no salts, physics, opiates or dope. Safe with any diet. PAY NOTHING UNLESS GREATLY IMPROVED. Then send $1. If not improved your report cancels charge. Write Dr. Hayes Ass'n, 3572 Coates, Kansas City, Mo.

It means something

..that Chesterfield has a modern up-to-date Tobacco Factory in far-off historic Smyrna

So important is the handling of Turkish tobacco in making Chesterfield cigarettes that Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., maintains this specially equipped plant right in the heart of the famous Smyrna tobacco section.

It is the largest and most modern tobacco factory in the Near East.

Turkish tobacco, you know, is the best "seasoning" there is for cigarettes. At all times Chesterfield has in storage—at this plant and in America—about 350,000 bales of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco.

Latest News of Activities in Busy Lives of Pittsburgh's Club Women

Junior Club Plans Card Tourney

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Word of something new in junior activities comes from the Junior Friday Afternoon Club of California, Pa. It's a bridge tournament in a series of four parties beginning the week of January 29, which has been planned as a benefit for the student loan fund at the California State Teachers' College.

Chairmen for the four days are Miss Irene E. Easton, Miss Marion S. Foberg, Mrs. Lavina J. Watkins and Miss Helen L. Copenhaver.

Another benefit, a movie sponsorship, this one designed to supply shoes for needy school children—will also be conducted by the club members. They are sponsoring "Alice in Wonderland" and "Little Women" at their local movie house.

The next club meeting, set for Friday night, will take place in Miss Ruth M. Brillhart's home, College avenue, and is designated as "Girl Scout Night." One of the club members, Mrs. Sarah S. Aschman, has charge of the local Girl Scout troop.

The juniors will be guests of the senior club at a musicale-tea Saturday afternoon in the Provincial room at the State Teachers' College. Mrs. William R. Simpson is chairman for the affair.

Crafton Home Group Luncheon on Wednesday

The home department of the Woman's Club of Crafton is giving a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. John P. Gangwisch, Josephine street, on Wednesday. Following luncheon there will be a 10-minute forum conducted by Mrs. A. J. Heister.

Mrs. Ralph S. Davis will have a paper on "Our Homes and Our City," and Mrs. A. E. Edmonds, former hostess of the Red Cross hut at the Marine Hospital, will speak.

The next time you have a pain in your sawdust, remember what a helpful girl we were when we told you about this special one of the stores is running on U. S. rubber hot water bottles! Because no household is complete without one . . . and these pastel comforts (blue, orchid, green and natural) are regulation size. Just the same sort of tummy-cheerers that regularly sell for NOT LESS THAN 98c in even the cheapest emporiums!

These rings are true blue . . . in other words, sterling! In dinner and solitaire styles set beautifully with faceted cut crystal which all but puts your diamonds to shame (being as how they probably need cleaning, like ours!) And anyway, they're quite the sparklers for a lonely dollar—what with them coming from a $2.95 family!

And of course . . . .

We mustn't overlook the fact that the "Coralin" or "Catalin" rings which the smart jewelry world has worn with gusto for some months have brought out their new model! Great blobs of rings, these, now set with square-cut or square-set rhinestones. Black and white—$2.98.

This is the time of year when we women begin to look about us for reptile shoes and bags. Well . . . we've suggested the reptile shoes—here goes for the handbags.

Now these we saw were made of reptile grain leather in flat bags which swung complacently (and smartly) from the end of a simulated carnelian, jade, or amber chain . . . and whose buttoned flaps achieved snugness thanks to a matching button. All nicely lined. And while we had only expected to merely mention this one style (thinking it the nicest) still you must see the one with black patent down its sides, twin braided handles and carrying capacity: $1.95.

No danger of getting hooked when you get these hooked rugs. They're offered by the store whose name has all but become synonymous with hooked rugs . . . and are up to the usual standards. However . . .

One of the reasons why we're so steamed up about it all is that the Christmas buying rush left them a little depleted as to stock. So that now there are broken size assortments . . . colors . . . and so forth. Just the psychological time to gallop gaily in there if you could use an odd size scatter rug—that will cost you anywhere from $1.95 to $6.75 and which you won't be able to buy again at these prices! Need we exhort you any further, little cohorts?

And lastly . . . .

There are hooked rugs of pure wool in size 4x7 selling today for only $29.75 (which is SOMETHING with a capital "S"). The most beautiful patterns we've ever laid our dog-like eyes upon . . . . with deep rich colorings, and some attention paid to the Colonial types (if you are Colonial-minded).

Also, and this is worth knowing, they will let you choose your own pattern, coloring, size . . . . and then go ahead and make it for you if you like. For SO little as to almost seem impossible!

THAT SPECIAL GOWN

This is a perfect cocktail party frock for the woman who is staying up here or going South for the rest of the winter. It is of soft black satin, cut with a graceful tubular skirt, and a kimono blouse with a flattering surplice closing. The skirt is slightly high above the belt at the normal waistline, and a cluster of ashes of roses satin flowers decorates the joining. The same rose satin of the flowers makes the bands on blouse and sleevees.

A gown like this demands a hat of its own. This model is made of fabrics identical with the frock—black satin and rose satin flowers. Gloves, bracelets, and a handsome silver fox stole are suggested for other accessories.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ONCE IN A WHILE a perfect gown steps along, one that seems destined from its first basting to be the key number in some woman's wardrobe. Those are the models that the budgeteers yearn to find, for like all classics, they do not stale or wither, and they are good to the last frazzle.

NOW THAT WE are over the three-for-a-dollar rush for clothes, so to speak, designers are more optimistic about providing such clothes, and it is in the custom-made departments and the specialty shops within the stores that you will find them lurking.

* * *

IT MAY BE a luscious color (or a scheme which combines several tints into something unusual) or it may be a very individual fabric, or a cut so simple and sufficient that it baffles which marks a model as something separate. Whichever it is, it looks personal when you see it, and it is worth scrimping on something else to own it, as any wise woman knows.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With—
Patricia Pitt

The remainder of the month—unless something pops up unexpectedly, and this is a year of surprises—will have but one large event to its credit, the Presidential ball January 30 in the William Penn.

There'll be all sorts of interests, however, this month—such as concerts and theaters and small gatherings—to keep those busy who don't go South. Every day we hear of a few more folks who have departed for the South.

The Frederick Edmondsons, of South Negley avenue, have rented their home for the winter. They've been visiting their daughter, Eleanor, in Brookville. Saturday night they left for Pasadena, Cal., where they'll join their daughter, Martha. Martha has been the guest of Mrs. S. S. Edmondson there since September.

Miami Beach is a favorite spot for winter deserters, and Florida in general shares the reputation. Frances Fitzgerald, one of society's career-girls, has gone to Clearwater, Fla., to spend several weeks with Mrs. George Wheeling, the former Sally Hamilton.

School Federation Luncheon Date Set

The Federation of Girls' School Societies will have its annual luncheon on the very last day of the month—a welcome event, to be held at the Hotel Schenley this year.

At this luncheon, always attended by several hundred, each alumna sits at the table bearing the placard of her alma mater.

So there's always a reunion of school chums as well as a reunion of the alumnae of all the schools in the federation.

After the luncheon, there are always annual reports and election of officers, and a discussion of the work at the Harmarville Home for Convalescent Women and Children, which the federation aids.

February Calendar More Eventful

February's calendar is more eventful than that for the remainder of January. There are weddings, a Stage and Play production and a Mardi Gras.

Suzanne Trimble, daughter of the H. N. Trimbles, of Beechwood boulevard, will marry Robert Henry Snyder, of South Orange, N. J., and Pittsburgh, February 2.

Because of the recent death of her father, M. B. Suydam, the marriage of Catherine Suydam and James McCutcheon, on February 7 will be attended by the families only. The ceremony will take place in the Suydam home.

Still another wedding will be that of Anne Ritenour, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Ritenour, of State College, and Frank M. Harbison, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Harbison, of Dithridge street, to take place February 17 at the Nittany Lion Inn, State College.

George Fichtel will be best man. The bride will be unattended.

The Stage and Play Society will present three one-act plays in the Twentieth Century Club on February 6. The Mardi Gras is to be held February 13 in the Twentieth Century Club, by the drama department of the club.

The Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association picked another winner when Frederick Jagel gave his song recital in the "Y" hall last night. There was a fine audience and from his first song this young tenor was immediately popular.

Mr. Lissfelt

It is so rare nowadays that we find a male singer capable of the excellent program Jagel made for us that he found favor for his musicianship before he ever sang. Then he sang and completely won us. The voice is a virile tenor with brilliant top notes. The voice production is safe and sound. He has style a-plenty.

For an operatic singer so easily to find his bearings in the finest of classical songs is amazing. His dignified bearing hides none of his humor nor his spontaneity, but he remains always the artist, the gentleman singer.

There is no need to choose from his many songs a favorite. The four Schubert lieder, the Brahms and the Hugo Wolf especially were gems of hundreds the composers have written. The neo-Italian songs were informative of the new era in Italian music. Among the English songs there was hardly a masterpiece, yet none was trite, and Jagel's diction helped convince us that English can still be sung and made comprehensible.

As encores came Richard Strauss's "Nichts," an Eiglish folksong arranged by Deems Taylor, the lovely Italian "Stornello," and by popular request after hearing Jagel's performance of "L'Africaine" by radio from the Metropolitan Saturday, the grand aria "O Paradiso" from that opera.

Earl Mitchell played accompaniments. We have praised him often indeed, but never before was he so resplendent a player as during the Wolf songs last night.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Belle Moore Engaged To Wed

At a tea given by Mrs. E. C. Emanuel in her home in Lancaster, Pa., on Saturday announcement was made of the engagement of Miss F. Belle Moore, of Harrisburg, and Richard Almy, of Lancaster.

Miss Moore is the daughter of Mrs. W. J. Moore, of Anita street, Squirrel Hill, and she is director of the Harrisburg Girl Scouts. Her fiance, formerly of Providence, R. I., is a graduate of Brown University.

Mrs. Emanuel, the hostess, is a former Pittsburgher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Reid, of the East End.

Homewood Girl Will Marry Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:45 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, Miss Gertrude Hingley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hingley, of Formosa street, will marry William H. Martin, son of Mrs. Mary Weigle, of Ludwig street. The Rev. Harvey W. Moore will officiate.

Miss Edith B. Hingley will be her sister's only attendant, and the best man will be Norman Martin, brother of the bridegroom.

The wedding dinner will be held in the home of Mrs. R. H. Willman, another sister of the bride, in Hamilton avenue. Mr. Martin and his bride are to make their home in Idlewild street, Homewood.

Riding Club to Admit Public for First Time

NEW YORK.—For the first time, the Riding Club in Manhattan will permit the public to see its annual hound show on Friday morning and afternoon. An imposing list of hunt servants will put the dogs through their paces. The masters of fox hounds will hold their annual dinner and meeting Friday after the show.

Einstein to Play Violin To Aid Exiled Friends

NEW YOFK.—Albert Einsteon, the famous scientist, will play his violin Wednesday evening in the home of Dr. Adoph Lewisohn on Fifth avenue, to raise funds for a group of friends who were driven out of Germany by the Nazis. Three hundred persons will pay $25 each to hear him.

Gari Melchers Exhibit To Remain Till Feb. 18

New Kensington Girl Engaged To Doctor

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Vaughan, of New Kensington, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Correll Vaughan, to Dr. Louis Carl Pessolano, of Philadelphia and New Kensington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pessolano, of New Kensington.

Miss Vaughan teaches in Philadelphia. She is a graduate of Beaver College and attended Temple University. Dr. Pessolano attended Villanova College, and is a graduate of the Temple Medical School and is a member of Phi Chi, national medical fraternity. A spring wedding is planned.

Blairsville Girl Wed To Paul Allan Cooper

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Dorothy May Bowser, of Blairsville, to Paul Allan Cooper, of Pittsburgh, which took place on Tuesday in the First Baptist Church, Bayard street, Oakland. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cooper are graduates of Carnegie Tech. Upon returning from a wedding trip they will be at home in Ellsworth avenue.

Sally Balber Engaged To Jules A. Kholos

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan M. Levin, of Broadway avenue, McKees Rocks, announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Sally Balber, to Jules A. Kholos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Kholos, of Oakland.

Legislative Clinic Held At University Women's Meet

A legislative clinic, at which Mrs. Bessie Kann Sack acted as local physician, Miss Beatrice McConnell, of the state Bureau of Labor and Industry and Mrs. Mary Thompson Denman, of the National Child Labor Committee, as consulting physicians, and Mrs. Theodore Schmitt and Miss Alice McAfee as nurses, was held at the meeting of the American Association of University Women in the Hotel William Penn Saturday.

The pulse, temperature and symptoms of the three patients under consideration, the child labor amendment, the minimum wage law, and the old age pension bill, were taken by the two specialists, and the recovery of one, the child labor amendment, which was recently passed in the special session of the State Legislature, was assured, while little hope was held out for the immediate recovery of minimum wage and old age pension, almost "killed" at the recent session in Harrisburg.

Books were contributed by members of the association to the library of a nearby school. Those who were unable to bring their books Saturday are arranging to have them called for through Miss Virginia Ray, of Whitney avenue, Wilkinsburg.

Because of the depression, one would think that child labor has ceased entirely, but the reduction of employment among adults has been greater than that for children, Miss McConnell said. The NRA code has eliminated a great deal of child labor; in fact it has done more than anything else has done, in the last 50 years, but there are still 5,000 children certificated to work in Pennsylvania, she pointed out, saying that children are still working in canneries or picking fruit for which the season lasts from March until November, and that they miss at least eight months of school out of 10. Industrial home work, particularly in the textile field, she stated, also claims a large share of child labor.

Mrs. Denman urged the consideration of taxation as a special study, saying that present laws of taxation were old even before the invention of the safety match. In a day of streamlined motor cars, this country is still going along in oxcarts, judging by the antique methods of levying taxes. Taxation and assessments, uniform budgeting and accounting systems, and the administration of public welfare should be studied with a view to a greater understanding of this vital problem, Mrs. Denman stated.

Recent Bride Honored at Tea Party

Miss Winifred McKnight, of Knoxville, was hostess at a tea yesterday at which the honor guest was Mrs. Edward Harris Kemp, the former Miss Elaine Foraker, whose marriage was an event of December.

Mrs. Kempt is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Foraker, of Knoxville. She is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. She did graduate work at Clark University, Worcester, Mass.

She leaves Friday to join Mr. Kemp in Worcester. He is a graduate of Lake Forest College and did graduate work at Cornell and is at present working for his doctor's degree at Clark University.

Couple Honeymooning In South America

Mrs. Sandor Moskowitz, of Darlington road, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elaine Moskowitz, to William Goldhammer, son of Mrs. Regina Goldhammer, which was solemnized on Tuesday, January 9, in the Tree of Life Synagogue.

There was a breakfast for the immediate families after the ceremony in the Hotel Schenley. Mr. and Mrs. Goldhammer are honeymooning in South America and upon their return will reside in Hempstead road, Squirrel Hill.

There Are Good Reasons For Unrequited Love

Must Flossie love Jimmie—just because Jimmie loves her? Jimmie thinks she should. And is he sore because she won't? Sore—sad—and sour!!!! Listen:

Dear Miss Robinson—

My trouble is that I am in love with a lady who is very unsympathetic and hard-hearted. She treats me with no consideration whatever, in spite of the great love I have for her.

I met her six months ago when I visited some friends one evening. I took her home, and asked her to go out with me. She seemed pleased when I asked her, and we have gone out many times together. But when I told her that I loved her, it didn't seem to make any impression on her at all. She said I shouldn't take her seriously, because she preferred to be just "good friends." She admitted that she enjoyed going to the places where I took her, but she was very cold to me when I tried to tell her how much she meant to me.

I have always been very quiet, and I do not care for most girls. They are too frivolous. In fact, I think that most modern girls are flighty and not worth bothering with. So you see I have been very much alone. But I knew, the moment I saw her, that she was the one girl for me. So you can readily understand how sore my heart is at her lack of consideration for me.

I have tried very hard to tell her how deeply I love her, but she won't listen. Why is that when a girl meets a good man who thinks a great deal of her, she can't appreciate him?

RETURNED GIFTS

I have begged her, with tears in my eyes, to try to understand what she means to me. I have given her gifts. And the only result is—now she has sent them back and refuses to see me. I have tried to phone her and she hung up on me. I have gone to see her, and her mother told me she was not at home when I knew that she was.

Her name is Florence. She is very beautiful and a wonderful girl. I can't live without her. I tried to tell her that, but it seems to make no impression on her. I am so broken-hearted that I have thought many times of turning on the gas.

Won't you please say something—try to make her see how I need her, and how cruel she is? Why won't she return my love, when it means so much to me? JAMES.

Will I tell her where to get off? Nothing doing, Jimmie! But I'll tell you—and a few million like you, who think that falling in love entitles you to a First Mortgage on the other fellow's life—

It doesn't.

The fact that you love this girl doesn't obligate her one particle to return that love. She gave you fair warning that she wasn't serious. But you persisted in going ahead, and now you feel yourself terribly abused. But why?

Suppose the situation was reversed. You wouldn't think you had to love her just because she had "fallen for" you—would you? Of course you wouldn't! You'd feel outraged and imposed on if she pestered you with unwanted attentions! Then snap out of it!

THINKING OF IDEAL

As a matter of fact, I doubt very seriously that you actually love her. The only person you love is yourself. You feel a "need" for this girl—not because you want to make her happy, but because you want to be happy.

You're not thinking of her as a real woman, at all. You're thinking only of that secret picture of an ideal love which you have always carried in your mind—that impossibly perfect woman who would fit all your specifications, satisfy all your needs, comfort all your hurts, strengthen all your weakness. And now that you think you have found her, you're mad as hops because you can't have her, willy-nilly.

Which is probably why she locked the door and hung up the phone, Jim. For a real woman wants to be loved for herself—not just because she's a Handy Accessory.

So, if you want "consideration" in this love game, I'd advise you to show some. Stop thinking just about Jim and his "rights" and wants, and begin to think of the other fellow's.

Snap out of your supercilious, sentimental dreams, and tackle real life and real people. Love's waiting for you—if you'll qualify for it. But you'll never get it by throwing tantrums and going into a Big Fit of Sulks.

Gay Spender Thinks Not of Marriage, Warns Fay King

HE IS REALLY IN LOVE WITH YOU!
A GREAT SPENDER AND SHOWS YOU A SWELL TIME BUT HE'S NOT THINKING OF MARRIAGE!
A BOX OF CANDY MAY MEAN MORE FROM ONE MAN THAN AN ERMINE COAT FROM ANOTHER!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

The girl with a dozen boy friends and plenty of dates may not be as near love, marriage and happiness as another girl with only one serious admirer.

Boys who like good times, dining and dancing, need girl companions. They pay them all the proper attention of generous hosts without the least intention of lasting love or proposals of marriage.

All they ask is that their girl friends be attractive, amiable and jolly.

The cost of a gala evening with all the thoughtful attentions that mark a man a popular host and a good spender, is a long way from the lasting responsibility and expense of marriage and home making.

Not spendthrift attentions but serious intentions count most.

The saving young man means more.

Madge Warns Noel to Avoid Seeing Avis Alone

At my dictum that his job until he departed upon his wedding trip was "to be a good soldier and obey orders," Noel rose and, crossing to me, lifted my hand to his lips in a manner that even his courtly father might have envied.

"You couldn't be a martinet if you tried," he said reproachfully, "and I can think of nothing more delightful than to obey your orders."

"Gramercy for the compliment, Noel," I told him. "They're not very many. The most important one is to keep out of Avis Arlen's way, even if you have to take to your heels ingloriously when you see her coming. That goes for Mary, too. But you'll have help from all of us in avoiding her. The second mission is to get those 'poems' to me as soon as possible.

"Do not come back here until 1 o'clock. Come to the side door near this room. Either Mr. Graham or I will be watching for you. I'm sorry to keep you up so long—it is only 11 now—but before I leave I want to be sure that Miss Arlen is soundly asleep. She is sharing my room, you know."

"Yes, Mary told me," he said, "and I am very glad. Now, do you wish me to go and hunt for those things right away?"

NOEL GRATEFUL

"As soon as you've had your five minutes good-night with Mary, let me know," I said. "I think, on the whole, you would better use this room. I can stand guard outside and see that Avis does not give her devoted cavaliers the slip. They're certainly giving her a rush. You owe them both much gratitude."

"Everybody is so kind," the boy said a bit chokingly. "I don't deserve it."

"Don't bother about that part of it now," I said, laughing. "Stay here, and I'll hunt up Mary and send her in. I'll rap on the door in five minutes, and give you an extra grace of a minute or two after that."

"Some time I'll show you how much I appreciate all this,' he said fervently, and I waved him a reassuring au revoir as I went in search of Mary.

I found her in a corner of the library curled up on a couch, half sitting, half reclining, her lovely little head drooping to one side and her eyes closed. She was fast asleep, and she looked so sweet a child in her slumber that I felt my heart flaming again into anger against Avis Arlen for her attempts to dash the cup of happiness from Mary's lips.

WATCHES FOR AVIS

I hated to waken her, for I knew that she was nearly exhausted with the hectic preparations for her wedding; but I finally stooped over her and kissed her forehead tenderly.

"Yes, Noel, darling," she murmured, and then, as she opened her eyes and saw me, her face was suddenly like the heart of a rose.

"I was dreaming about him," she whispered, and I reflected that few who knew Mary's wit, her pertness and her lack of reverence, especially for things sentimental, would recognize her in this melting mood.

"Soon your dreams will all come true, darling," I whispered. "So go now and say good night prettily to your fiance, for tomorrow he won't have that title any longer."

"But a much dearer one," Mary said tenderly. Then, as if she had exhausted all the sentiment she possessed, she kissed a mocking hand to me.

"It will be 'husband, husband,'" she hummed in atrocious parody. "And it's a grand old name! But I serve warning now that I wish to be drawn and quartered if I ever call Noel 'hubby'."

"I'll attend to the ceremony myself," I told her threateningly.

And then she was gone, while I paced up and down the corridor, watching for some possible inadvertent appearance of Avis Arlen.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Exercise Is a Factor in Health

To exercise is one of our most important duties. We should not forget this, yet not one person in a hundred faithfully attends to this personal obligation. It requires a real effort to get out of the house and walk "around the block."

Dr. Copeland

Too often, persons who are used to a moderate amount of exercise, suddenly find they have "no time" to devote to the sports they have enjoyed and practiced. But do not forget that to keep healthy exercise is essential.

The person who has indulged in exercise every day and then stops, begins to take on weight. He becomes sluggish and lazy. He does not realize that the enormous quantity of food which was the regular consumption in the youthful days of exercise, is not necessary after systematic exercise is stopped. This error should be corrected.

When an automobile is driven leisurely it does not use one-third as much gas as when it is running fast. The same thing is true of the human machine.

Every day you should do something in the way of exercise. Swimming and golf are, of course, seasonal activities, but are excellent if it is possible to indulge in them. In swimming, all the muscles of the body are brought into play and the sport forces the player to use his eyes to advantage.

Bowling is another good way to keep in trim, but in many cases the alleys are not as well ventilated as they should be. Most of the other sports are a little too strenuous for the average person, and for him walking is by far the best way to exercise.

A stroll down the avenue to look into the shop windows will do no good. You must walk briskly for at least half an hour a day to stir your system enough to do any good. At the end of your walk you should have a flush in your cheeks and be warm enough to perspire.

If you follow this advice, you will find yourself fitter and will be able to enjoy life much more than you do now. But again I must warn you. Do not eat too much if you have not exercised enough to take care of the food you should normally eat. Overeating is as bad, if not worse, than under-exercising.

Answers to Health Queries

B. L. L. Q—What would cause the upper eyelid to be puffy? I have consulted an eye specialist without results.

Household Hints

Use adhesive tape on the bottom of the salt shaker instead of a cork. It is easier to remove and just as effective.

Heat canned fruit peels in oven thoroughly and they will be easier to grind for fruit cakes.

Dust talcum powder through the old deck of cards. This process will make the cards slide more easily when dealing.

Household ammonia makes a wonderful agent to clean metal, such as brass ashtrays and copper pieces.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Heavy Penalty

When a player, whatever his degree of skill, holds 2½ honor-tricks, including a stopper in the only suit bid by his opponents, and the Dummy goes down with a six-card suit and more than 2 honor-tricks, he is not to be charged with undue optimism for thinking that he can come somewhere near making his contract to take nine tricks. However, Mr. Michael T. Gottlieb, one of the world's stars at Contract Bridge, facing this exact situation, went down 2,700 points, due, it is true, to a nearly Double Dummy defense by Mr. Harold Richard, one of his opponents.

The hand and bidding were:

South, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable; North-South, part-score 60.

Mr. Richard

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	2 ◇
Pass	2 NT	3 ♡	Pass
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

When the contract of three notrump was doubled, Mr. Gottlieb considered the situation carefully. As he had a good gambling three notrump bid, he elected to let the Double stand, and Mr. Richard began a defense which brought about this major disaster. Instead of opening hearts, which he had bid and rebid, he decided to open the fourth-best spade. Mr. Gottlieb won this trick with the Ace in Dummy, played a small diamond to the King, and returned a diamond, allowing Mr. Lightner to win this trick with the Queen. Mr. Richard at this point discarded a spade. Had he instead thrown a club and had Mr. Gottlieb made the same play, the Declarer would not have taken any more tricks. After winning the diamond trick, Mr. Lightner led a heart, and then, although it was unnecessary, another spade was returned by North and the heart King led through again. Thereupon all the spades and hearts were cashed, and the contract to take nine tricks was down six.

TODAY'S QUESTION

♡ K Q 10

North / West / East / South

♡ 4 3 2

South is playing notrumps and has the lead. He requires two more tricks for game. Hearts have not previously been led and only one discarded, and these are the last three tricks in the hand. How should South play?

Answer: South should lead the deuce, and if West plays small, play the Ten from North. By so playing he stands to make two tricks if West has the Knave and two small cards and East the Ace or West the Ace-Knave-small. If he plays the King or Queen and East has the Ace, he will certainly hold up and the Knave will make.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

No Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I learned from friends that the man who served as best man at our wedding was to be married. As we are friendly with both the bride and bridegroom-to-be, we fully expected an invitation to the wedding. They were married a week later, but we did not receive an invitation. We have purchased a gift and are doubtful as to whether to send it now. We received a wedding gift from the groom. What do you advise? T.

I can well understand that you and your husband are perplexed by this happening, for the best man at one's wedding would naturally be such a close friend that certainly we would expect to be invited to his wedding. You do not tell me if the wedding was perhaps so small, with only relatives present, that this might account for your not being invited.

You and your husband would probably have a better idea than a third person would have as to what [illegible] best to do. But I feel that, since you felt an inclination to send a gift and since you have already expressed that inclination by purchasing a gift, you should send it. At least then you and your husband would have made the generous gesture and undoubtedly will be thankful for that in the future. And if you don't send it, you may be sorry for that sometime. Better send it . . . and see what happens. There may be some explanation for the non-invitation that will be revealed later.

Boy Friend's Friends

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My boy friend and I have been going about with another couple for about a year. They are to be married this month. They are having a dinner at a hotel for their families. My friend, to whom I am not engaged, is going to be best man at their wedding. I'd like to know if it would be correct for me to be invited to this dinner? Should I feel hurt if I am not invited? C.

It would be gracious and hospitable for these friends to invite you to this dinner, but, since you are not engaged to this young man, it is not necessary for them to do so. And you have no social right to feel hurt if they don't.

Make this lip test

LOOK at them . . . and your cheeks, too, without make-up. Do they possess the natural glow of health, which comes from a sufficiency of rich, red blood? If they do, make-up is simple . . . if they don't, read on . . . you may find one of the reasons why your skin is not clear.

It is well to remember that a probable reason why you do not have red lips, rosy cheeks, good health, energy and cheerfulness is that your blood is in a run-down condition. Lack of hemo-glo-bin, the red coloring of the blood, may also indicate a weakened condition of the body . . . loss of strength . . . poor appetite.

Neglect of diet, worry, overwork, colds or sickness, frequently break down and retard the natural development of the red-blood-cells and their oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin.

Why not set in motion the rebuilding of those all-important blood-cells instead of procrastinating and sacrificing your appearance and the feeling of being well and fit?

Though you have no organic disease,* you may have a lowered red-blood-cell count with deficient hemo-glo-bin. When this occurs, and it is very common, you need a tonic. Not just a so-called tonic, but a tonic that has the virtue of stimulating gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on" without exhaustion, as you should naturally.

If your condition suggests a tonic of this kind, we recommend S.S.S. because its value has been proven by generations, as well as by modern scientific appraisal.

S.S.S. is truly a blood and body tonic. It is carried by every drug store in America in two sizes—the larger being more economical.

Consult a physician, of course, if you suspect any organic trouble.*

Some interesting facts about the Blood

About 8% of the body weight is blood. It circulates over the entire body something like 200 times daily. On each trip it passes thru the lungs, before entering the heart, to throw off dead air from the tissues and to take up the vitalizing oxygen to convert food material into tissue repair and energy. The only way food can be utilized in the body to give it heat and energy and replace worn out tissue is to combine it with the oxygen released from the blood in the tissues. Hemo-glo-bin of the red-cells carries the oxygen. It is just as important that the hemo-glo-bin be kept up to Nature's standard to insure that the body tissues get their oxygen and can remove the waste matter as it is to eat nourishing food. Constant rebuilding of the red cells is necessary, as their ordinary life is only about 30 days, and extra help is needed when they are below normal. © The S.S.S. Co.

The First Time in 13 Year's

A REALLY New Kind OF WASHER

EASY Spiralator WASHER

① Clothes Last 3 Times as Long
It took the Easy Engineers 5 years to design this great washing principle—the Spiralator—which makes No. 1 Claim possible!

② 50% Greater Capacity
A six-tub washing can be done in 4 loads—cuts washing time down ⅓—saves ⅓ soap, ⅓ water and ⅓ gas!

③ Eliminates Tangling
The clothes move loosely and freely—absolutely never any tangling nor tearing, because of the Spiralator's carefully adjusted "water current." You can pick any piece out of the mass!

For the first time in 13 years the U. S. Patent office has issued a new basic patent on a Washing Machine, listing 31 claims that make it better and different!

It's the new Easy Spiralator, so utterly unlike all other Electric Washers in principle and action that even our hard-boiled copy writers are excited about it!

Exhaustive tests have been made under the supervision of noted authorities, proving beyond any shadow of a doubt that this New Easy Spiralator's gentler action, washes 50% more clothes at a time . . . Triples the washing life of clothes . . . accomplishes new cleansing thoroughness, eliminates all sources of noise and vibration . . . eliminates tangling, saves time in handling clothes . . . Saves hot water, soap; increases life of mechanism.

OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

SETH PARKER'S RIVAL

New England Sketches Heard

Beginning tonight, Pittsburghers are enabled to enjoy a series of dramatic sketches that have been popular in New England for several years.

The sketches, based on historic incidents and New England village stories with typical "Down East" characterizations, are somewhat similar to those of Seth Parker in their quaint homeliness.

Arthur Allen is the principal character actor.

WCAE carries the program Monday nights at 8 o'clock.

Walt Framer sets up a microphone in the Nixon foyer tonight at 8, to broadcast the opening of the new Garbo-Gilbert picture.

Notables arriving at the theater will be summoned to the microphone to speak to the WWSW audience. Helen Dayle will describe the more elegantly begowned first-nighters.

GLOBE-TROTTING

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen: 'Tis Spring. Tra-la-la-la-la—'Tis spring!

I've scanned all the mail, seeking the first note of the robin. It has sounded, in Turtle Creek. The harbinger of spring (first time used this season) gave the early risers on Lynn avenue a lovely concert the other day, according to Mrs. Oscar Bauman.

Every time you get all blown up with your own importance and knowledge some one usually comes along and with sharp direct jab deflates you. I was almost getting by as an expert in coins. I was pushing out words with easy familiarity about the rarity and value of certain coins. I even got to the stage where I used the technical terms; and it was that stage that proved my undoing.

My last proud blast as a numismatic re-echoed in a letter from Jack Daub, Jr., who wrote:

"Since it had to happen, why should I not be the first to straighten you out? Don't refer to a coin collector as 'NUMISMATIC.' Any one who knows anything about it know he is called a NUMISMATIST.

What a sock! . . . and from a philatelist, too! Oh, well . . .

His letter also gives valuable information about the one cent coins that so many of you have. He says that the rare dates are as follows, 1799, the rarest, 1804, and 1793. The 1856 Flying Eagle cent is worth, in good condition, about $18.00.

Hey! Something is wrong here. One globe trotter claims he has a cent dated 1815 and Jack's letter says that they didn't coin them that year.

In the light of all that information Bill Shaver, East McKeesport, says that he has an 1804 cent. That ought to be worth from $5 up, depending on the condition. That's what it ought to be worth. I don't say what you can get for it.

* * *

Mrs. T. A. Garlick, Avalon, has a coin issued in 1773 by the Colony of Virginia.

Mrs. E. R. Morris, Monongahela, has all kinds of copper cents and silver half-dollars.

A new idea—Everybody whose name has been mentioned in connection with old coins automatically belongs to the Globe Trotter "NUMISMATICS." We'll make Charles Marketch, Ford City, and Jack Daub, Jr., Brighton road, advisers-in-chief.

Air Becoming Women's Domain

By AIRCASTER

The debut of Maude Adams, with carte blanche to "act" as she pleases, seems to have marked the beginning of a feminine ascendency in radio.

WEAF breaks down a traditional prejudice against women announcers by making Claudine McDonald, impresario of the women's radio revue, officially an announcer, who will do away with the masculine mike tenders on that show.

Another munificent gesture to the ladies is the WJZ plot to stage a musical-dramatic event February 3 from 9 to 10 p. m., titled "The Weaker Sex."

FEMME OPUSES

The continuity will be written by women, the music will be femme opuses, the speakers will be famous women, and their subjects and the dramatic interludes.

Yeah, you guessed it! It will concern the girls.

Women, I hear, are responsible for a new technique of assisting the theater.

A series of stage relief programe will start Tuesday at WJZ at 6 p. m. when Helen Mencken inaugurating appeals for the folks of the theater by means of excerpts from her plays.

A much more effective method of helping the theater in general, I imagine, would be to soak an admission charge on radio studio audiences which would divert spectators to the theater box offices.

LADIES PREFERRED

We learn from statistics that the six radio dramatic personages most in demand all over the broadcasting lot are Ruth Yorke, Adele Ronson, Elaine Melchoir, Rosaline Green, Marian Hopkins and Elsie Hitz.

We discover, too, that Kate Smith is set for a comeback thrice a week with a patron who will audition her in Minneapolis, January 18.

It is revealed also that Ruth Etting is very likely to begin warbling for an auto builder at WABC.

Mildred Bailey is permanently assigned to the George Jessel programs.

ANOTHER LANE

The pretty Lane sisters, Rosemary and Priscilla, have coached their sister Leota, who goes Columbia within a fortnight, for a cosmetic outfit.

And Harriet Lee is back on the air, as an NBC canary.

To top off all this, the NBC, taking seriously a complaint from Maude Adams, has officially re-christened its control rooms, "Monitor Booths."

Performers, said Miss Adams, don't like to think they are being controlled.

Westinghouse Club To Hear Pitt Dean

Dr. Lee Paul Sieg, dean of the graduate and education schools at the University of Pittsburgh, will address the Westinghouse Club tomorrow night in its auditorium, 501 Penwood avenue. Dr. Sieg will talk on the esentials of education.

Children's Program On Air Today

The Sun-Telegraph Family Children's Program is heard over WCAE this afternoon at 4:45.

The Globe Trotter broadcasts over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.

"Aircaster" spins a yarn over WCAE-WJAS at 6:30.

New Radio Series Written by O. O. McIntyre, Will Rogers

O. O. McIntyre, Will Rogers, George Ade, Bugs Baer, Milt Gross, Sam Hellman, Damon Runyan—the world's most famous columnists and comedians—have turned their talents to radio for a series of broadcasts to be heard throughout the United States, beginning this week.

Under the title, "The Club Car Special," you'll hear comedy dramatizations written by Odd McIntyre, revealing little-known but facetious facts about the great and near-great, such as Sinclair Lewis, Mae West, John McCormack and Walt Disney.

Will Rodgers' humorous views of Russia; George Ade's riotous description of a villager asking a country parson embarrassing questions; the amusing Americana of America's favorite humorists—at their best—will be brought to the air weekly in radio's newest and funniest program.

Sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers, the "Club Car Special" pulls out tomorrow afternoon, making its first stop at WFBG, Altoona, at 3 P. M.

On Thursday the program is carried by WSAZ, Huntington, at 1:30 P. M.; WJAC, Johnstown, at 5:15, and WWVA, Wheeling, at the same hour; WCAE, Pittsburgh, at 6 o'clock; WADC, Akron, at 8 and WLBW, Erie, at 9.

Youngstown and Fairmont listeners hear the "Club Car Special" on Friday, over WKBN at 1 P. M. and WMMN at 6:30.

And finally, on Saturday, Charlestonians hear the show over WOBU at 5:15, with the last stop at Columbus (WAIU) at 7:15.

The second "Club Car Special," next week, follows the same radio route.

In the words of the bromidial commercial announcer "Be sure to listen in on one of the above stations if you want to hear and enjoy radio's newest and funniest program.

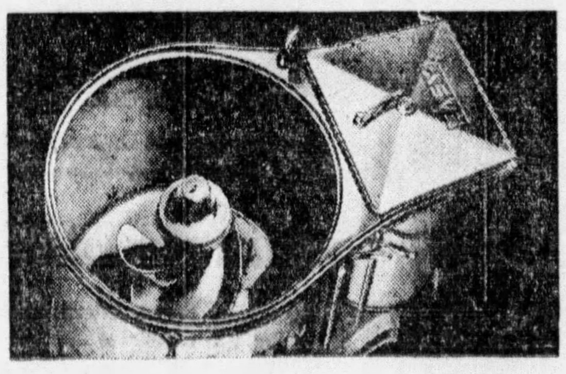
EASY Announces A New and Revolutionary Washing Principle



Makes Clothes Last 3 Times As Long!

EASY Spiralator WASHER

Easy engineers worked 5 years to design this great washing principle. Then for 10 months they ran Spiralators side by side with other washers to prove that the Spiralator is 3 times easier on clothes than other machines. The photos here tell the story.

And there are 30 other patented features! Here are some of them: Holds 50% more clothes than ordinary washers. Clothes are washed two to three times faster. Tangling is eliminated. No vibration or noise. Come see this amazing principle demonstrated in a special glass washer!

What was left of a Turkish Towel washed in an ordinary washer.

SERVICE HAILED BY ROOSEVELT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—A message from President Roosevelt was read from the pulpit of the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul yesterday, commending services held in observance of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the ratification of the treaty of Paris.

President Roosevelt, in his communication to Cardinal Dougherty, expressed the hope that the celebration would promote a feeling of amity and cited Philadelphia as an ideal site in which to signalize the event.

Cardinal Dougherty presided at the mass, celebrated by Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara. In pews were members of the American Catholic Historical Society, who planned the demonstration, and representatives of various French and Franco-American societies in Philadelphia.

ITALIANS PLAN OCEAN HOP

ROME, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—An Italian plane will leave Rome January 27 for Buenos Aires on an experimental flight, it is officially announced.

The public was invited to use this means to send mail to Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay, and special stamps were issued bearing the phrase "1934 Twelfth Year Fascism First Rapid Postal Flight Rome to Buenos Aires."

Other than to say this would be the "first flight," the official announcement gave no hint of whether the service will be a regular one henceforth.

Francis Lombardi and Franco Mazzotti, leading Italian civilian fliers, were selected as pilots.

POLITICS

Pinchot-Shannon Team Sentiment Grows

So far in the discussion of various candidates for Governor and the United States Senate on both the Republican and Democratic tickets, there have been only hesitant and extremely tentative suggestions of what might be termed 'teams."

Mark Shields

The newest has been the proposal that Democratic State Chairman Warren Van Dyke and Joseph F. Guffey should pool their political fortunes in a primary race. Recently Mr. Guffey has been urging the Van Dyke candidacy, but has been quiescent about his own.

One thing which may have entered into this is the indorsement of Mr. Guffey made by National Chairman James A. Farley a short time ago. It is somewhat out of line for national party officers, prior to a primary, to mix into state affairs, and can lead to resentment. Perhaps Mr. Guffey, if he intends to run, wishes the memory of the Farley statement to fade out.

Another combination which is being urged by some and frowned on by others affects the Republicans, and would have Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon run for Governor on the same primary ticket with Gov. Pinchot as a candidate for the Senate.

Much was heard of this during the last special session of the Legislature. Usually it sprung up when friends of the Governor were gathered in knots, and it was noticeable that they manfully kept the subject going. Regular organization Republicans affected a disdain for any such hookup, and before Christmas the subject had received no appreciable impetus.

Associates of Gen. Shannon were discreetly quiet, it being felt that the time was not propitious to urge the General as a candidate under any circumstances.

Shannon to Run; Martin May Not

Since the first of the year, however, there has been some change. There no longer is doubt but what Gen. Shannon is in the field, and he is being intensively pushed by his friends.

Recently the movement has been extented beyond soldier lines, where it received its genesis. Some of this acceleration of Shannon sentiment is based on the growing assumption that Gen. Edward Martin will not actually push for the nomination, so there can be no conflict between soldier candidates.

Significantly, many of those favoring Shannon have begun to talk enthusiastically about having Gov. Pinchot on the ticket with him. Such suggestion has been heard within the last two or three days in Pittsburgh, and it has come from Shannon men who have always been regular and active in their Republicanism. They never before have supported Pinchot in a primary.

Their feeling is that such a ticket in November would be a winner. They also feel that should the regulars fight and defeat Mr. Pinchot for the senatorial nomination he might aid the Democrats in the fall and this, plus the straight Democratic tickets certain to sprout from unrest, would lead to a complete Republican defeat at the general election.

They insist that it is political wisdom to clear the way for Mr. Pinchot to the Senate in order to hold the governorship. Gen. Shannon, they say, always has been a straight Republican, though not a factionalist, and would be a good party man.

Reed Candidacy Subject of Dread

Their attitude toward Senator Reed is one of dread. Their opinion is that he would hurt rather than assist Gen. Shannon should the latter be the candidate for Governor, probably to the point where the Democrats would make a sweep. In other words, Senator Reed would hold none of the restless vote, while Gov. Pinchot would, retaining it for the straight Republican ticket.

The source of this sentiment, within the ranks of regular Republicans, entitles it to great weight.

Mr. Pinchot probably would favor such a line-up, despite the fact that Attorney General William A. Schnader would like to be Governor. The present Governor wants to get to Washington.

The Democratic senatorial primary probably will be a scramble. Maj. E. Lowry Humes has been mentioned as a candidate and the suggestion has been heard that perhaps he would team with Roland Morris on a ticket with the latter running for Governor. There has been no such alliance. If Maj. Humes runs he will do so not as part of a Morris movement but to impede Mr. Guffey. If there is no necessity for stopping Mr. Guffey he probably won't run.

Prof. Marion McKay of the University of Pittsburgh is another thinking about the Senate on the Democratic ticket. Two years ago he was a primary candidate for Congress in the Muldowney district. He, as a candidate for the Senate, would lack support from any branch of the Democratic organization, but would more than likely be aided in another venture for the House.

It is possible that as the skies clear he will seek the latter position, though Mrs. Anne Felix, contesting the election of Muldowney, probably will again seek the nomination.

The most important recent development in state politics is the manner in which some friends of Gen. Shannon are favoring Gov. Pinchot and looking askance at Senator Reed.

OFFICER STRUCK AS HE DIRECTS TRAFFIC

Driver Arrested After Chase; Policeman's Condition Serious

Maurice Bigelow, 30, of 314 Mayfield street, was held in $1,000 bond today in East End Police Court after his automobile is said to have struck Patrolman Joseph Kaminski early yesterday, while the officer was directing traffic in the 3500 block, Bigelow boulevard. The policeman is in Mercy Hospital, where his condition is reported serious.

The arrest was made by Patrolman Joseph Mathews, who said he chased Bigelow's car in a commandeered automobile.

Mrs. Ray Solomon, 47, of 5806 Hobart street, died early yesterday after she had been injured when struck by an automobile at Forbes street and McKee place. Her daughter, Lillian Solomon, 20, was injured and taken to Montefiore Hospital, where her mother died.

The auto driver, Cecil Chapman, 7939½ Hill street, was turned over to the Coroner, who released him on $2,500 bond. Chapman told Deputy Coroner John Aldisert he was passing a moving street car on the right when the women stepped into the street to board the car his auto struck them.

VISITING SICK DAUGHTER

Mrs. Solomon and her daughter had been to the Montefiore Hospital to visit another daughter, Isabelle, who is recovering from an operation. She was to have returned to her home yesterday.

John McNavish, 24, of 519 Center avenue, Rosslyn Heights, escaped serious injury when his automobile was crowded off the highway on the Noblestown road near the Baldwin road, and rolled down a 15-foot embankment. The driver of the car which crowded him failed to stop, he reported.

Mrs. Sally Sand, 70, of 5541 Forbes street, was injured Saturday night by an automobile driven by Alma Blessing, 23, of 5208 Second avenue, in Forbes street, near Murray avenue, according to a police report.

AUTO HITS POLE

S. J. McMichael, 64, of 5728 Walnut street, was injured Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile in Forbes street, near Bellefield avenue, according to police. Police said the driver was John Forehand, 27, of 101 Penn avenue.

When his automobile crashed into a pole at Tenth and McClure avenues, Homestead, early yesterday, Harold Powell, 24, of 600 Amity street, was injured, according to a police report.

Henry E. Keil, Jr., of Large, was held today by Glassport police charged with failing to stop after striking and injuring Steve Seaman, 25, of 535 Delaware avenue, Glassport, with his automobile in Glassport January 9.

Police Chief D. J. George said that Keil was arrested after a broken headlight found near the accident scene was traced to his machine.

Braddock Child Dies Of Hot Water Scalds

Scalded when he fell into a tub of hot water, Gregory Rumirec, 3, died in Braddock General Hospital early today.

Gregory received his fatal burns while playing alone in the kitchen of his parents' home, 1025 Washington street, Braddock, Saturday.

Gold Gets Warm As It Ascends To Mark of Zero

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

In spite of the greatest secrecy at the White House, our Washington man reports:

The dollar will be pegged at 60 cents. Thereby following the Prince of Wales' advice:

"Never change hosses in midair."

We ain't sure whether we have bought gold at a profit until we try to sell it. As the French say:

"The closer you get to zero the warmer it gets."

We shall encourage the use of silver dollars which clocks with the old Russian adage:

"When you hear sleigh bells in summer consult your doctor."

We will make an attempt to collect war debts in spite of the Chinese proverb:

"Frightened rabbits never come home to roost."

And we shall encourage the small business man to borrow money from his banker. That's covered thoroughly by the ancient Turkish bon mot:

"A watched kettle dreads the burned child."

Chemists Here Award Prize to Dr. R. E. Hall

DR. R. E. HALL

SCIENCE WORK BRINGS HONOR

Dr. R. E. Hall, director of the Hall Laboratories, Inc., is honored today by the announcement of his receiving the Pittsburgh Chemists' award for his "outstanding contributions to chemistry"

Among Dr. Hall's publications in the field of pure physical chemistry are included papers on the periodic system, freezing-point lowering in aqueous solutions and conductivities of equeous solutions at high pressures. He also has written articles on activated carbon and on corrosion in acid mine waters.

He was born in Charlestown, O., in 1885 and was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University, obtaining his master's degree at Ohio State University and his Ph. D. degree at the University of Chicago.

After holding several posts as instructor in chemistry and a research chemist, he joined the Koppers Company in 1921. He became physical chemist at the United States Bureau of Mines here in 1922 and resigned in 1926 to head the Hall Laboratories.

Child Burned Fatally As Clothing Ignites

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 15.—Evelyn May Collins, 4, of Everson, died in Mt. Pleasant Hospital from burns suffered today when her clothing ignited from a stove.

STAR WITNESS IN MONACA CASE ILL

Trial of 'Three Toms' May Be Delayed, Park Says

Illness of the Commonwealth's star witness probably will compel a postponement of the trial of the "Three Toms," Coyne, Goslin and Dolan, in the Monaca Club case set for tomorrow.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today received word that former State Patrolman Robert Hirschman, the "inside man" in obtaining evidence, was suffering from acute appendicitis at his home in Reading, Pa., and would be unable to appear.

The "Toms" are charged with violating the liquor laws and gambling.

Dolan and five other Fourth Ward election board officials were denied new trials by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today. All were convicted in the congressional vote fraud cases.

Besides Dolan, who was judge of election in the Eighth District, those refused new trials were William Connolly, inspector of the same district; Albert Diulius, judge; Albert Levine and William Kennedy, inspectors, and Joseph Ridge, election constable, of the Tenth District board.

Three Men Arrested In Numbers Racket

Three men arrested in the drive of Police Chief William J. Kane to rid Mt. Lebanon of the "numbers racket" will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Don Hubbard tonight on charges of operating lotteries. The men, arrested in Mt. Lebanon yesterday, are Howard Dague, 22, of Railroad street, Castle Shannon; Lawrence Geissinger, 28, of Main drive, Mt. Lebanon, and Thomas Gottus, 22, of 616 Delmont street, Beltzhoover.

False Fire Alarm Sounds, Boy Held

North Side police arrested a 15-year-old boy early today, a short time after he "pulled" a false alarm of fire at Shadeland and Schirmmer street, police said. He was turned over to the juvenile detention home.

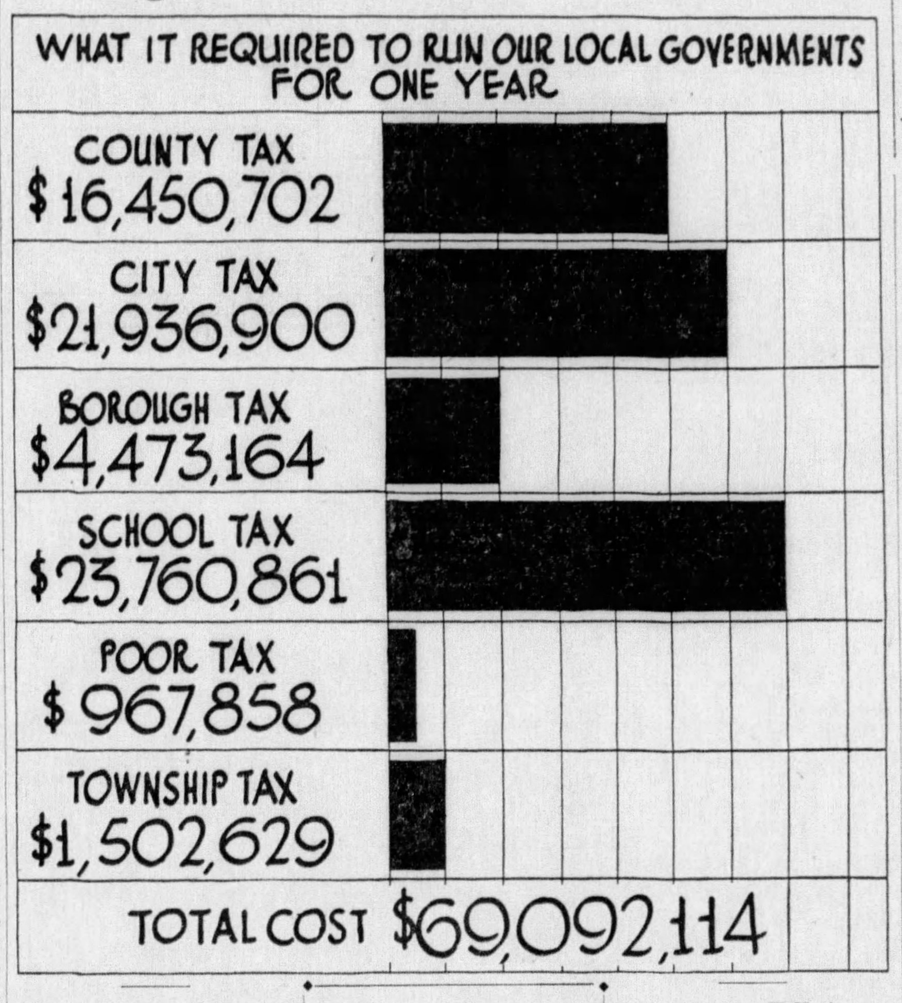
City, County Welfare Merger Again Proposed as Tax Saver



WHAT IT REQUIRED TO RUN OUR LOCAL GOVERNMENTS FOR ONE YEAR
COUNTY TAX $16,450,702
CITY TAX $21,936,900
BOROUGH TAX $4,473,164
SCHOOL TAX $23,760,861
POOR TAX $967,858
TOWNSHIP TAX $1,502,629
TOTAL COST $69,092,114

Plan Central Board To End Relief Duplication

Creation of one central county welfare board to direct the work now done by the County Poor Board and the City Welfare Department, has been suggested once again as a means of eliminating duplication of relief activities and bringing about a huge saving to the Allegheny County taxpayers.

Although welfare workers and municipal officials are reluctant to express an estimate on the savings which would be brought about by such a merger, figures on operating costs of both the city and county units indicate that the annual savings would be well over $100,000

The chart printed with today's article shows just how much it cost to operate the local governments in one year. It is seen that the cost of the county poor board is the lowest of any unit. But in 1932, because of increased demands for outdoor relief, it was necessary to increase the poor levy from 1½ mills to 3 mills, which would mean that the taxes collected would be practically twice as much as shown above.

SAVE IN BULK BUYING

A merger of the two welfare units would make possible additional savings in bulk buying for the institutions maintained by the city and county, namely Mayview, Woodville, Leech Farm and the Municipal Hospital. At present the county operates the county home at Woodville. The city welfare department operates Mayview.

Representative William Walker, of Avalon, who presented a bill in the Legislature last year for the merging of the city and county units, is still desirous of continuing his efforts to cut down the cost of operations through duplication. Walker's bill, defeated in the Senate, would have abolished the Poor Board and the City Welfare Department, replacing them with an unpaid advisory board of six members for the entire county.

BILL HELD UNFAIR

A number of local Representatives and Senators who opposed the Walker bill were sympathetic to its intents and purposes. It is explained by some that the reason for opposing the legislation in its original form was that the matter of adjusting the indebtedness was unfair and that the county would have to assume an unfair burden.

At present the City Welfare Department spends more than $1,300,000 to operate and the county board spends in excess of a million and a half dollars. About half the county expenses are for outdoor relief.

Twenty-five persons are employed in the city offices of the Welfare Department where the operating cost is $56,123.31. The city offices of the County Poor Board are operated for $54,496.38. Under the Walker bill there would be but one city office.

Walker's bill would permit the Economy, Efficiency Would Result, Sponsors Say

County Commissioners to name the unpaid advisory board members, who in turn would select the paid director of welfare.

OPEN TO STATE AID

Both Woodville and Mayview are manned by a staff of attendants and regular physicians. In addition, each has a staff of psychiatrists to care for the mental cases. By consolidating the city and county welfare boards it would be possible to segregate all mental cases in one institution and dispense with the services of one staff of specialists.

It is also pointed out that if one institution were entirely a hospital for mental cases, it would be possible for the county to receive additional state aid for the care of the mental patients.

In 1932 the city spent $710,609.98 for operating the city home at Mayview, where more than 450 persons are employed. In addition to the 450 employes at Mayview and the 25 working in the city office, the department has 11 district physicians and two attaches of a mental health clinic in the city.

OVER MILLION SPENT

In 1932 it cost the county board $416,173 to operate the county home at Woodville, where approximately 300 persons are employed. In 1932 the total expenses of the poor district was $1,205,887.48, with more than half going for outdoor relief.

Maj. J. Clyde Miller, chairman of the County Poor Board, expressed himself as being heartily in favor of a single welfare unit for the entire county.

He said:

"Even as we are working today there is some overlapping. Ever since I have been on the board I have felt that a single board would do the work better and more economically."

MOVE NOT NEW

Maj. Miller, while not agreeing entirely with the Walker Bill, was one of many persons who endorsed it as a step toward improvement of welfare work in the county. Others who expressed their favor of such a merger were Mrs. Enoch Rauh, until recently director of the City Welfare Department; Miss Eleanor Hanson of the Family Association; Dr. E. N. Clopper, of the Federation of Social Agencies, who helped draft the bill; John F. Casey, chairman of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, and Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund.

Tomorrow the Sun-Telegraph will publish an article dealing with the work of borough and township auditors, the cost for this service and comparison with other states.

DELAYS ACTION ON SAFETY DIRECTOR

Women Aid Nominee With Petition for Confirmation

The campaign to put over James F. Malone, the ex-Republican, as Public Safety Director was renewed today by Mayor McNair.

Any suspicion that the Mayor had abandoned the candidate first advanced by wealthy M. L. Benedum was wiped out when His Honor indicated that he would not ask Council to confirm Malone—or anybody else—at today's meeting.

This will give Malone friends at least one more week to try to win over his opponents in Council.

A group representing the Roosevelt Club for Women called on the Mayor today with a petition, bearing 1,000 signatures, praising the Malone appointment.

'GET FIVE VOTES'

The women, who were led by Mrs. Mary Alice Joyce and Mrs. Lena Hein, were told by the Mayor:

"You get five councilmen to vote for him and I'll send his name over right away."

Shortly before the Mayor told reporters:

"If it's anybody it'll be Malone."

Malone at present appears thoroughly blocked by the four Democratic Councilmen and William J. Soost, whose opposition prevented the Mayor from offering Malone's name to Council almost two weeks ago.

If the majority in Council remains fixed in its resolve, the Mayor has indicated he will probably submit the name of John M. Henry, his opponent in the primary.

Henry, according to reliable information, is ready to accept the directorship if he is assured a free hand. Whether Malone, the Republican, or Henry, the old-time Democrat, is named, the result is likely to be distasteful to some of the Democratic leaders.

OTHER APPOINTMENTS

There are other appointments which may come before Council today. The naming of A. G. Holmes and James A. Bortz to jobs on the Board of Adjustment is generally expected. They would succeed James W. Cree, Jr., manager of the Denny estate, and W. C. Rice.

Following the Council meeting, a hearing is scheduled for persons interested in the construction of municipal garbage and rubbish disposal plants. This possibility is being investigated as the result of a resolution by Councilman John M. Huston.

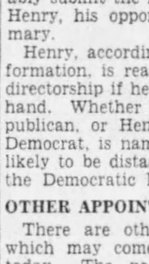
When Mayor McNair's attention was called to a telegram from T. S. Walmsley, president of the United States Conference of Mayors, pointing out the serious situation which would result should CWA workers be thrown back on the public relief rolls this winter, he declared that Pittsburgh is in better shape to care for the unemployed than any other city in the United States.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 15.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Trouble with us is we had the tax on liquor at the wrong time. We should have had it on from 1919 to 1933, when people were drinking. A prospector in the heart of Death Valley is not as lonesome looking as a salesman in a liquor store.



Will Rogers

That Japanese admiral that declared war on America got a lot of publicity, but no war. In fact, all the writers and predictors haven't been able to produce a war as readily as they promised.

Every nation thinks they are getting ready for it quicker than the other and if they each know that the other is ready, there will be none. Yours, WILL.

Munchausens of City To Vie Tonight

Can you tell a little white lie? Can you tell a good tall lie? Can you tell any kind of a lie?

A contest for just such kind of persons will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Lincoln Park fire house auditorium, 7400 Verona boulevard.

The annual competition is being sponsored by members of the Lincoln Park Athletic Club and is one of the first such affairs to be held in Pittsburgh? Edward Mills is chairman.

Those persons telling in three minutes the most unbelievable and far-fetched tales are to be given prizes, according to Mills. Ten prizes will be awarded.

Both men and women and even children are allowed to compete in the contest.

YOUNG HOOVER T ED TO QUIT AIRLINE JOB

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—More than three years ago Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the former president, anticipated the likelihood of an attack upon the circumstances of an air mail contract award because of his connection as a technician with an air mail carrier.

This was disclosed in the answer of the young engineer to the questionnaire of a United States Senate committee investigating the award of mail contracts, and it showed he had offered to resign his position to prevent talk.

Hoover's name had been brought into the inquiry because of his employment as radio engineer with the Western Air Express, later consolidated with Transcontinental Air Transport, which received the central transcontinental air mail contract in 1930.

He said he was told that "a man named Haliburton was stating in Washington that I was using my relationships to promote air mail contracts." He said he had no part in or knowledge of that end of the business, but as the statements were intended to damage his father he sent in his resignation on August 24, 1930.

The company refused his resignation, he said, granting him instead a leave of absence of a year to take treatment for tuberculosis. Recently he returned at a salary of $400 a month.

He wrote the committee:

"As to your questions as to whether I have received or been allotted for services any option, rights, bonuses, gratuities or stock in connection with any aviation corporation, the answer is unreservedly 'No.' And this includes my wife or any other person."

RELIEF MONEY STOLEN BY GUNMEN

A holdup in which a Bruceton grocer was robbed of nearly $1,000 he had on hand to cash checks of men working on relief projects was being investigated today by county detectives.

W. J. Stilley reported two men entered his store in Bruceton road Saturday night, threatened him with guns, and took the money from a safe. Stilley said he had withdrawn $700 from the bank to cash the checks.

Theft of jewelry valued at $1,200 from the store of Abe Raskin, of 1015 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, was reported. Jewelry valued at more than $500, and $10 in gold was stolen from the home of George Harris, 831 Anaheim street, Herron Hill, according to a police report.

Thieves took olive oil, cheese and meats valued at $40 from the Quality Fruit Market, 60 Logan street, it is reported. An unestimated amount of cigars, cigarets and fountain pens, and $20 in cash were stolen from the Beacon Pharmacy, Murray avenue.

The Green Grill, 310 Ross street, was broken into early today. Cash totaling $10 was taken from the cash register. Thieves stole $4 in cash from the butcher shop of Michael Norbut, 316 East Eighth street, Homestead, last night.

RESTLESS DOG BRINGS DEATH TO THREE

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Jan. 15. (AP.)—A dog's restlessness cost the lives of three persons near here yesterday as their boat capsized in the Ohio River.

The dead are Mrs. Arney Clutter, 20; her baby son, John, 2, and Mrs. Clutter's brother, Harold Adkins, 5. The woman's husband, Leonard Clutter, 25, a coal miner, is in a critical condition from exposure.

The four were en route to their homes at Georgetown, Pa., when heir pet police dog suddenly overbalanced the boat by jumping from one side to the other. Mrs. Clutter and her brother were drowned. The baby succumbed to exposure an hour after he and his father were rescued by Benjamin Marshall, a river-front resident, who heard Clutter's cries for help.

Clutter held the child in one arm and gripped the overturned boat with the other until help arrived. The bodies of the woman and the boy have not been recovered.

The dog swam ashore.

Leaps Three Stories, Held for Disorder

A charge of disorderly conduct today faced Nick Saugae, whose only injuries in a leap from his third floor room in the Iroquois Hotel, Beech street, East Pittsburgh, was a bump on the head and a bruise on the face.

His leap was occasioned by an illusion that someone was making an attempt to kill him, he told police. He has been suffering from a mental illness, police reported.

COLLISION KILLS DR. MARKEL

Dr. Maurice Markel, 35, of Braddock, injured in an automobile accident at Miami Beach, Fla., Saturday, died yesterday in the St. Francis Hospital, Miami.

A graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and the Jefferson Medical School, Dr. Markel began practicing in the East End. About a month ago he gave up his local office to continue his profession in Miami.

He was a member of the Allegheny County Medical Association, Phi Delta Epsilon Medical Fraternity and the Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at his home, 1017 Talbot avenue, Braddock.

Dr. Markel was a brother of Attorney Jacob A. Markel. He also leaves three other brothers, Dr. Joseph, of York; Harry and Emanuel, of Braddock, and four sisters, Mrs. J. Myer, Mrs. M. Margolis, and Misses Belle and Dorothy Markel, of Braddock.

CHOIR REPEATS ORATORIO

The Mendelssohn Choir, responding to public demand, will give a repeat performance of Gabriel Pierne's prize-winning musical legend, "The Children's Crusade," in Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow evening. The choir of 200 voices is aided by a chorus of 200 children from Pittsburgh public schools, and is under the direction of Ernest Lunt.

Prominent in the leading roles are Margaret Spalding Stockdale, Mildred Cunningham, Letty Helen Eifler, Helen Bell Rush Davis and Margaret Garrity, sopranos; Mabel King and Viola Bygerson, contraltos; Arthur Davis, tenor; F. H. Hamman, baritone, and Raymond Griffin, bass. Earl Mitchell will be organist.

Advertising Club Drives for Members

An intensive drive for new members is being staged by the Pittsburgh Advertising Club this month, according to a statement issued today by H. S. Metcalfe, president.

Ralph Leavenworth has been appointed chairman of the membership drive and has selected the following team captains: G. C. Congdon, H. V. Jamison, H. B. Winslow, W. C. Arthur, Wesley George, Herbert Briggs, W. B. Robinson, Roy Mumma, E. L. Smith, J. D. Porter, William W. Hogue, George Swinston and J. E. Wright.

'Numbers' Writer Pays Fine of $50

Donald Delezier, 21, 343 Collins avenue, paid a $50 fine in East End Police Court today after admitting to Magistrate Charles F. Papale he had been writing "numbers." Scout car patrolman William Thompson said he arrested Delezier last night while selling a "number" in Station street near Frankstown avenue. Frank Francis, 53, of 5622 Harvard street, who was purchasing the "number" was freed.

Italian Democrats To Fete McNair

Preparations are complete for the testimonial dinner to Mayor William N. McNair by the Italian Democratic Committee Thursday night in William Penn Hotel. Salvatore Sunseri is chairman.

The guests will include Charles Margiotti, Cornelius D. Scully, James L. Quinn, John J. O'Keefe, George Beech, James F. Malone and Postmaster William Turner. On the program will be Mrs. Irene H. DeMillo, Miss Marguerite Lang, Samuel DiPrimio and the Italo-American Symphony Orchestra.

Pitt Appeals for Cash To Finish Cathedral

$600,000 Needed to Keep CWA Men On Job; Gifts Asked

Seeking to raise $600,000, needed to help finish the Cathedral of Learning now and to keep more than 1,500 CWA men at work, Chancellor John G. Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh issued an appeal for additional funds today.

He pointed out that the present CWA project for work on the Cathedral ends February 15, and that materials on hand are being used up rapidly. The government pays the CWA workers, but the university must furnish all materials.

It is expected, however, that the Cathedral project will be continued until May 1. Hoping to obtain funds to buy more material, the university has already applied for this continuation, Dr. Bowman said today.

SUPPLIES NEEDED

The $600,000 would permit the university to buy the supplies needed to complete the plumbing of the building, the electrical and stone work, so that outwardly the building would appear finished, according to Dr. Bowman.

In addition, the interior could be finished to such an extent that the entire building could be used for classes, laboratories, and offices. Between February 15 and May 1, Dr. Bowman estimated, the government, through the CWA, would match the $600,000 by paying out almost as much in wages to 1,500 workers.

Explaining that he plans no formal campaign or organization for raising the money, Dr. Bowman said:

"We are going to trust to the good will and the generosity of the people of Pittsburgh and friends everywhere to see us through. Anyone who has some money to give, by putting it into this building, will touch the future welfare of this community right at its heart."

STONE ORDERED

All of the stone needed to finish the Cathedral is either on the site now, or has been ordered for early delivery, Dr. Bowman said. This includes that for the unfinished top of the tower. Final plans were completed about a year ago.

The new design alters slightly the present top and parapet. A few stones already set will be torn away at each corner, and four Gothic turrets will carry the sheer lines of the building upward 40 more feet. This work will probably start March 1.

The top, as it is now, will be an observation platform, with a lounge room just below.

4 BOY SCHOOL LOOTERS HELD

Four boys, between the ages of 5 and 14, accused of looting schools in Homestead and West Homestead, and arrested after police reported, they attacked Walter Gregg, a janitor, who found them robbing the Walnut Street School, West Homestead, Saturday night, were to be given a hearing before Burgess Richard H. Lawry, of West Homestead, today. Gregg captured two of the boys after they had struck him on the head with a pinch bar. From these police learned the names of their two accomplices and arrested them.

Gregg was treated in the Homestead Hospital after the struggle for lacerations of the head.

According to police, the boys admitted looting every school in Homestead with the exception of the Fourth Ward School, opposite the police station.

OFFICER DIES, WIFE ILL

While his wife lay ill in Leech Farm, Patrolman James V. O'Connor, 32, of 1300 Beaver avenue, died late yesterday in Mercy Hospital of pneumonia.

Officer O'Conner, who reports to the Woods Run Police Station, collapsed Thursday night in the North Side Police Station where he had gone to greet his new superior officer, Capt. Jerry Deasy. He had been a member of the department seven years.

Besides his wife, the policeman leaves three children.

FILM DEPICTS ERIN'S LORE

The first sound and color motion picture filmed entirely in Ireland with an all-Irish cast had its Pittsburgh premiere last night in the auditorium of the Central Catholic High School, 4720 Fifth avenue.

The production, entitled "Voice of Ireland," is sponsored here by the Rev. F. A. Atkinson, chaplain, for the Cathedral Chapel.

It is a unique historic-travel story of Erin. It depicts the story of progress in Ireland, staging episodes of all the important historical events from the legendary days of the Irish Giant, Finn McCool, down to and including the Eucharistic Congress of 1932.

The customs of the people, their every day life, their songs, dances, humor, legend and lore are portrayed and interpreted by a cast numbering more than 1,000. The camera goes back into the early centuries to show scenes at the court of the Pagan Ardi-ri or High-King at Tara, the arrival of St. Patrick, and the age of gold that followed.

The production will be shown again tonight and tomorrow night.

Son, 23, Confesses To Killing Father

ST. HELENS, Ore., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Edward Wagner, 23, was in jail here today after admitting to officers, they said, that he shot and killed his father, Carl Wagner, 49, in a family quarrel at their ranch home near Rainier, Ore.

Amelia Wagner, the widow, told Sheriff Oscar G. Weed the youth rushed to her defense after her husband struck her.

Improvements For 'Forgotten' Ward Pledged

Two hundred members of the Sixteenth Ward Improvement Association yesterday heard Councilmen John M. Huston and Thomas J. Gallagher pledge their co-operation to obtain improvements.

The promise to the ward, frequently described as "the forgotten district," was made at a meeting in the Brashear Settlement, Holt street.

Present city finances preclude the possibility of improvements in the immediate future, the speakers said, but they urged the association to adopt a long-term program which could be presented to Council.

BANK TO REOPEN AT ELIZABETH

Reopening of the State Bank of Elizabeth was expected to be scheduled shortly following the election of a reorganized board of directors and officers, Saturday.

It was from this bank, operating on a restricted basis, that Miss Hazel Weigel, assistant cashier, disappeared several months ago. Her whereabouts is still unknown.

While the stockholders reelected President B. E. Wylie and vice president A. G. Rothey, and the board in turn renamed them to their former office, 13 new directors were selected. Two additional directors renamed were Stanley F. McGuire and John L. Howder.

New directors are Finley Amos, J. B. Abraham, B. H. Byers, Marshall Marraccini, Harry E. Moffett, Robert McLay, George McLay, Allen I. Schwartz and Maurice Schwartz.

MUSICAL GIVEN AT SETTLEMENT

Seventy-two children, pupils in the music school founded at Irene Kaufmann Settlement to all children wishing musical educations, took part in a musical at the Settlement yesterday. The youngest of the soloists was Esther Ruth Laufe, 3, of 718 North Negley avenue, one of the "paying pupils" of the class.

The Irene Kaufmann music school was founded in 1924, when two paid teachers, two volunteers, a violin and vocal teacher were added to the Settlement staff after Sidney Teller, director of the Settlement, saw the need of offering musical instruction to people of the Hill district. Since then the school has grown until its enrollment totals 120 pupils. Those unable to pay for instruction are provided free lessons.

Yesterday's musical was attended by a large number of persons, many of whom have attended former affairs.

Movie Film Show To Assist Needy

Canned goods and wearing apparel will be used as admission to a talking moving picture show for members of Islam Grotto and their families in the Grotto Hall, Montgomery avenue, North Side, tomorrow night. The proceeds of the show will be turned over to the needy.

Women Welcome At Harris Dinner

Sponsors of a dinner to be held in honor of State Senator Frank J. Harris in the William Penn Hotel January 31 said today that women will be welcome to attend, correcting a prevailing belief that the dinner was to be a stag affair, according to James H. Duff, general chairman of the committee.

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections Influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it is an equally excellent preventive. Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy all winter long as your "safety first" measure.

If you have already caught cold there is nothing better you can take than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It doesn't merely suppress the cold—it drives it completely out of the system. At the same time, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

For more than forty years, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Now in two sizes—30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Reliable dealers will not try to sell you a substitute.

"What's the use"

This young wife thought romance had fled—UNTIL

BUT TOM SEEMS SO INDIFFERENT, AUNT ALICE—I WORK SO HARD—KEEP THE HOUSE SPICK-AND-SPAN—BUT, OH, WHAT'S THE USE
DEAR CHILD, MIGHT I VENTURE A HINT?
OH, AUNT ALICE, HAVE I BEEN CARELESS THAT WAY? I DIDN'T REALIZE I WAS OFFENDING—
I KNOW IT, MY DEAR, BUT PERSPIRATION ODOR IN UNDERTHINGS MAKES ANY WIFE SEEM UNROMANTIC. WHY RISK IT WHEN LUX IS SO EASY?
LATER
AUNT ALICE IS RIGHT—EVEN A BUSY WIFE CAN TAKE A MINUTE OR TWO TO LUX UNDIES EACH DAY—LUX TAKES AWAY PERSPIRATION ODOR, YET SAVES COLORS
AND SOON TOM'S ATTITUDE CHANGES—
JUST A LITTLE SOMETHING TO SHOW HOW THIS HUSBAND APPRECIATES HIS CHARMING WIFE
OH, TOM, WHAT BEAUTIFUL ROSES—THEY'RE SO SWEET

Avoid offending

Underthings absorb perspiration odor—Protect daintiness this easy way

No girl need ever be guilty of perspiration odor in underthings. Lux takes it away completely and saves colors! And it's so easy. But do avoid cake-soap rubbing and soaps containing harmful alkali that fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

JAPAN READY TO PROCLAIM PU-YI

International News Service.

PEIPING, Jan. 15.—Formal announcement that Henry Pu-Yi will be proclaimed Emepror of Manchukuo on March 1 was made by the Japanese Legation here today.

Feeling the moment is ripe, the legation said, Japan wishes the populace of Manchukuo to stabilize their political situation and agree to Pu-Yi's accession to the so-called Manchukuo throne.

There is no intention, it was said, of restoring the Ching dynasty in China proper.

The Japanese announcement, however, was construed in some quarters as the beginning of Japan's encroachment in North China.

The legation spokesman said:

"Japan has no desires other than giving full assistance to Manchukuo for progress and development."

The announcement concludes with the observation that no reaction to the enthronement is anticipated here or elsewhere south of the Great Wall in view of the emphasis laid on the absence of any intention to restore the Ching dynasty.

The statement asserts that Japan wishes to dispel the notion that Manchukuo is a "Japanese colony."

U. S. SAILORS LAND IN CHINA

FOOCHOW, China, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—United States sailors landed here today to protect American lives and property in disorders accompanying the evacuation of this fallen rebel capital by the retreating 19th Route Army.

At the request of Gordon Burke, vice consul in charge of the United States Consular District, a Naval party came ashore from the American gunboat Tulsa and immediately went on guard in the quarter.

The Tulsa had been standing by since Nationalist troops began their drive southward down the Min River Valley north of Foochow to put down the secessionist movement in Fukien Province.

Early today two Nationalist Marines were slain by a leaderless rebel band. Further disorders developed among opposing Chinese factions.

Shortly after the Americans were ordered ashore, however, the Nationalist Marines were withdrawn to their vessels in an apparent attempt by Admiral Chen Shao-Kwan to relieve the grave situation.

This, with the arrival of the 10,000-ton British cruiser Berwick, after a dash from Hong Kong, was believed to have lessened considerably the danger to Foochow's foreign population.

Two Verona Councilmen Foremen On CWA Jobs, One Held 'Useless'

Grading of Street 'To Nowhere' Aids Boss' Property

One of the largest of Verona Borough's CWA projects is the grading of a street which several citizens of that community consider unnecessary.

An inspection of the street, Walnut street, shows only a few home properties are benefited by the improvement.

FILLS IN OWN LOT

He is Henry Hickinbottom. Another member of Verona's Council, Alan MacGregor, also is employed as a CWA foreman. Both Hickinbottom and MacGregor received 65 cents an hour. They are not paid, however, for serving as councilmen.

Hickinbottom's property, his home, fronts in Center avenue, the lot running back to Walnut street—now being graded.

Councilman Hickinbottom is taking advantage of the Walnut street grading project by filling in a section of his lot with dirt removed on the grading. Explaining the use of CWA labor in the filling of his lot, Hickinbottom said:

"I've wanted to fill in that lot for some time. And this is as good a chance as any."

Walnut street extends from First street to Athletic way. Photographs show only a few home owners are benefited by the grading. When graded it will serve as a route from First street to Athletic way, near Verona's athletic field. There are already several improved street leading to the field.

When it was pointed out to Councilmen Hickinbottom and MacGregor that the grading of Walnut street appeared to be somewhat unnecessary, MacGregor said:

"There's some people who are always complaining. What if Walnut street doesn't lead anywhere? It gives work to the men."

Asked who determined what Verona's CWA projects should be, Hickinbottom and MacGregor said the Borough Council selected the projects subject to the approval of CWA authorities.

Defenses of British In China Studied

SINGAPORE, Jan. 15.—(INS.)—Vice Admiral Frederic Charles Dreyer, a lord commissioner of the admiralty and deputy chief of the British Naval Staff, arrived here today aboard the cruiser Kent for a series of important discussions regarding British defenses in the Far East.

Admiral Dreyer was accompanied by the British China Seas fleet. He plunged into immediate talks with local defense chiefs in preparation for the forthcoming imperial naval conference to be held here.

Sweethearts Killed By Auto on Road

BUTLER, N. J., Jan. 15.—(Universal.)—Two young sweethearts, who were to have been married February 3, were run down and killed by an automobile while walking together on the highway near here last night.

They were Ernest Fenner, 20, and Kathleen Weaver, 18. Leroy Van Order, the motorist, surrendered to police.

Writer's Body Sent To San Francisco

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(Universal)—The body of James R. Nourse, veteran newspaperman who died here Saturday night, was placed aboard a train last night to be sent to his home in San Francisco, where it is expected to arrive Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held at San Francisco, presumably Friday.

LEAGUE TURNS TO GERMANY

GENEVA, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The League of Nations Council moved for German co-operation today through adoption of a French-inspired resolution suggesting that Germany participate at Geneva in the forthcoming league preparations for the Saar Basin plebiscite.

The plebiscite, to be conducted next year, will determine whether the great coal mining district is to be French or German in the future.

Rene Massigli, of France, brought the German question squarely before the seventy-eighth session of the Council, opening today.

International News Service.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Soviet Russia is willing to enter the League of Nations but will make no move until she is recognized by other European states, notably the Little Entente nations, it was learned today as the League Council convened in Geneva.

Reports, believed to have been inspired, circulated shortly after the opening to the effect Russia was about to apply for membership. But reliable information stated that Russia had made European recognition a pre-requisite.

Active diplomatic moves have been under way for weeks to bring Russia into the League, with France playing a leading part.

29 Arrested in Soviet Drive on Spy System

4-Month Campaign Required to Round Up Suspects

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Nine foreigners and 20 Russians were under arrest today in what Soviet police believed was a new case of espionage which may rival the dramatic Metropolitan-Vickers affair.

Diplomatic representatives of Germany, Austria and Denmark, who sought information in the matter, were refused permission to see the prisoners, and were given no details of the case except that the men had been arrested under a section in the Soviet criminal code covering economic espionage.

Six of the foreigners and all the Russians were associated with the Controll company branch of Societe Des Surveillances, Limited, of Geneva. The arrests were carried on secretly over a period of four months, beginning in September and ending late in December.

The case has not yet been turned over to the public prosecutor, who is to determine whether the evidence is sufficient to warrant a trial.

The available facts, however, indicated that the case centers around the Austrian brothers, Josef and Karl Weinzettl, for, with the single exception of General Manager Silvain Bernhardt, of Belgium, all foreigners who were held either had worked under them or under their friends.

This probably accounts for the fact that three of those held have no connection with the company, but were employed in Soviet Industrial Enterprises at Nicolaev on the Black Sea. This is in the territory covered by the Weinzettls in their regular duties of inspecting and certifying the Soviet export cargoes.

The first arrests were made September 15, 1933, when Soviet officials took into custody numerous Russian employes of the controll company.

ROTHERMERE URGES FASCISM

International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 15—Viscount Rothermere, publisher of the "Daily Mail," today launched a campaign urging the adoption of fascism as the best means of saving the British Empire from ruin.

The "Mail," with a daily circulation of 1,500,000, carried a four-column editorial announcing Lord Rothermere's final conversion to the cause of Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascist Black Shirt movement.

Lord Rothermere declared Italy and Germany were "beyond doubt the best governed nations in Europe today."

Shooting of Cow Leads to Slaying

BECKLEY, W. Va., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Charged with the murder of Stewart Reed, 23 which officers said was caused by resentment over the shooting of a cow, Chess Shrewsbury, 25, of Egeria, was a prisoner today in the Raleigh County Jail.

Reed was shot to death near his home at Twin Bridges Saturday night. Shrewsbury denied the charge.

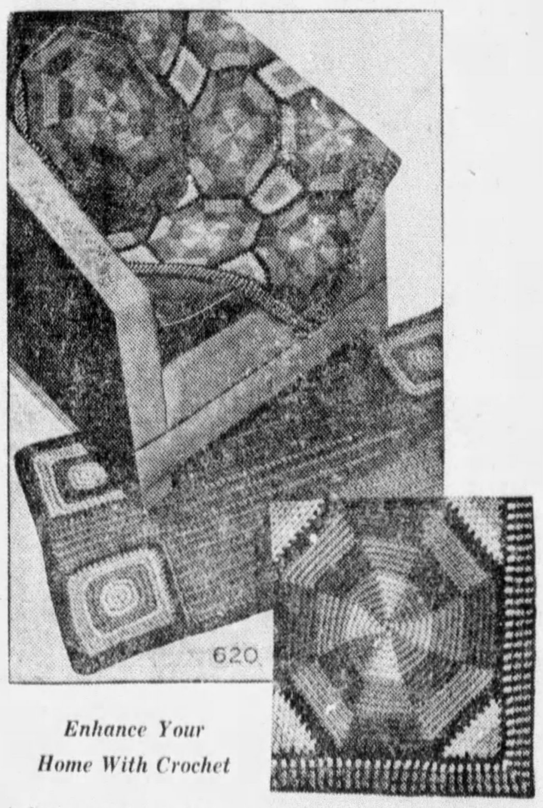
LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS



Enhance Your Home With Crochet

Every one is crocheting and knitting nowadays. And why shouldn't they when they can make such lovely things as this afghan with a matching pillow, and this rug, which will do equally well in bedroom or bathroom? The afghan, usually lovely in design—it is adapted from the well-known Spider Web quilt design—is simple to make. Made in separate blocks, which then are joined together with small squares and triangles, it is good pick-up work. The afghan, as shown, is done in three shades of rose (any other color is equally good) and black. This design lends itself to a carriage or crib cover when done in delicate colors and with fewer blocks. The octagonal matching pillow is attractive. The rug, as illustrated, is made of hooked rug wool, but could, of course, be crocheted of rags.

Pattern 620 comes to you with complete detailed directions for making an afghan 46 x 58 inches or 46 x 69 inches; the pillow; and a rug 24 x 42 inches; exact material requirements and color suggestions.

LEON SEE BEGINS INSIDE STORY OF CARNERA'S RISE

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Ruth Gamble as Pilot.
McCarthy Able Leader.
Early Promise Doubted.
Slab Toiler Rewarded.
Fear Checks Puckmen.
Second Dempseys Fail.

It is hard to believe the report that when Babe Ruth signed his new $35,000 contract for 1934, Col. Jacob Ruppert promised him the managership of the Yankees in 1936 at the expiration of Joe McCarthy's pact. Ruppert is rated a far better business man than an agreement of that sort two years in advance would indicate. It might be nice sentiment, but it wouldn't be good baseball. How could Ruppert know at this time that he would need or want a new manager for his club in 1936? Certainly he couldn't make a change very gracefully if McCarthy put the Yanks up there again this year or next. And even if Joe doesn't reach the pennant or world championship heights again before his contract runs out at the end of 1935, there is no doubt that he can win when he has the stuff, and most baseball operators would think twice before pledging themselves two years ahead to drop a leader of established and recognized ability for a new pilot who cannot be classed as more than an experiment.

Joe McCarthy

M'CARTHY'S ABILITY PROVED BY RECORD

Despite his greatness as a player, there is no assurance that Ruth will make a good manager. There is no doubt about McCarthy. He is the only manager who ever won pennants in both of the present major leagues. In eight major league campaigns Joe never has finished out of the first division; not since 1927 has one of his clubs won fewer than 90 games in a campaign, which is considered pennant ball, and his complete record shows 618 victories against 436 defeats, for the lofty percentage of .586.

It takes more than luck to keep going at such a clip for eight years. McCarthy has had good material, it is true, but a bad manager can spoil a good club. And McCarthy hasn't done much spoiling that can be recalled readily. If Ruppert has made up his mind definitely at this early date to ditch McCarthy in 1933 for the untried Ruth, the Yankee owner isn't the smart baseball man he has been figured as being. And in not denying the rumor he is creating a harmful situation on his club that will keep McCarthy and Ruth from working together as smoothly as before.

HARDER ONLY INDIAN TO GET INCREASE

It isn't always the pitcher with the highest winning mark who has done the best work for a ball club or who makes the biggest hit with the management. Mel Harder is a case in point. He did not succeed in winning half of his games for Cleveland last year, yet he is the only regular among the Indians who will get an increase in salary for 1934. Manager Walter Johnson urged the owners to boost Harder's pay even if they had to dig into the reserve fund. Johnson pronounces Harder one of the most willing workers in baseball, a player ever ready to do more than his share of toil for his team and names Alvin Crowder as the only other American League pitcher he can recall who would go to the mound day in and day out to help his club.

Mel Harder

Harder had to work in and out of turn all last season, when some of the other Cleveland pitchers faltered, but Johnson says he never complained and offered no alibi when beaten. There are many temperamental hurlers who will crab a lot when a fielder lets a batted ball get away from him, but errors, according to Walter, make no difference to this young right-hander. Mel has lost 56 games against 55 victories since he broke into the majors and dropped 17 out of 32 in 1933, but has pitched far better ball than that record would indicate. Last year, for instance, he was the American League's leading slabman in effectiveness, considering number of innings pitched, allowing an average of only 2.69 earned runs in 253 innings.

BAILEY'S CLOSE CALL SLOWS DOWN HOCKEY

Perhaps those new helmets they are wearing will give the National League hockey players a feeling of safety and lead them to speed up the pace again, but it is admitted all around the circuit that the game has lost much of its lustiness and ruggedness since Ace Bailey's narrow escape from death in the Boston collision with Ed Shore. That accident left its imprint on every player in the league. All became afraid to hit hard, avoided body contacts when they could, and let down in hard charging and hard checking. They couldn't shake off the fear of a repetition of the Hub mishap, and veterans say the sport won't recover its former strenuous character until the happening is completely forgotten.

But not all of the slowing down has been due to the Bailey case. There is the surprising slump of the New York Rangers, for instance. Age is figured to be the explanation of that. The best club in hockey a year ago, the Rangers lack their former speed. The leaders of their attack and defense have lost a step. Time is taking its toll. And where the Rangers have gone back, the Toronto Maple Leafs have come forward to supplant them as the best team on the ice.

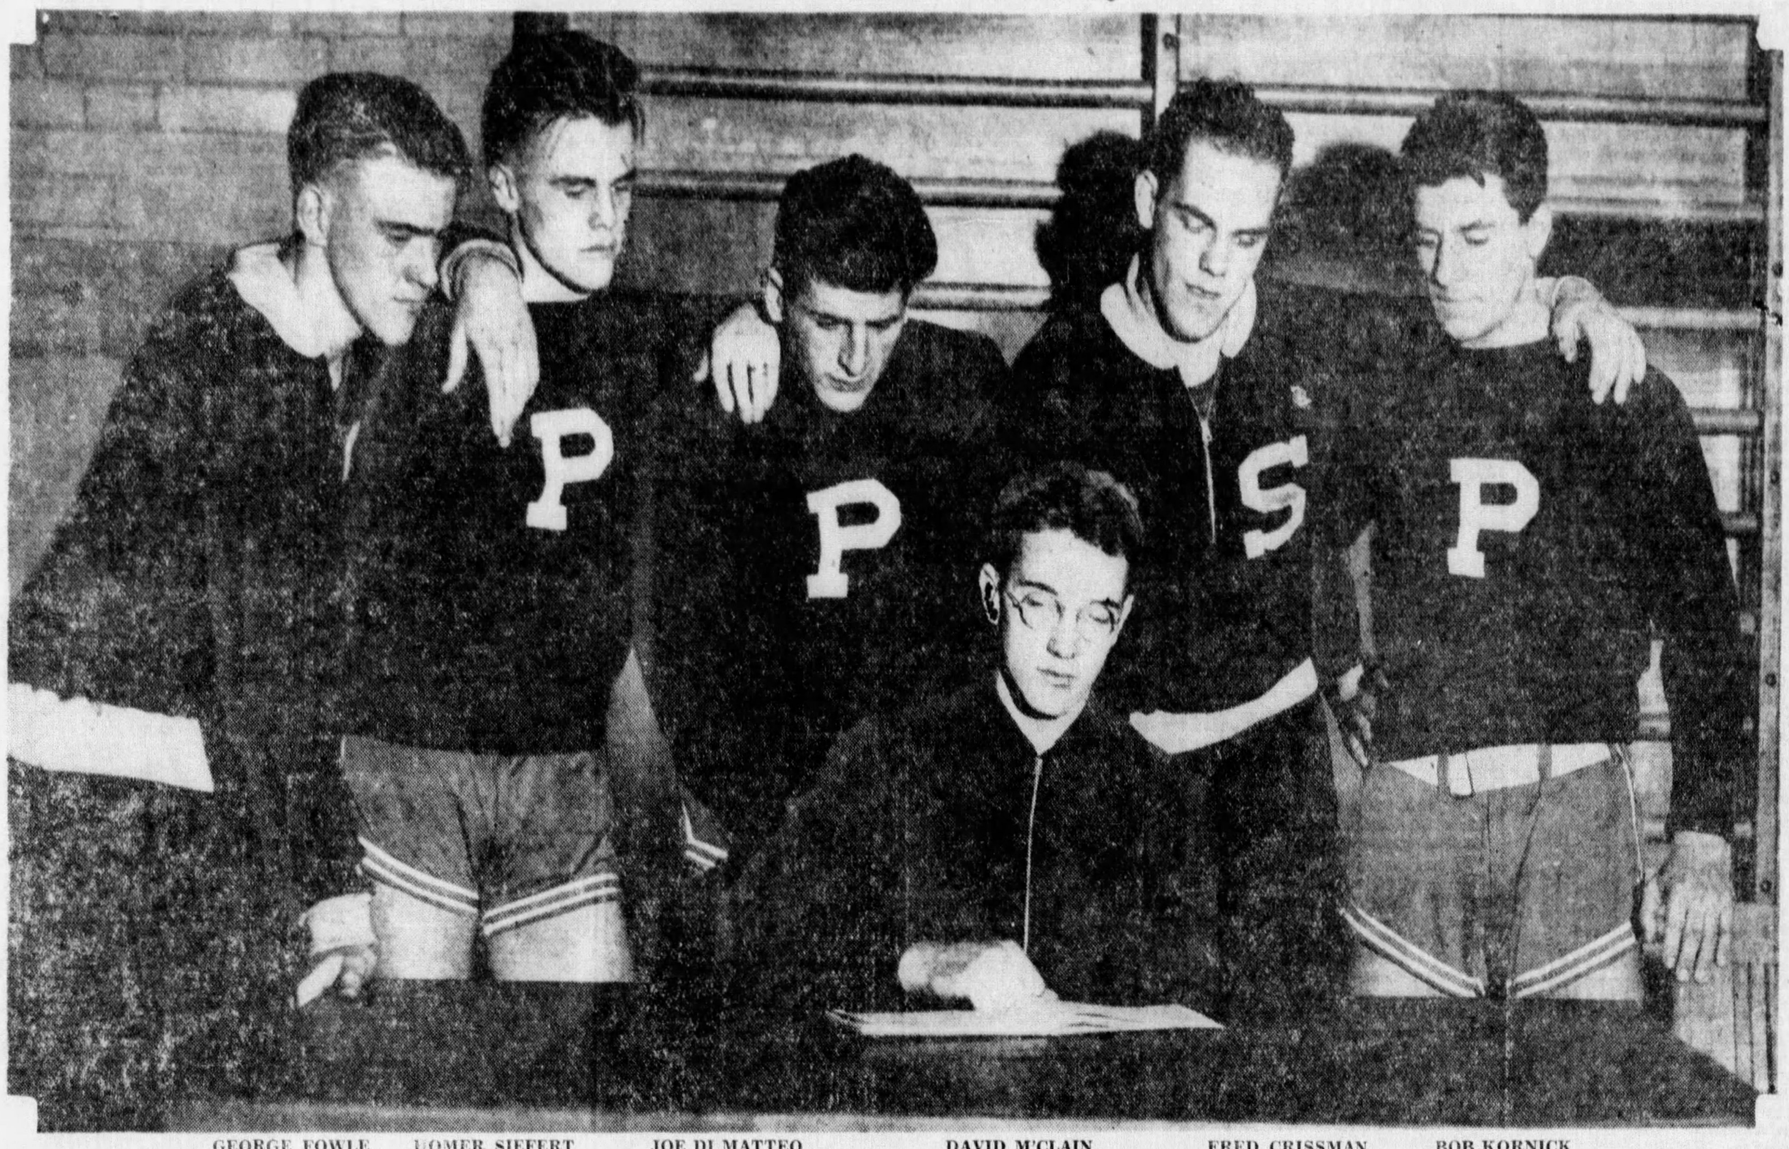
KEARNS FAILS IN HUNT FOR NEW CHAMP

By this time, Jack Kearns probably is about ready to give up in his efforts to find a new heavyweight ring champion. When he parted with Jack Dempsey, Kearns declared he would quickly develop a successor to the Manassa Mauler. But he has discovered that to make a champion out of a ham, it takes more than a manager with a lot of wind and the ability to pick soft opponents. Kearns has tried his luck with a string of heavies, but without success. All of his so-called second Dempseys have proved to be false alarms.

Jack Dorval

Mickey Walker was the best of the lot. He got a draw with Jack Sharkey, but then Kearns made the mistake of matching him with Max Schmeling, who gave Mickey such a licking that even Kearns himself weakened and asked the referee to stop it. Napoleon Jack Dorval was a snappy boxer, but didn't care much for the business and turned out to be just another heavyweight. Al Fay was another who didn't come through. The Mitchell brothers, Leo and Andy, also had a shot at it, with the same result. So did Ernie Owens. Failing in an attempt to get Jim Maloney, Kearns imported as his latest candidate, Jack Pettifer, the English giant. Pettifer's victory over Jack McCoy in his first American bout looked like one of those things, as McCoy went down without being hit. In his second start, Pettifer took such a walloping in Philadelphia from Leonard Dixon, an obscure Negro, that Kearns will hardly have the nerve to mention the Englishman again as a title prospect. The wily pilot probably is convinced now that second Dempseys do not grow on bushes.

Scholastic Football Stars Continue Rivalry on Basketball Courts



GEORGE FOWLE HOMER SIEFERT JOE DI MATTEO DAVID M'CLAIN FRED CRISSMAN BOB KORNICK

Perry and South Hills High Schools, keen rivals in all branches of sport in Section II of the City League, this season are depending upon football stars to "carry on" in basketball, both including among their regulars boys who were chosen on the All-City League eleven selected by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Bob Kornick, of Perry, is the only one in the above group to make the first team in basketball and football. Fowle and Crissman are of South Hills and Siefert, DiMatteo, Kornick and McClain of Perry. McClain keeps score at all Perry games. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

NEW OFFICIALS SATISFACTORY IN DUTIES

By JESS CARVER

Some eight or 10 months ago, the colleges and the old order of basketball officials broke off relations. The colleges decided to give the arbiters a second cut in pay for working the games (and, as a matter of fact, who hasn't taken at least two cuts?) and the officials rebelled.

As a result, the colleges banded together and employed outside referees, young fellows not affiliated with the West Penn group, chaps on the order of Dr. Sykes Reed, Howdy Campbell, Al Allison, Lindsay Montgomery, Herta, Ken Heider and Bill Evans.

It was predicted, more or less freely, that said newcomers might get by o.k. until the first Pitt-Duquesne or Pitt-Tech game, or, for that matter, the initial Duquesne and Westminster tussle. Said the wise ones:

"Yeah. These kids will get along swell until it gets tough. Wait 'til they have to work the Pitt-Duquesne game and the crowd stages a riot. Then what?"

HANDLE BIG GAME—

Well, the first Pitt-Duquesne game is history. Hetra, former Westminster player, was the referee, and Howdy Campbell served as umpire. The boys worked a swell ball game, in tune with the games that have been turned in generally by the newcomers so far this season. There were no riots, the players and coaches both went on record as being well satisfied with the way in which the boys called them, and what is more, other officials, viewing the contest, praised the work of the men with the whistles.

No little credit for the orderly conduct of everyone concerned last Friday night in the Stadium Pavilion is due the rival coaches, Chick Davies, of Duquesne, and Dr. Fed Carlson, of Pitt. In the past, the two have been noted as being the most rabid of mentors. They used to spend most of the evening jumping up and down.

Last Friday, neither left his seat during the contest. Both conducted themselves as quietly, which, while it is not unusual for a coach, at least, may be termed as odd. Chick and the Doctor acted as is befitting the pilots of two fine universities, and as two of the leading college basketball mentors in the country, which they certainly are.

DUKES HAVE "IT"

The Dukes appear to have the old Injun sign on the Panthers, and how. They've won three consecutive victories by a single point, two last season and the 30-29 triumph of last week. What is it, an act?

No, the answer may be found, as far as this point of view is concerned, in the fact that the Pitt offensive will NOT function against the defense set up by the Dukes. Dr. Carlson's lads like to work the ball under the hoop—in close, as they say in the vernacular of the basketball-wise, and against the Dukes, it is very, very tough to accomplish.

Too much credit cannot be heaped on the shoulders of Maxie Hannum, Tech's head coach, for the fine showing his team has made so far this season. It is no secret that Der Maxie is short in material. He hasn't been squawking, but anyone who knows the correct solution to the two-and-two-equals-what problem knows

BAMBINO SIGNS FOR 1934 AT $35,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—With all the fanfare, but not the magic contract figures of the old days, Babe Ruth today signed with the New York Yankees as a player for another year at $35,000, the lowest salary since 1921, when he received $30,000 for his second year with the New Yorkers.

High up in the old red brewery on Third avenue, with Col. Jacob Ruppert a beaming witness, the Babe put his signature to the contract, the terms of which he and the colonel had agreed on last Friday.

Col. Ruppert, who seemed as surprised as everyone else when he and Ruth reached an agreement so quickly, divulged the inside story of the Friday conference. He said:

"I asked the Babe if he would sign for $25,000. He answered that he thought he ought to have $35,000, and I agreed. That was all the dickering there was to it."

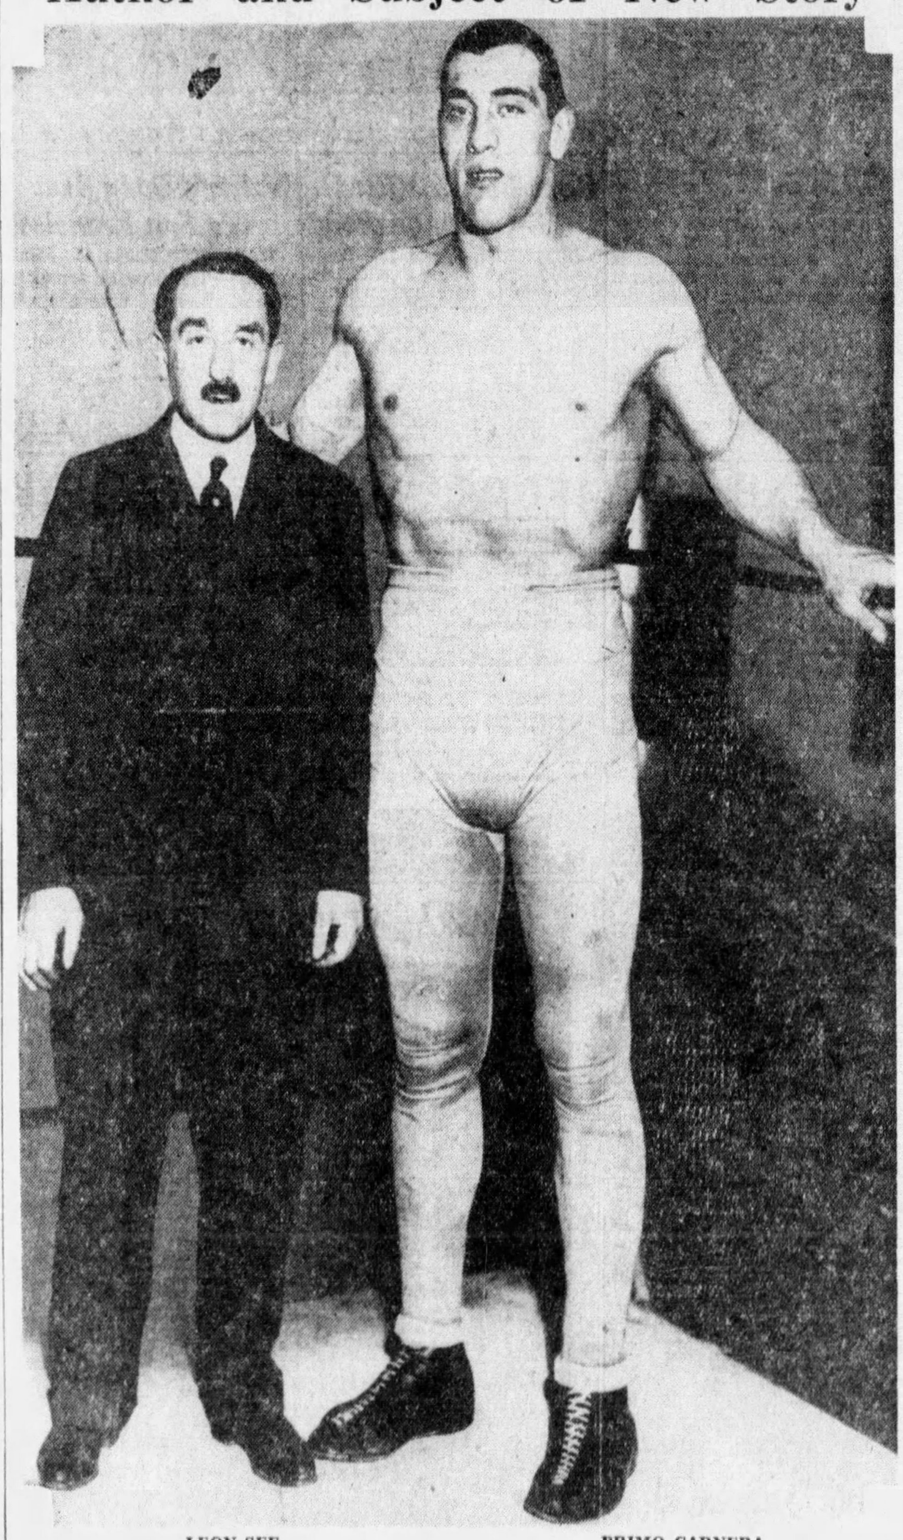
The North American Lacrosse Association, through President Harry Tabor, has announced the suspension of two players. Running Deer, of Buffalo, and Plummer, of Chicago. Running Deer has been set down for 10 days and Plummer for the remainder of the season.

Author and Subject of New Story



LEON SEE PRIMO CARNERA

In today's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Leon See, pioneer French manager of boxers, begins relating the real "inside story" of the rise of Primo Carnera, the heavyweight champion, with whom he is pictured above. He discovered and developed Carnera, but no longer is connected with him. Primo is his "Big Idea." This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

SPORT VIGNETTES

There must be something to that theory that a prophet is not without honor except in his own voting precinct, for comes the word from Philadelphia that they think more down there of young Dan Hassett, who meets Anson Green, taking the place of Red Bruce, in the semi-final to the Jimmy Smith-Ted Yarosz state middleweight title bout at Motor Square Garden, February 2, than they do of Smith, his stablemate . . . It seems that, despite the fact that Smith has beaten Lou Brouillard in Philadelphia, fought to a split decision with Johnny Indrisano in Boston and beaten Young Terry here after the latter had snared a decision over Yarosz, the Philly folks haven't taken to his style of battling and count him as just another of their fighting men . . . Imagine their embarrassment if he should beat Teddy and wake up to find himself the state champion and the outstanding contender for the world title and the Philadelphia fans should go around asking themselves, "Can this be OUR Jimmy Smith?"

Quoting from a letter from a Philadelphia scribe . . . "Frankly we are surprised that Jimmy Smith has established himself so well in your city . . . He is not held in such high esteem in his home town, although he beat Lou Brouillard here, and that should have given him a high rating . . . As we see him, he's a willing young fellow, a plugger, a sharp hitter and a very nice young fellow personally, but he hasn't been able to catch on as an attraction here . . . Maybe it is because he stays close at all times and his style borders on mauling . . . Whatever it is, we may have missed something you people saw to make you like him so well . . . Personally, I think you'll like Danny Hassett much better

'WHOLE STORY' PROMISE OF MANAGER

By LEON SEE

Developer and Former Manager of Champion Primo Carnera, World Heavyweight Boxing Champion.

(Copyright, 1933, by Leon See and King Features Syndicate Inc.)

I am going to tell all—all that I know about Primo Carnera. I am going to relate the whole astounding story—a story without a precedent in the whole history of athletics.

Many people will not believe me. Some may try to deny what I am going to say, but, in doing so, they will denying the truth. I can prove everything; I have witnesses, and other proofs.

Some will think that I am writing in a spirit of spite or revenge.

No, indeed, I have no hate or bad feelings. I have always had, and still have, the most sincere affection for Primo Carnera. I consider him one of my children. I found him, five years ago, workless, penniless, desperate. He had no job, no shoes, no clothes. He was helpless, hopeless.

I helped him, I taught him, I made him.

PRIMO BLAMELESS

I do not wish to hurt Primo Carnera financially or morally. He does not deserve it. He is not responsible for the astounding events which I am going to unveil. He always did just what he was told—what I told him to do.

Primo always responded when asked to prove his courage, his energy, his other truly remarkable qualities. He had to, many times, when things did not work according to my schedule.

Carnera is not to be blamed for any of the things which I am going to divulge.

I take all responsibility. I have done everything; no one else is to be blamed.

What I have done, I would do all over again. I have thought and planned carefully. I knew what I was doing from the start.

Many readers will probably blame me, hate me at first. Perhaps they will change their minds when they have read the whole story.

STORY MUST BE TOLD

Perhaps they would have done like I did if they had the opportunity, and also 30 years of experience in "the game" with its dangers, its difficulties, its ugly sides.

I have another reason to write everything.

No one else in the world knows the whole truth about the rise of Carnera. If I did not write it, and were to die tomorrow, the story would remain untold.

I consider such a history should be written not only because it is unique, but because its psychology is not without value.

People may say: "You are killing boxing." I don't think so. One does not kill a sport by showing its dangers, its wickedness, how badly it is governed by the boxing authorities in all countries.

For ring commissions, federations and their dictators will not be spared. I have surprising things to say about them. . . .

MANAGER ENDS CAREER

My career as a manager is at an end. Thirty years it has lasted. I have always said:

"When Primo wins the title, I will retire."

Now I can tell the whole truth without fear of suspensions, disqualifications or fines. . . .

What do I risk? My life per-

By TOM BIRKS

Battling desperately on a field ankle deep in snow and slush, the Curry and Morgan soccer teams, of the Keystone League, fought to a 1-1 tie at Greenlee Field yesterday afternoon in the first round of the national open challenge cup competition.

Under the rules of the national tournament, extra time should be ordered if a deadlock exists at the end of the regulation 90 minutes. This is subject to the will of the referee. At the end of the hour and a half of play yesterday, George Brannigan called off hostilities. The game will be restaged next Sunday.

CROWD THREATENING

Brannigan found a hostile crowd awaiting his exit from the playing field. The crowd was satisfied with laying down a verbal barrage, attempting to coerce the referee into extra time.

In his stand, the official has the backing of most soccer critics. After one hour and a half of gruelling play the players were physically exhausted and none was in any condition to put in another 30 minutes of action on the heavy field.

Referee Brannigan was supported in his stand by the captains of both teams.

The contest was a bang-up affair from start to finish. The action had not been on for long before a concerted bit of action by the Curry left wing gave Buff Donnelli a chance in front of the goal. Buff took full advantage of the situation and flashed the ball into the corner of the net, with Dresmich, the goal tender, helpless.

Morgan tied the score later in the first half. Fred Mitchell, stellar inside man of the Morgan team, who has been a star all season, was responsible for the tally. Morgan was forcing the play, and when Fred Donnelli fouled Tom Hart, the ball was placed well within the goal's mouth and Mitchell tallied.

AVELLA VICTOR

In other games played yesterday, Avella defeated Gallatin, 3-0, in the national amateur cup tourney, and the Shannon Braves stopped Coverdale in the Panhandle League, 3-2. In the South Park League series, Bruceton nosed out the Zupanics, 3 to 2, and in the Allegheny Valley League, Garfield United and Hillman played a 2-2 tie, the Athletics defeated Curtisville, 2-0, and Harmarville beat Tarentum, 3-0, on the latter's grounds. Quinn, Relatives Hurt in Crash

LIMA, O., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—John P. (Jack) Quinn, former big league spitball pitcher; Mrs. Quinn and her two sisters, all of Chicago, were treated at a hospital here yesterday for injuries received in an automobile collision near Ada, a few miles east of here.

Quinn, who was cut about the head and face, was released from the hospital after receiving first aid, but Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Mary Garretson and Mrs. Zenobia Parks remained there for treatment of painful hurts received when their automobile, driven by Ross Lambert, Quinn's brother-in-law, collided with a milk truck at a road intersection. Lambert was not hurt.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: CAPTAIN JINX—Captain Nicholas L. Johnson, of Seattle, Wash., ran away from home at the age of 14 to follow the call of the sea. For the 50 years following he has sailed all the seas of the world and never lost a vessel which he commanded. But marine death and disaster always followed in his wake. Ten of the ships he commanded went down on their first trips AFTER he quit their bridges. Among the ships are "Lone Star," the "Idler," the "Lincoln," the "Loyal," the "Nellie G. Thurston," the "General L. Siglin," the "Stella Erland," the "J. M. Griffith," the "Rival" and the "Bahada" (which sank twice). Today the grizzled Captain directs a tug hauling dirt from an excavation job. This strange hoodoo already is legendary as regards other mysteries of the deep and the strange fates of ships.

that Max cannot be prodigal with his men. He has about six ball players and has to depend on them for his success or failure this year.

WATCH TARTANS!

So far, the Tartans have beaten West Virginia and lost to Temple and Georgetown, two losses they should not have experienced. Sooner or later, the breaks are going to favor the Plaid, which means that it will be just too, too bad for all and sundry of its opponents.

Art Feldman, Duquesne reliable forward, is out in front in the race for high scoring honors among the city quintets. Feldman has tallied 53 points, a lot of points in any league.

In the Intercollegiate Conference, Gibson, Tech sophomore forward and Crowley, of Georgetown, are leading the pack with 29 points each. Georgetown has scored 118 points in four games to lead all comers.

Trailing Feldman in the city is Claire Cribbs, Pitt's center, with 52 points. Behind Gibson and Crowley comes O'Connors and Hargedan, of Georgetown, and Stydahar, of West Virginia, with 25 points apiece.

when you see him, and I hope we're dead wrong about Jimmy . . . He certainly deserves to go somewhere, for you won't find a more conscientious young fighter anywhere . . . By the way, just how good is Yarosz?" . . . Plenty good, brother; plenty good . . . And we think what is wrong with your perspective of Jimmy Smith is that you are standing too close to the subject . . . Stand off a bit and have another look.

From R. F. Elliott, of Mt. Lebanon, comes the suggestion (we thought the football season was over) that it might not be a bad idea in the event of tie games to give the visiting team the ball on the 10-yard line for first down, then give the home team the same opportunity and continue in this order until one of them scores . . . He figures there'd be an added thrill in that the coaches would prepare special trick plays, fake passes, drop-kicks, etc., to get quick results . . . At least, as the author of the plan suggests, it might start an argument if anyone wants an argument—HARRY KECK.

Leon See to 'Tell All' In Carnera Expose

haps. That's O. K. with me. "It's all in the game." And in such case, what a publicity stunt for my story! The apex of a life full of publicity stunts, as one will see!

I was a French soldier throughout four years of the World War. As the poilus say, I should have been killed 10 times. Every day I live is clear profit.

Besides, I have life insurance, and my story is written.

During the Dreyfus affair, Emile Zola used to write: "La verite est en marche." Zola died, but truth did out. . . .

No, I don't wish to hurt Primo Carnera. He always treated me well, realized what I had done to make him a champion, a drawing card, the most talked-of fighter in the world.

PRAISED BY BOXER

When we parted, a year ago, in Paris, he gave me the best photo he had of himself, and on it he wrote:

"A Leon See, il mio secondo padre, che a vitta avro un ricordo inunbliabile per la magnifica e grande prottezione. Con tutti i miei ringraziamente — Primo."

Translated from the Italian that inscription reads:

"To Leon See, my second father, with an unforgettable memory of his great and magnificent protection. With all my appreciation—Primo."

Thus you can understan that we parted more than good friends. I am sure he is as fond of me as I am of him.

Now, he is the champion. He has reached the goal for which we have worked so hard and so long. He finally won the title on his own merit, his own ability, his own actual value.

Being the "champ," my astounding story cannot hurt him.

And that is why I am going to tell everything.

(Tomorrow, the author describes the beginning of the Idea in 1894 that led to the winning of the heavyweight championship in 1933.)

AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF CAPTAIN LEON SEE

Born September 23, 1877, at Lille, France. Very good family. Father, Paul See, was well known factory builder and mechanical contractor. Built many textile mills in northern France, Belgium and elsewhere.

Studied at the Lille Lycee. Bachelor of Arts at 16. Went to Oxford to study English one year, and to Germany to study German. Worked as an engineer with his father till the age of 25. Studied electricity, heating, refrigeration, etc.

All-round athlete. Won many races as amateur cyclist. Ran 100 meters in 11.3. Was good at weight-lifting. Third in all weights competition, Paris, 1901, though lightest of the competitors. Won the middleweight championship of the world for weight-lifting at Polytechnic Club, London, May, 1904.

Won many competitions for card tearing, a popular continental strength test. Tore 125 cards in two, Paris, 1907. Can still tear a full pack of 52 in eight pieces. Won third prize for revolver shooting, world's championship, Paris, 1906—500 competitors.

FRENCH PUBLISHER

Started to write sporting articles for many papers in 1899. Created and edited the first boxing magazine in France: La Boxe et Les Boxeurs, 1909. Created and edited the magazine La Culture Physique, 1906. During the war, created and edited L'Automobile Aux Armees, 1917. Created and edited the magazine: Produire, 1920. Created and edited the daily sports journal, Les Nouvelles Sportives, 1907.

Was first to promote boxing shows in Paris and French provinces. Promoted following fights: Carpentier-Frank Klaus (title), Carpentier-Dixie Kid, Jack Johnson-Jim Johnson (title), Tommy Burns-Bill Squires (title), etc., etc.

Created the first professional boxing commission in France, 1909. Member of the board of the Federation Francaise de Boxe. Representative for France on the Emergency Committee of the International Boxing Union.

Has managed more than 100 boxers, nine champions of France, etc.

DEAN OF MANAGERS

Oldest man in the game in France. Managers like Deschamps, Cuny, Eudeline, etc., have boxed for Leon See.

Author of several books—sports and also literary novels, comedies, humorous sketches, etc.

Has refereed more than 100 fights. During the World War started as a private, was made corporal, sergeant, second lieutenant, and captain at the front. Several times wounded, mentioned in dispatches twice, Croix de Guerre twice, and Legion of Honor.

In 1919, after competition among 30 officers, was put in charge of the technical reception of all tanks manufactured for the army.

Has traveled all over the world—Europe, United States, Australia, India, Africa, New Zealand, Honolulu, etc. In Europe alone, has managed fighters in France, England, Ireland, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Austria, Rumania, Spain, Italy, Portugal, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Scotland.

Father of six children—the oldest, Leon A. See, has just completed a 4,000-mile ride on a motorcycle in 10 days, and is a champion swimmer and soccer football player. His second son, Lucien, was a student at Silver Bay School.

Now a special correspondent and contributor to L'Intransigeant, Paris-Soir, and other French and German journals.

PRO GOLFERS IN FINALE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Golf's "Sultan of Swat" among the American professionals, Jim Thomson, of Long Beach, Cal., and Tom Creavy, of Albany, N. Y., rated as the steadiest of match play competitors, battle it out here today in the 36-hole final of the San Francisco national match play open championship.

They marched into the last round of this section's annual links classic yesterday with convincing 36-hole semi-final victories.

Thomson, ranked by his fellow pros as the longest driver of them all, took the measure of Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, N. Y., tournament winner here in 1932, 4 and 3.

Creavy, methodical young shot maker who won the P. G. A. championship in 1932, eliminated John Rogers, of Denver, Col., tournament medalist and one of the favorites, 3 and 2.

White Meets Smith In First Cue Duel

Earl White, of the city, and Charley Smith, of Duquesne, won the draw held last night and will be the two cueists to inaugurate the Western Pennsylvania pocket billiard tournament at the Ritz Parlors, Sixth street, downtown, at 8:15 tonight. Eleven other star players are included in the tourney, which will continue throughout the week. The schedules for the week follows:

Tomorrow—Harry Reibert, East Pittsburgh, vs. Ed Stroster, Swissvale.
Wednesday—James Williams, Squirrel Hill, vs. Pete Albertoletti, Jeannette.
Thursday—E. J. McMinn, East Liberty, vs. John Young, Irwin.
Friday—H. L. Rumstay, North Side, vs. E. D. Andrews, McKees Rocks.
Saturday—Milan Talovich, McKeesport, vs. Whitey Wilson, Lawrenceville.

Sutter, McCauliffe Win Doubles Title

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, and Gene McCauliffe, of New York, won the national indoor champions, won the Miami-Biltmore doubles title here yesterday, defeating Frank Shields, of New York, and Ricardo Morales, of Cuba, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-0 in a sharply played final.

GRANGE STARS AS BEARS WIN ON COAST

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Harold (Red) Grange may be getting old and his legs stiff, but he galloped like a ghost out of the past yesterday, scoring two of the touchdowns which gave Chicago's Bears a 26-to-7 victory over a Southern California all-star football team before a near capacity crowd of 20,000 at Wrigley Field.

Many of the spectators, a lot of them non-believers in the prowess of the professionals, had not yet gained their seats when Grange flashed through tackle and raced untouched 67 yards for the first touchdown.

Then, adding insult to injury, Grange took one of Doehring's passes off his left shoulder for a 44-yard gain and a touchdown before the game was 15 minutes old.

RANGERS WIN CITY TITLE

Back in kick formation, Dundee Rodgers, veteran halfback of the Rox Rangers, crossed up the defense of the St. Rosalia Preps and skirted left end for a 15-yard run and a touchdown. The score gave the Rangers a 6-to-0 triumph over the Preps and the independent football championship of the city.

The treacherous footing on Ranger Field prevented either eleven from opening up. The rivals battled tooth and nail throughout, with little advantage to either side. The lineup:

Rox Rangers—6.		St. Rosalia—0.

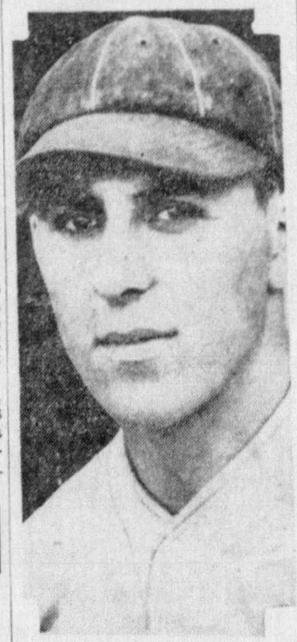
Solters, Local Star, Top Hitter In International



JULIUS SOLTERS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Julius Solters, power house walloper from the sandlots of Pittsburgh, was the best batter in the International League in the past season, according to official averages given out today. Playing a stellar engagement in the outfield for the Baltimore Orioles, Solters hung up a mark of .363, to win the honors from Ike Boone, who had a mark of .357.

The terrific power in the bat of the Pittsburgher is evidenced by the fact that he also led the Class A. A. circuit in total bases, with .358 for the campaign; moreover, he was first in the important matter of driving in runs, as he smacked 157 tallies over the plate. Julius was second to Buzz Artlett in homers with 36; Buzz connected for 39 circuit swats. Solters is a big fellow, but apparently he can move swiftly, as he stole 17 bases. His great year has won him a berth with the Boston Red Sox.

A strange quirk of the International League situation shows Al Mamaux, another Pittsburgher, who managed the league-leading Newark Bears, to be the nominal leader of the league in hitting with a mark of .455, but Al made only five hits to bring this about.

Ollie Carnegie, another native son, batted .317 for Buffalo and collected 29 homers. Bill Brubaker, Pirate farmhand, played 92 games for Toronto and hit .257.

Amateur Scrappers Battle for Grotto

A program of eight amateur boxing bouts will be put on by the Islam Grotto tonight, inaugurating a series of such shows, which is to continue throughout the remainder of the winter.

In a feature bout, Johnny Turpak, of the Willow Club, will meet Leo Sweeney, of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club, at 126 pounds. The program follows:

112-pound class—Mike Genones, Willow Club, vs. Tony Ryan, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

118-pound class—Frank Flavin, Willow Club, vs. Herb Lamberger, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

126-pound class—Patsy Costello, Willow Club, vs. Dick Kozel, Boys' Club; John Turpak, Willow Club, vs. Leo Sweeney, Boys' Club.

135-pound class—George Marsh, Willow Club, vs. D. McCarthy, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

147-pound class—George Peintoch, Willow Club, vs. Elmer Carr, Pittsburgh Lyceum; John Ungerman, Willow Club, vs. Jack Pully, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

175-pound class—Joe Lupirinacca, Willow Club, vs. Jack Blair, J. L. Thomas Club.

ELMER LAYDEN TO SPEAK AT IRISH FETE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Elmer Layden, Notre Dame's new athletic director and football coach, and all except one of his mates of "Four Horsemen" and "Seven Mules" fame, will be together again tonight at the annuel gridiron testimonial dinner of the St. Joseph Valley Notre Dame club.

Layden, who will officially take charge of athletics at Notre Dame February 1, will be the chief speaker at the rally for the 1933 Irish team which arose to make joyful an otherwise sad season by beating Army. A number of notables, including Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago, former Mayor Joseph V. McKee, of New York, Gov. Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, and Ernest E. L. Hammer, Justice of the New York Supreme Court, will attend.

The only member of the late Knute Rockne's famous 1924 champions missing will be Dr. John Weibel, left guard, who died three years ago. With Layden, fullback, will be James Crowley, left half, now head coach at Fordham; Don Miller, right half, a Cleveland attorney and mentioned as a possibility as Alabama Poly's next head coach, and Harry Stuhldreher, quarterback, now head coach at Villanova.

BUCS MAY BACK SPRINGFIELD

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Middle Atlantic League will open a 126-game schedule May 9, officials of the league decided here last night after eight clubs had posted their forfeits for the season.

The same clubs will be in the league this year as last, all with higher league affiliations except Beckley, W. Va., which will be an independent.

The other teams and the managements for whom they will serve as baseball farms are Wheeling, New York Yankees; Zanesville, Cleveland; Dayton, Brooklyn; Huntington, St. Louis Cardinals; Johnstown, Baltimore Orioles; Charleston, Detroit Tigers, and Springfield.

Alex Pixula, representing Springfield, said the big league tieup for his team will be announced January 20. Reports at Springfield recently said it would be with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dartmouth Puts Off Naming Coach

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—The Dartmouth athletic council, during a 10-hour session, yesterday graded a few candidates for its head football coachship and instructed Athletic Director Harry R. Heneage to make the final arrangements necessary for the appointment of a successor to Jackson Canncell.

Clarence G. McDavitt, of Boston, the council chairman, said the qualifications of 106 coaches were closely studied during today's session before the field was narrowed down to a bare handful.

Summers Regains Pro Squash Title

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Jack Summers, of Boston, Massachusetts Institute of Technology coach, defeated Johnny Skillman, of the Apawamis Club, Rye, N. Y., the defending titleholder, yesterday in the final struggle for the 1934 national professional squash rackets championship. The scores were 11-15, 4-15, 18-14, 15-2 and default.

Skillman defaulted the fifth game because an injury to his right foot suffered in play yesterday.

Willigs, Vanities To Play Tonight

The Willigs, unbeaten in the Allegheny County League, meet the I. K. S. passers in a league tussle on the latters' floor tonight. The I. K. S. quintet hopes to put a crimp in the winning streak of the leaders.

The Goldenson Vanities, star girls' team, plays at Steubenville tonight, taking on the Shamrocks. The Vanities defeated the Ohioans here recently.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

Business Progress Evident

By B. C. FORBES

PROGRESS—irregular, but progress.

STATISTICAL improvement is less notable than improvement in sentiment.

RETAIL TRADE news is cheerful. December gains are being repeated in most centers this month. Buyers for retail stores are invading leading cities in extraordinary numbers. Prompt shipments are in demand. Whereas the midsummer spurt was stimulated by the prospect of higher "codified" prices, current purchasing has no such artificial mainspring.

Mr. Forbes

Admittedly, the expanding distribution of public money is partly accountable for the better buying, especially in southern sections, where something of a boom has set in. The hope is that this "priming of the pump" will prove effective and that private activity and employment will broaden sufficiently to maintain and quicken the recovery pace.

MOST COMMODITIES advanced moderately last week, including wheat, corn, rye, oats, cotton. A few, notably copper and rubber, receded slightly.

STOCKS IMPROVED; bonds advanced briskly—except United States government issues, which again fluctuated a trifle nervously.

Speculation is not rampant. Professionals originate most of the dealings both in commodities and shares.

MANY INFLUENTIAL investors and institutions are disposed to mark time until the currency outlook becomes more clearly defined. Conferences with interested parties by President Roosevelt encouraged hopes that revaluation of the dollar, probably at fifty cents, is contemplated as soon as found feasible, and that the Brain Trust's dream of "commodity dollar" is fading.

Emphatic statements still come privately from powerful financial and other capitalistic sources that stabilization would prove the signal for extensive investing in securities, for financing enterprise, for other demonstrations of restored confidence.

THE MANY annual meetings of bank stockholders revealed that, whereas the temporary guaranteeing of deposits up to $2,500 has been practically universally accepted, the largest institutions are disposed to rebel against joining the plan as now formulated, for permanently guaranteeing larger deposits after July 1. The expectation grows that Congress meanwhile will enact modifications.

NEWSPAPERS also featured events at the New York automobile show. Almost every manufacturer booked orders greatly exceeding expectations.

Commands already have gone forth to factories to speed up production, in many cases to the limit of capacity. Twenty-four hour shifts will be not uncommon during the next three months.

It looks as if once again the dynamically aggressive automobile industry will play a leading part in expediting economic revival

NRA IS OVERCOMING much of its initial unpopularity. Already progress has been made by certain industries in eliminating unfair price cutting. Moreover, less is now heard of labor troubles caused by national unions. Large employers have become more hopeful that industry will be granted a rational measure of self-government and that the whole NRA plan will generate permanent substantial benefits.

THUS FAR Congress has pitched no monkey wrenches into recovery machinery. The widespread belief is that our federal law-makers will be guided very largely, if not wholly, by the wishes of the chief executive.

ALL IN ALL, the New Year has brought more encouragement than discouragement.

(Copyright, 1934, B. C. Forbes.)

FARMS' BUYING POWER GAINS

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Retail business during the past week in all sections of the country continued to show even greater gains than were witnessed during the previous week, with day-to-day totals recording increasingly larger gains over the corresponding figures for the previous year.

The most outstanding pickup recorded was in the agricultural regions, where, through the various governmental aids being given the farming population, a greater circulation of money than in some years has given a marked impetus to business in all forms, and purchases at retail are showing astounding increases.

In addition to retail gains now being recorded, the buyers for stores have been placing heavy orders for goods in expectation of a substantial increase in consumer demand.

Chart Followers Encouraged as Market Ends Session Without Resracing Opening 'Gap'

Encouraged by the strong opening, speculators and traders nevertheless were more interested through the day in waiting to see how the market closed. Starting the day with what is known in the parlance of "chart readers" as a "gap" opening, the market was viewed as going through a test during the session. An opening such as this morning called for a day of general strength to confirm the initial upturn. To be convincing of really substantial buying a strong closing was called for which would find the market only slightly off from the top. To have the closing marked by a run-off which would cancel any major part of the early rise would hardly be conducive to speculative confidence in the move.

Liquor stocks as a group were worthy of note as perhaps the only section of the market which ran counter to opening strength. The alcohol stocks have been heavy of late soincident with reports of tapering volume of sales. Marked weakness in United States Industrial Alcohol was the feature today, however, that stock breaking several points. The slump was explained by the news of the institution of proceedings by the government against that company and it subsidiary for taxes claimed on alcohol allegedly diverted for beverage purposes several years back.

Leading agricultural products were strong through the forenoon. Wheat ruled as much as 3 cents a bushel net higher at times. Cotton soared as much as $1 a bale in early trading and silver futures pushed ahead for advances of 40 to 50 points, as a result of developments in Washington in the monetary situation.

A member of the New York Stock Exchange, in a statement today says, that President Whitney, of the New York Stock Exchange, does not fear legislative harm to the exchange. Mr. Whitney, he said has expressed the view that "he has never known the United States Senate to do a wrong thing after it has once thoroughly investigated the subject." It is on this theory that he bases his beilef, says the stock exchange member.

Glidden Co., net profit for 2 months ended December 31, last. The first two months of its fiscal year, totaled $121,482, after taxes, interest, charges, etc., compared with net loss ol $185,136 in the like period in 1932.

Adrian D. Joyce, president, says the gains also have continued into January, with sales showing an increase of 42 per cent over the similar period last year.

Standard Statistics Company in its weekly summary of the general business situation says: "Business trends during the past week have remained of a generally favorable nature, and there is ample evidence that moderate expansion is proceeding in virtually every section of the country. Broadly speaking, activity is at the highest level for this season since 1930. Continued gains in business and in all leading lines are reported in the Chicago area. The influx of buyers of merchandise is reported by leading wholesalers to be larger than a year ago."

Visible Grain Supply.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The visible supply of American grain shows these changes in bushels: Wheat decreased 3,243,000; corn decreased 1,465,000; oats decreased 473,000; rye decreased 211,000; barley decreased 209,000.

GOLD ADVANCED FOR TOMORROW

WASHINGTON Jan. 15.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau states that, beginning tomorrow, the price to be paid for domestic, newly-mined gold, until further notice will be 34.45 dollars less ¼ of 1 per cent for handling charge.

This compares with today's price of 34.06 dollars an ounce as announced earlier.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(INS.)—All the gold available in today's London market approximating $4,461,770, was purchased by American buyers presumably on behalf of the United States government.

The amount bought was nearly double the usual quantity for a single day.

The international gold price was raised 7 pence (about 14 cents) today to 128 shillings 6 pence per ounce, with a premium of 8½ pence over the French rate.

This was equal to about $32.75 in American currency at today's opening exchange rate of $5.10½. The close was at $5.12⅛.

PLANETARIUM USES NEW STEEL

Stainless alloy steel, which has developed almost numberless usages in our day, now has the added distinction of being used in heaven—a man-made heaven—the dome of the new Fels Planetarium at the Franklin Institute Museum in Philadelphia. Representing the vault of the sky, the dome is built of Allegheny Metal produced by the Allegheny Steel Company at its plant in Brackenridge, Pa.

Opened to the public on Nevember 1 of this year, the planetarium is a product of the great optical works of Carl Zeiss, in Jena, Germany, and was presented to the Franklin Institute by Samuel S. Fels.

SECOND HERE

Only the second to be erected outside of Continental Europe, and the first in the Eastern United States, the planetarium is undoubtedly one of our modern wonders. In form, the planetarium chamber is a tremendous hemispherical dome, 75 feet in diameter. In appearance, it is a continuous Allegheny Metal sheet lined with white cloth, but actually it has thousands of minute perforations through which the sound of the speaker's voice passes, to be absorbed back of the dome and thus prevented from echoing in the chamber.

The Planetarium, standing 12 feet high in the center of the room, is a remarkably ingenious projector, consisting of 119 stereopticon machines in one, and electrically operated from an organ-like control by an astronomer. In operation the illusion it creates is actually more real than the clearest, darkest night outdoors.

SHOW STARS

While visitors sit comfortably about, the chamber gradually darkens to the blackness of midnight. Then, by manipulation of the control 9,000 stars flash suddenly into being, with breath-taking effect. The stars move in their courses. The planets swing in their orbits. The sun and the moon rise and set in their turns, moving up and down from the horizon as the seasons change, and a cycle of 238 years can be covered in four minutes. The sky can be shown as it appeared in the days of ancient Egypt, or as it appears to Admiral Byrd at the South Pole—space and time, present and future are all subject to the will of the astronomer operating the machine.

A. T. T. STATION LOSSES LESS

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in a statement to stockholders today reported a net loss of 630,000 telephones for the Bell system during 1933 against a net loss of 1,650,000 during 1932.

During the first eight months of 1933, Gifford stated, the Bell system had a net loss of 715,000 telephones, but during the final four months there was a gain totaling 85,000.

The number of telephones in service at the end of the year he said was about 13,160,000, which is 16 per cent below the maximum development reached in 1930.

The last half of 1933, however, showed an improvement, total toll and long distance calls being only about 3 per cent under those for the corresponding period in 1932.

While final figures as to earnings for the year 1933 are not yet available, preliminary data indicate that, treating the system as a whole and including the Western Electric Company, the earnings on American Telephone and Telegraph Company stock were approximately $5.30 per share compared with $5.96 per share in 1932.

Stock Exchange Moves To Check Abuses

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

INVESTIGATIONS OF RECENT stock market events have brought to light the efforts which the New York Stock Exchange is making to bar some of the abuses of the past.

As an example, Frank Altschul, chairman of the exchange's committee on stock list, has testified before an assistant United States attorney in the Atlas Tack inquiry that this company would not be eligible for listing under present day requirements. Atlas Tack was listed in 1920.

Present requirements for listing, according to Mr. Altschul, are that the company must have an annual earning power of at least $750,000 or assets of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000, or both. He stated that the exchange had listed no company with less than 200,000 shares of stock in recent years.

Ruling Makes Pool Operations Difficult

THERE IS NO virtue in mere bigness but the exchange's policy in this respect is aimed at pool operations. It has been notoriously easy for pools to control the market for low price stocks of companies which have few shares outstanding. The capital necessary is relatively small and with a small issue there is not much of the uncertain factor of other large traders to cause difficulties.

Of course, this order will by no means bar pool operations. There have been many pools in the stocks of the largest companies and the higher priced stocks. But the policy does tend to make it necessary for pools to have more capital; it makes their operations more difficult; and, with large companies, their doings are more likely to come to the attention of the public or exchanges officials.

Mr. Altschul also declared that he will recommend to the Business Conduct Committee that it adopt a program to use to a greater exten' than before a system of sending out questionnaires on stocks to which any suspicion attaches.

Seeks Assistance Of Accountants

THE STOCK EXCHANGE also has been campaigning for some time for more detailed financial statements from listed corporations. In doing this the co-operation of auditors has been sought and companies seeking new listings of stocks have been required to agree to conditions desired by the exchange.

The value of this campaign is apparent from a recent listing statement. The organization's income account, which accompanied the notice of listing, showed a wide difference in comparison to previous reports issued by the company. In this case losses for 1931 and 1932 were shown to be larger.

Reminiscent of the Kreuger affair has been a recent opinion of the exchange that, where accountants do not make detailed audit, they should regard it as part of their duty to inquire into the system of internal checking on the accounts.

STEEL UPTURN FORECAST

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—An upturn in the steel industry this week is foreshadowed, the magazine Steel says today, by heavier awards from the railroads and the building industry, plus moderate expansions in purchasing by automobile manufacturers.

The upturn would be a reversal of last week's trend, which saw steel production drop one point to an average of 30 per cent. The review said:

"The automobile industry is slowly working out of its production difficulties, but still is far behind schedules for January, insuring that February and March will be correspondingly stronger months. There seems to be no doubt this delay is due to mechanical problems and not a reflection on markets."

New orders booked by some leading steel interests so far this month are ahead of the tonnage placed in the comparable period in December, the magazine found. It said:

"One of the brightest features of the industrial picture is the evident increase in purchasing power in agricultural areas.

"Railroad business is developing more rapidly. Santa Fe has placed 33,000 tons of rails and will buy 10,000 tons of fastenings shortly. Missouri Pacific has purchased 25,000 tons of rails."

LOCAL AGENCY GETS CUP

At a sales meeting and luncheon tendered to the local agency of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company on Saturday, at the Schenley Hotel, Vice President John E. V. Westfall and John A. Stevenson presented to Holgar J. Johnson, general agent of the Pittsburgh agency, "The Stevenson Cup" which will remain permanently in Pittsburgh as a result of the local agency's having won the cup for seven consecutive quarters.

Mr. Johnson said in his talk at the meeting that 1933 was the largest year of production in life insurance that the local agency has ever had, showing an increase of over 20 per cent over 1932.

The leading producer of business in the agency over a six-year period is James B. Eckenrode who has placed insurance on over 1,300 people in that period of time.

In a statement made at the meeting, Dr. Stevenson forecast an increase in life insurance during 1934, based on the increased buying power that has become evident as a result of the betterment in general business during the last six months of 1933 and that is apparent from a survey of all important industries for the year, 1934.

The meeting was attended by 90 representatives of the company from all parts of Western Pennsylvania.

December Rubber Consumption Rises

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—American manufacturers in December consumed 29,087 long tons of crude rubber against 29,162 in November and 18,015 tons in December, 1932, the Rubber Manufacturers' Association reported today. Consumption for the year 1933 amounted to 405,689 long tons against 332,000 in 1932, according to the association.

Eastern Railroad Fare Reduction Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A reduction in railroad passenger fares throughout eastern and northeastern territories is forecast in official railroad circles here. This outlook is supported by the reported misgivings among eastern rail executives over their failure to inaugurate such reductions on November 1. Intimation was made in railroad quarters here that results obtained by western and southern carriers from their reduced fare experiments have demstrated the advisability of such a course.

TENANTS GET UNUSUAL SERVICE

The Law and Finance Building, 429 Fourth avenue, has been stepping into new fields of service to its tenants.

One of the outstanding features of its policy of doing more than to perform the usual perfunctory tasks of building management, has been the institution of a special uniformed messenger service for oeganizations in the building.

This makes it possible for tenants to secure the immediate services of messengers for the delivery of letters or packages or other errands to any part of the city at a low cost.

J. R. Crutchfield, building manager, pointed out that this enables building tenants to get the full benefits of the time of their regular employes who might otherwise be sent out of their offices on errands which require the attention of only a competent messenger.

Having the service within the building also makes it possible to check back on the time of delivery or the exact circumstances of the delivery with a minimum of effort.

This unique service is only one of the many offered by the building. Other special services include the use of conference rooms, the advantage of dealers' prices in purchasing furniture, furniture refinishing service, expert advice on office arrangement and fireproof automobile parking at outside rates.

STOCKS RUSH UP ON MONEY MESSAGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Speculative markets celebrated the President's monetary message to Congress today with one of the broadest advances of the past several months.

Stocks, with the exception of the alcohols, spurted 1 to 3 or more points.

Stocks, with the exception of the alcohols, spurted 1 to 3 or more points. The ticker tape was several minutes late in the early hours. Wheat got up more than 2 cents a bushel, cotton more than $1 a bale and silver futures developed strength. The dollar dropped nearly 4 cents in terms of sterling and was off around .12 of a cent in relation to the French franc. Secondary bonds moved up substantially and even United States government securities were fairly firm.

While leading shares shaded their peak prices in profit-taking flurries, most of them displayed resistance to realizing. American Telephone and Allied Chemical gained more than 3 points each, and others, up 1 to 2 or more, included United States Steel, Western Union, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, National Steel, United States Pipe and Foundry, Consolidated Gas, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, United States Smelting, American Smelting, General Motors, Johns-Manville, General Electric, Case, Goodyear, International Harvester, Deere, New York Central and Public Service of New Jersey.

The financial district was not altogether taken by surprise so far as the President's major recommendations were concerned. The two billion dollar equalization fund, however, had not been generally forecast although some bankers had previously expressed the belief that something of the sort would have to be done sooner or later if disturbing gyrations of international dollar rates are to be avoided.

Recent buying of American stocks and bonds by foreign operators was said to have been predicated largely on the belief that a message to Congress on the monetary situation was imminent. Advices from abroad also predicted official devaluation at around the present 60-cent level with the President being given further discretionary power to reduce the value as low as 50 cents.

Banking circles, although not entirely in agreement with the commodity dollar idea, were inclined to believe that a fluctuating range of 10 cents in the dollar's gold content might not be injurious to business and, at the same time, might be an aid in controlling prices.

The opinion was expressed in some quarters that, with Congress fixing the gold value of the dollar at 60 per cent of its former parity, both England and France probably would be disposed to listen to some sort of a stabilization agreement. Some foreign exchange dealers felt that a temporary pact, at least, might be arranged, although it was realized that anything of a definite nature would be difficult in view of the political and economic problems now confronting Europe.

WHEAT JUMPS THREE CENTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—In an outburst of general buying, wheat prices jumped more than three cents a bushel early today. Traders devoted attention almost wholly to announcement of a presidential message expected to include proposed nationalizing of monetary gold stocks and dollar devaluation down to at least 60 cents.

Opening 1¼ to 3⅛ cents up, wheat later steadied at about an average of two cents gain. Corn started ⅜ to 1⅜ higher, and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Wheat values went to the highest point witnessed in the last two months. The market was a big affair with the volume of trading such that individual operations were lost sight of. A special stimulus to buyers was the fact that wheat in some cases had risen to above 90 cents a bushel after long being restricted to within the eighties.

Profit-taking on wheat advances proceeded at a lively rate, but quick absorption of offerings formed the rule, and rallies were frequent. Corn and oats responded to wheat price upturns, but were hampered by enlarged receipts of corn, today arrivals at primary points being nearly double those of a week ago.

Provisions advanced with hog values and with grain.

INCREASED ADS INDICATE GAINS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Statistically, there has been no significant change in trend since the turn of the year.

Mr. Rukeyser

The chief shift has been in sentiment, and, as measured at automobile, shoe and furniture sales and by advance advertising schedules, there has been a lift in confidence.

There is a widespread feeling that the huge near-term program of federal spending will prove a stimulent to the volume of business and employment in the months that lie ahead.

The hand of the government was to be discerned, for example, in the counter seasonal dulge in construction in December, which proved the most active building month of the year. December awards were in fact the highest for any month since October 1931. Public works and utility contracts were higher than for any previous month record d. Public construction rose from a low level of $13,000,000 in April to $133,000,000 in December. Incidentally, the last quarter spurt in public works offset the shrinkage earlier in the year, and for the year as a whole there was a net gain of 2 per cent over 1932 in public construction, compared with a decline of more than 10 per cent in private building.

STEEL INDUSTRY GAINS

Reflecting especially a pickup in automobile production, the steel industry in 1933 finished 72 per cent ahead of the 1932 low mark.

In appraising the real prospects for the first quarter, perhaps a more reliable guide than the enthusiastic predictions of men with something to sell is the estimates of shippers concerning their probable freight car requirements. These indicate that the 29 commodities that make up 90 per cent of all freight will fill 6.5 per cent more cars in the first quarter of 1934 than in the corresponding period of 1933. Of course, in March, last year, activity fell artificially as a result of the bank difficulties.

On the basis of a 7 per cent improvement in dollar volume in December over the corresponding month in the previous year, department stores, anticipating a continuation of the forward trend, are reported to have budgeted for a 15 per cent increase in the first quarter.

Hard-boiled financial executives of corporations lean to the view that their companies will find the real cost of the NRA some time in 1934.

The optimistic hope to get by through expanding their gross volume of sales, which had fallen to such subnormal levels that there is still much room for further recovery. A significant expansion in gross would help to absorb rising costs by reducing overhead per unit produced and distributed.

LARGE ORDERS

Automobile executives were elated over the public reaction to the new models. They reported large orders and a trend toward relatively greater interest in more expensive cars than last year. As an index of their belief that the market offered better sales possibilities than a year ago, the companies placed 18.3 per cent more advertising lineage in the Manhattan and Brooklyn newspapers during show week than a year ago.

The election of Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, from which he will withdraw, to the chairmanship of America's largest bank west of the Hudson River is a public reminder of the fact that that institution temporarily at least has become nationalized. Through the purchase of preferred stock, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has control of the voting stock, and, irrespective of public professions, it has demonstrated in this instance that it intends to wield the power which it possesses. Though the older management group in the bank, or rather that fraction of it which has survived, professes to be delighted with the situation, it is known that when the Reconstruction Finance Corporation first indicated that it would make a drive to induce banks to take additional capital, this very bloc feared that the question of control lurked in the background.

That other bankers feel likewise is suggested by the announcement by the First National Bank of New York that it would sell no preferred stock. Likewise both this bank and the Harris Trust and Savings indicated that they had not made up their minds to participate in the permanent guaranty plan starting on July 1.

These straws emphasize that epochal changes in our banking system are in process.

DELAY FACTOR EXTRADITION

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan today granted a two-week continuance in the signing of the United States Supreme Court's mandate ordering the extradition of John (Jake the Barber) Factor to England to face charges of a $7,000,000 stock fraud.

The action, which means that Factor will retain his freedom until the mandate is signed, was agreed to by attorneys so that Factor can testify at the trial of Roger Touhy and three henchmen for his abduction. Those who approved the continuance were United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green and Franklin Overmeyer, representing the British government.

HART CONDUCTS MACK RITES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—William S. Hart, former two-gun hero of the screen, read the last rites for Charles E. Mack, of "Two Black Crows" fame, here today.

Mack killed in a motor car accident in Arizona, and Hart were friends of many years' standing.

The services were conducted from the beautiful Mack home at Newhall, Cal. Noah Beery, the actor and another of Mack's close friends, sang.

Among the pallbearers, active and honorary, were many whose names are nationally known. They include George Moran, Mack's partner; Harry Carey, W. C. Fields, Hoot Gibson, Lew Cody and Rex Bell, motion picture stars; Alexander Pantages, motion picture theater operator; Dr. A. H. Giannini and Jack Kearns, prizefight manager.

HINES, EX-RAIL 'CZAR,' DIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Walker D. Hines, the man who took over the job of running the country's railroads the year after the World War, is dead. He would have been 64 years old on February 2.

His death occurred yesterday in Merona, Italy, from a stroke of apoplexy. His wife and their daughter, Mrs. Helen Hines Tison, were with him.

Hines became director general of railroads in January, 1919, succeeding William Gibbs McAdoo, and held the position until May, 1920, when the roads were turned back to private ownership.

After he resigned as director general of railroads, Hines went to Europe as arbiter under the peace treaties of various shipping and river traffic disputes.

EUROPE SHIFTS WAVE LENGTHS

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—A great switchboard in radio wave lengths of 230 transmitting stations of Europe occurred last midnight in accordance with a plan evolved at a recent conference in Lucerne to prevent overlapping of the stations.

M. Raymond Braillard, president of the Technical Commission of the International Union of Radio Diffusion, at Brussels, with 40 experts, is testing the new wave lengths allotted the various countries, including England. It is hoped that by the new arrangement reception for millions of listeners will be clearer and free of interference.

Jewish Synagogues Expand Activities

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—(AP.)—A commission to help expand and improve the activities of Jewish congregations will be created as an affiliate of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

The new body, which will serve as a clearing house of ideas for 282 congregations embracing 54,089 members, will be known as the Commission of Synagogue Activities, it was said by Dr. Ludwig Vogelstein, chairman of the union's executive board, which is holding its annual meeting here.

19 Children Injured In School Bus Crash

UMATILLA, Fla., Jan. 15.—(AP.)—Nineteen school children and the driver of a school bus were injured today when the bus overturned while making a curve in the road.

J. T. Lindsey, about 50, driver of the bus, appeared to be the most seriously injured.

CHAPTER X.

"Had she ever mentioned any specific person whom she feared or distrusted or who had threatened her?"

"Never."

"Just one more question, Mr. Paige," said Anderson. "You understand that these questions are more or less general. We have to ask them as a matter of routine. Had you and your wife quarreled within a reasonably short period before her death?"

Paige flushed with anger.

"Certainly not," he said promptly but he dropped his eyes as he spoke and his tones lacked conviction. "Mrs. Paige and I were ideally happy together."

"But —" Anderson seemed at a loss how to continue. Then he contented himself with drawing out his envelope and making another note. "Very well, Mr. Paige. I understand that you are staying at a Baltimore hotel. I can reach you there whenever I need you, can I?"

Paige nodded abruptly, snatched his hat from the table and was gone like a flash.

The second he had gone, Anderson turned to Carroll.

"I want you to take my car and shoot over to Washington," he ordered briefly. "Get any lines you can on Paige's day there. Try to trace the telegram, either there or here. He says he had dinner at the Occidental. Talk to the waiters. Of course, you understand that there's a girl in the case—that's why he's so evasive. Make your inquiries discreet."

"Yes, sir," answered Carroll.

Unwelcome Caller

"Let's go on down to the library," suggested the Inspector. "I understand the housekeeper is waiting there to talk to me."

The three of us left the death-chamber together. Anderson carefully locking the door and putting the key in his pocket.

A man was standing on the rug in the downstairs hall. His hat was cocked on the back of his head and he was teetering back and forth with his hands in his pockets and whistling, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby," very much off the tune.

"What the hell are you doing here, Judson?" I heard Anderson say rudely.

The caller was none other than Kirk Judson, a private investigator of dubious reputation, who had been leading the police a merry dance for as many years as I could remember. Judson ran one of the largest—and the crookedest—detective agencies in Baltimore, but somehow he had always managed to evade any direct clashes with the law, even although he had been identified with more than one questionable deal. The police hated him, and would have run him out of business long before had there been any way to do it.

Judson was a tall, gaunt individual, well over 50, I should have imagined. His hair was wispy and gray and in need of a cutting. His eyes, of a keen, penetrating gray, were set too close together, giving his face an unscrupulous look. He had a cruel slash of a mouth, which at this moment was openly gloating. He wore a black suit with a wide white stripe, and a flashy orange tie.

Mutual Dislike

I had known the fellow for years and detested him, although he had always been friendly to the press and anxious to obtain all the publicity he could get. Nevertheless, he had an amazing knowledge of the underworld and had brought many a cunning criminal to justice. Indeed, I rather imagined that the largest part of his income was actually obtained by blackmailing the criminal world itself—digging up information against crooks who were willing to pay him to keep him from turning them over to the law.

Judson made no reply to the inspector's question, but continued to teeter back and forth on his heels.

"I said what the hell are you doing here?" repeated Anderson violently. "Who let you in?"

"MacNalley let me in," finally answered Judson in tones of cold measured dislike that rivaled the inspector's own. "As for what I am doing here—I am doing exactly what you are doing—investigating the murder of Mrs. Paige."

"The devil you are!" exploded Anderson. "By whose authority, may I ask?"

"Certainly you may ask," replied Judson. "There is no reason for me to answer unless I care to, but just in order that you may get it straight right now, I don't mind telling you that I am here by the invitation of Mr. Randolph Paige who has retained me to investigate the circumstances of his wife's death."

"Randolph Paige!" echoed the Inspector, too surprised to keep back the words.

Ordered to Leave

"None other," replied Judson. "And since this happens to be his property, I expect to conduct my investigation without any interference from the police."

"Now you see here, Judson," began Anderson wrathfully, "I don't give a damn who has retained you! Randolph Paige is as guilty as can be or he wouldn't have employed you! But I'll tell you this much: the police are conducting their own investigation, and you can start yours when we've finished and not one minute before. Now get out!"

Judson made no sign of moving but continued to smile his cruel gloating smile.

"Try to make me!" he taunted.

The Inspector was as good as his word.

"MacNalley!" he shouted. "Come here and put this bounder out and see that he doesn't come back until the police have finished their work here!"

MacNalley promptly appeared and started for Judson in a way that showed that the order was entirely to his liking.

But Judson retreated, keeping a healthy distance between himself and the burly Irishman.

"We'll see who's in charge here," he snarled. "Fortunately you're not running the courts."

"You'd be dangling at the end of a rope if I were," retorted Anderson. "You run along and get a court order if you can. But we'll see that you don't prowl around here and destroy any evidence that incriminates Mr. Randolph Paige."

Judson turned on his heel and we saw him run down the steps and get into his flashy orange and yellow roadster parked outside the door.

Suspicion Grows

"I hate that fellow!" exclaimed the Inspector fervently. "He'll hang around here and mess things up and set us crazy. But he'll get his court order, right enough. I can't keep him out, confound him!"

"What's Paige want with him?"

Anderson set his lips in a grim line.

"Something's pretty rotten when Paige engages a fellow like Kirk Judson. Wants his wife's murder solved! Baloney! He wants Judson to get him out of some mess he's in. Paige knows a lot more than he's told us."

"You mean his alibi's phony?"

"Lord, no! Of course, he was with some girl over there in Washington and he doesn't want to tell. I mean a whole lot more than that. Unless I am very much mistaken we're going to find out that this young gentleman knows something about his wife's death—and that something concerns himself!"

"The housekeeper is here, sir, and waiting to see you," said MacNalley, coming up to Anderson and touching his cap.

The housekeeper, Mrs. Anna Deane, was a tall gaunt English woman, who had come from England with Mrs. Paige at the time of her marriage. Mr. Paige had assured us that the two were very devoted to each other. If his word was to be trusted—and in this respect, at least, I believed him—the servant could have had no part in the crime.

Woman Questioned

"Mrs. Deane," began Anderson, motioning the maid to a chair. "You doubtless know that the police have now decided that your mistress was murdered and that she did not commit suicide, as we first believed. You are anxious to help us catch the person responsible for this atrocious crime, aren't you?"

Tears flooded the woman's eyes and she nodded mutely.

"In that case," continued Anderson, his eyes keenly appraising her, "perhaps you can tell us something which did not occur to you when you talked with the Coroner yesterday. First of all, just when did you enter the service of the Paiges?"

"I used to be Miss Sunny's nurse, sir," replied Mrs. Deane. "When she grew to be a big girl and did not need me any longer, I went into private service as housekeeper. About two years before her marriage, I returned to her as a personal maid. I begged her to bring me to America with her and she promised that she would always keep me with her."

Here she paused to wipe away her tears.

"You knew, of course, that she was to become a mother?"

"Oh, yes. There was no secret about that."

"Did she like the prospect?"

"She loved it," was the warm answer. "Miss Sunny was just crazy for a baby. She went around the house singing like a bird."

Synopsis

Beautiful Sonia (Sunny) Paige is found hanging by the silk cord of her dress from the chandelier in her boudoir. Her husband, Randolph (Ranny) Paige, made the grim discovery. Robbery is discounted with the finding of the victim's jeweled pendant around her neck. Suicide is the verdict, but Dickey Carroll, a young policeman, saw a stranger on the Paige grounds the night of the tragedy, and believes the young society matron was murdered. Then, too, the knot in the death cord was an intricate one for a woman to have made. Carroll, unable to get his superiors to re-open the case, appeals to a local newspaper, Kay, the reporter assigned to the case, calls on Sergt. Williams, who, upon learning of the knot, orders an autopsy performed. Anderson puts Carroll on the homicide squad in order to ward off any indiscreet publicity on Carroll's part, but the latter thinks it is a reward. "Ranny" is vague about his "business" in Washington the day of the crime.

LORD ASHBURTON — DANIEL WEBSTER — PRESIDENT JOHN TYLER

Paintings by G. P. A. Healy

The term of the deceased President Harrison was served by John Tyler (1841-1845). This inaugurated a new era with the slavery issue becoming paramount in the new westward expansion. Other important events during President Tyler's term: Ashburton-Webster treaty with Great Britain fixing permanently the border line between Maine and Canada; Morse's telegraph line between Baltimore and Washington, D. C., established; treaty with Texans for future annexation signed; Mormons driven from Illinois. (U. S. History)

MOHAMMED II TAKES CONSTANTINOPLE (1453)

The Byzantine Empire with its high culture was gradually reduced by Mongols, especially the Turks of Central Asiatic origin. These, driven westward by the hordes of Jenghiz Khan, settled in the thirteenth century in Asia Minor. They accepted Islam and within two centuries made themselves masters over the whole Byzantine Empire; their Sultan Mohammed II captured Constantinople, the door to Europe. As arch enemies of Christianity they overran Eastern, Central Europe filling the succeeding centuries with slaughter and devastation. Although their power was broken in the second half of the seventeenth century chiefly by the heroic resistance of Hungary, the Turks kept European countries under subjugation almost to the beginning of the twentieth century. DIAGRAM OF A FLOUR MILL

Flour, one of our most important grain-foods, is wheat without germ, wholly or partly without bran, milled to various finenesses by steel machinery. Generally about 70% of the wheat is recovered as flour of different grades, the rest being used for cattle feeding and industrial purposes. (General Science)

NITRIC ACID BY THE ARC PROCESS

Nitric acid (HNO3) can be made from air by electric arc process. Oxygen and nitrogen of the air heated by the arc to about 3000°C., unite (only about 5%), beginning slowly at 600°C. Reaction: N2+O2=2NO which decomposes by cooling. But if cooling is rapid, there is NO left for reactions: 2NO+O2=2NO2 and 2NO2+H2O= HNO2+HNO3 and 3HNO2=HNO3+2NO+H2O; again 2NO+O2= 2NO2 which re-enters the reaction in the successive towers. The yield of the process is about 30% nitric acid solution, which is concentrated, by distilling it with sulphuric acid, or is neutralized with limestone to form calcium nitrate, a fertilizer (Norge Saltpeter) from which the water is evaporated. BELL'S TELEPHONE (1876)—THE LATER SYSTEM

Bell's telephone consisted of identical transmitter and receiver (above left). Sounds against diaphragms D cause vibration before magnet S changing its magnetic field. This induces electric current in the transmitter-coil flowing to the receiver-coil, changing flux setting up in D' vibrations, similar to the original ones; the result is the reproduction of the original sound. Later improvement was the replacement of the weak current by that of a local battery (above right) with a microphone (left) and transformers between. Parts of modern receiver are shown at right. We Must Have Chivalry in Cards

Bridge players have settled gently down for a cozy winter of bickering.

When the snow is deep in the coal bin and the frost is on the pane there is nothing nicer than an evening of misdeals and bidding out of turns.

Our lesson today will be the man who always wants to play the hand.

What shall we do about this scaly monster? Like death and taxes he is always with us. But he won't do one and never pays the other.

He usually plays with his meek little wife who hasn't got enough gumption to put two lumps of sugar in her tea.

No matter what kind of a hand she is dealt, no matter what she bids, he always overbids her and plays the mitt.

He generally goes off the deep like a scared frog. But he glares at her like she was responsible for the fall of Pompeii, Braddock's defeat and fierce treys and feeble deuces.

Why, we've seen the punk play. And the mugg can't even shuffle. But he always wants to be Casey Jones at the throttle even if it is only a string of empty freight cars.

A woman married to a man like that should always order Spanish omelets. The diet might get monotonous. But she would always have something handy to smack him in the face with.

We're quitting bridge for the winter. We're not mentioning the man's name. He lives next door, weighs 200 pounds and has a fist on him like an elephant's forehead.

We are taking this opportunity to tell him what we think of him. He should let his lovable little wife play a hand once in a while.

How does he think she feels just sitting there watching him boot her bids all over the lot? She's an awful nice lady. That's why we get mad when he hogs the works.

If we ever play another foursome with those folks he has got to let his wife play once in a while.

That's fair to her. And to everybody in the game.

She plays a darned sight worse than he does.

Don't Give Up Hope

It Is Not Yet Too Late For Mr. McNair To Be a Real Mayor, But It Soon Will Be

During the mayoralty campaign last fall, the Sun-Telegraph deliberately did not take sides. We honestly felt that either William N. McNair or John S. Herron would make a good mayor.

Mr. McNair had been before the public in many ways and in many roles over a long period of time. He seemed to ring true.

Mr. Herron had been in public office for 20 years and, on the whole, had acquitted himself well.

It seemed that with the election of either the city and its affairs would be in safe hands.

The people in no mistakable fashion chose Mr. McNair.

Since the result became known, Mr. McNair has exhibited a phase of character which had been heretofore undreamed of even by his closest friends and resulted in astonishing them.

He became a comedian—a wise-cracker—a composite of Bossy Gillis, Eddie McCloskey, Jimmy Walker, with even perhaps a touch of Huey Long.

He developed a strange sense of humor even to the point of jesting at and mocking the most pathetic kind of human being—the man who wants to work and cannot get a job.

He gave little serious thought to the real troubles of the distressed municipality of which he is the chosen leader. Up to now, Mr. McNair has indulged mainly in horse-play when serious intelligent action is needed.

Certainly, he cannot keep this up forever. Yet unless something unforeseen happens, Mr. McNair must be Mayor of Pittsburgh for four years.

This newspaper spoke well of Mr. McNair as a candidate when it said on August 16, 1933:

"We welcome . . . the proposals for municipal betterment put forth by William N. McNair, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor . . . McNair promises that if elected Mayor and supported by Council he will try to bring new and desirable industrial and commercial enterprises to Pittsburgh . . .

"He voices the earnest wish of all workers for civic improvement in advocating the participation of Pittsburgh in the campaign for the eradication of slums . . . McNair's arraignment of the Pennsylvania Legislature for its failure to pass legislation that would have enabled Pittsburgh to join in the warfare on slums was none too strong . . .

"With more discussions of questions like these the campaign will serve an educational purpose, and the citizens will be able to vote with understanding."

We are reluctant to think that the expectations that Mr. McNair raised are in vain. We are not ready to do so yet.

We have not given up hope. It is our earnest prayer that one fine day real soon Mr. McNair will wake up and decide to be a real Mayor and cut out the monkey business.

It is not too late but it will be too late soon. Pittsburgh cannot stand much longer the lack of executive leadership it has had in the first two weeks of Mr. McNair. Furthermore, Pittsburgh will not stand for it.

Mr. McNair has it in him to take a firm hold and act with seriousness and intelligence. Here's hoping he gets down to business.

The Minnesota Decision

The View That It Authorizes Revolutionary Changes in Our Social Structure Is Hardly Warranted

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the Constitution is not violated by a Minnesota statute postponing until May 1, 1935, the right of a mortgagee to take possession under foreclosure of a mortgaged dwelling.

The Minnesota law is predicated upon the existence of an economic emergency, as is the case with most of the so-called recovery legislation enacted this year by Congress.

The decision is acclaimed, hastily and rather too confidently, by the social pioneers of the Tugwell-Richberg school as presaging a tolerant attitude on the part of the court toward the fundamental innovations which the New Deal has brought and which the enthusiasts for change, and even revolution, desire to see permanent features of the new social and economic structure, which they conceive themselves to be building.

A careful reading of the court's opinion hardly warrants this enthusiasm.

It could very properly be described as a rather conservative decision rendered by the liberal majority of the judges.

The court follows quite closely its own precedents, notably the rent cases during the war years, and its decision is just such a treatment of the issues, which the case presented, as might be expected from a sober tribunal whose primary and almost exclusive duty is to defend and maintain the Constitution.

That there was an unmistakable emergency in the state of Minnesota, urgently demanding relief, the court held to be shown.

Many people were threatened with the loss of homes and lands "which furnished those in possession the necessary shelter and means of subsistence."

The court further held that the statute passed by the state of Minnesota proceeded upon a just and correct view of the facts of the situation; that the Legislature acted honestly and without ulterior motives or indirect designs; and that it was not seeking under convenient pretext to impair the obligations of a contract or to bring about any permament change in its operation or effect.

These facts appearing to the satisfaction of the court and the life of the emergency statute being reasonably limited, it was held that no conflict arose with the Constitution of the United States.

It will be seen at a glance how great a chasm separates the Minnesota statute from the emergency legislation passed by Congress, the effect of which, in the opinion of its more ardent sponsors, will be to change permanently many of our institutions and the bases of our social and economic life.

The Supreme Court makes very clear that an "emergency" cannot be made use of in this way, and that fundamental changes in our institutions can only be accomplished by the deliberate action of the people, fully apprised of what they are doing and registering their decisions through the established organs of constitutional expression.

Avoiding the Pitfall

(Copyright, 1934.)

Again the internationalists have been checked in their fatuous efforts to implicate America in the quarrels and jealousies of Europe.

After a conference at the White House the Senate leadership decides not to call up for consideration at this session of Congress the League Court protocols.

These protocols would put America in the discredited League of Nations by way of the trapdoor.

League partisans want us in the League now because the League itself is falling to pieces, and Uncle Sam's money and leadership might actually save the blundering institution.

But Uncle Sam is not as guileless as he was for a while. Bitter experiences, resulting from his idealistic adventures abroad, have brought him back to sober realities. And Uncle Sam values more than ever before the eternal truth of George Washington's farewell admonition:

"The great rule of conduct for us in regard to foreign nations is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Diary: Betimes and a Homer Croy letter ending, "Yours till a nudist has a run in her stocking." Also Percy Crosby's autographed volume of "Sport Drawings," a beautiful tome, and a limning by Walt Disney of my favorite pig, the gruff one, calling me copy cat for imitating its voice.

Basil Woon calling tells sadly of Paris decadence, likening it to an exquisite siren snooling in a tattered shawl. And Floyd Gibbons scudding by with an accolade for Nassau and its charms. So with my wife to greet Charles and Kathleen Norris at the Chatham and Edna Ferber, Clifton Webb and Noel Coward there.

To dinner at Alma Clayburgh's and the President's mother, Mrs. Roosevelt, the guest of honor. And afterward stopped in to see Miriam and Kent Cooper. Then home and I fell to ridding up my tousey desk and to bed reading Alice Longworth's "Crowded Hours," especially liking tales of Cincinnati. * * *

Mae West off the cuff in staccato: Half Irish, half Jewish. Father an Irish prizefighter, who became a night club bouncer. She's Catholic, gives to charities and is religious. Born in Brooklyn near home of Clara Bow, whose father was a Coney Island waiter. On home site of West family is a church. Lives in Hollywood apartment house and is somewhat a hermit. Seldom goes out; never to gay parties. Works most of time. Chief companion is a platonic friend, her manager. Originated shimmy, doing it before Gilda Gray. Does most of her writing in bed. Smokes moderately. * * *

We halted crossing Brooklyn Bridge by motor for one of those lovely vistas of Manhattan only after midnight brings. Beneath moon rays is the time to see the metropolis, to adore it, to make promises to it, to pray and plead with it. For the big city, all snug and serene, seems yours in illimitable loneliness. For once in 24 hours harmless, unable to hurt or bless . . . lost in dream. * * *

A few blocks northward the bleak Tombs prison lifts gray walls and bastions in the dark. Only one small window is lit; a tiny block of gold flung high in a turret. The mind fastens to it in thoughts of a knight hurriedly donning armor and lance, his charger ready below. Of men sitting dazed on the edge of prison cots awaiting a dawn that may mean freedom or Sing Sing. Of weary humanity making the first false step and honestly regretting it. Such a speculative little window in the frozen calm of a New York night! * * *

Personal nomination for the gayest shirts, excepting Isaac Marcosson's, in all the town—those of Grover Whalen. * * *

Something utterly fascinating, too, about a railroad station as dawn pinks the sky. Grand Central, for instance. I idled in its desolate depths watching a whistling Sam sweep up oddments of the day. A queer litter; reams of silver paper, bits of cracker, apple cores, cigaret packets, old envelopes, the heel of a silvered dance slipper and an unspeakably disreputable umbrella that had snapped in two. An unfair reminder of the cluttered floor of a monkey cage at the Zoo. A station becomes so sad and lonely in the wavering night. Advertisements, so chirpy by day, become insolent to weary 3 a. m. eyes. Think of drinking certified cream at such an hour or disporting on the Palm Beach sands! * * *

Bagatelles: Nat Burns, straight actor of Burns and Allen, is a riot of laughs off stage . . . While Miss Allen is very demure . . . Charlie Russell originals are now higher priced than original Remingtons . . . When Helen Kane tries to reduce, she gains, so she has quit trying . . . Noel Coward wanted most to meet Max Baer on his recent visit . . . Ashton Stevens always occupies the same seat locations at Chicago first nights . . . Will H. Hays keeps his home in Sullivan, Ind., open the year round . . . John Held, Jr., once lived in New York on $8 a week . . . Dave Montgomery was billed first in Montgomery and Stone because when the partnership was formed he was the bigger attraction. * * *

In the world's economic runaway I'm wondering if we might not turn with satisfaction to some of the old timers with a one track mind. It was Kin Hubbard who said he did not care particularly for the fellow with the one track mind, but somehow preferred him to the gentleman with a mind like the railroad yards at Harrisburg, Pa.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

You Can Always Bet on Life

Always about this time of year I get The Blues. Not just regular blues—but a regular mountain of Melancholy Mopes.

Usually it begins with a cold in the head. Then I get to looking over my Jan. 1 bills. Next I start to thinking of what a Popeyed Idiot I made of myself last year—and all the other forty-nine. With that, I abandon all control and decide to do-a-walk-out-for-wassa - use-of-going-anyway-when life's-such-a-flop?

Sounds familiar, doesn't it? Get that way yourself most every January, don't you old dear? So what?

For a good many years I couldn't dope out "so what?" Life seemed permanently at an end, and that was that. Why linger on? Then one year I hit on a scheme that has worked fine ever since. Not that it prevents the Melancholy Mopes entirely. But it gives me a toe-hold on the future—and you can stand anything today if you can hope for a better break tomorrow.

What's the scheme? This: When the Mid-winter Blues hit me now, I go out and look at some ground. What kind of ground, for they all pack the same wallop. Real country, if I can reach it. If I can't—any vacant lot, or back yard or strip of dirt along the sidewalk.

I look at that ground. I think what an amazing thing it is. How old it is. How many things have happened to it since the world began. It has been flooded and frozen, burnt and blighted by pests. It has been drenched with blood and tears. It has been befouled with rubbish, trampled underfoot and its rich crop left in ruins. It has often lain waste for hundreds of years. And now it's black and bleak with winter cold.

BUT IN A FEW WEEKS THAT SOIL WILL BE BEARING AGAIN!

In spite of everything—in spite of all its frustrations and failures, its hurts and humiliations—that soil will be bearing again with the spring. There'll be grass sprouting—gay gypsy weeds—perhaps lovely flowers and fine fruits.

And why?

Not because the soil, itself, has invited them. Nor even because man has planted them. BUT BECAUSE LIFE WANTS THEM, WILLS THEM—AND YOU CAN ALWAYS BET ON LIFE.

You can always bet on life to keep going on, no matter how great the depression, how cruel the handicap, how long the delay. Sooner or later, the Old Gal will always get on the job again and start things moving.

You can always bet on Life. That's why this earth has lasted. Men would have given up long ago, but Life has never given up. No matter how bleak the winter, Life comes back again with the spring—and there's a new crop growing over last year's grave.

When the Midwinter Mopes hit me, and I'm blue and through I go out and look at the earth. And I think about Life. Life—the mystery that nothing can lick; the force that always keeps on the job. And I take heart again, for I know that what is true of the earth is equally true of man, the child of the earth.

Just as Life will always move again through the tired soil, so it will move again through the tired hearts of men and women—through you and me. No matter how long the winter, how great the failure or handicap, Life will start in us again—some day. You're discouraged today, disgusted, desperate, perhaps, or so beaten that there's no feeling left in you. You're sure that you'll never care for anything again—never amount to anything.

BUT YOU'RE WRONG.

Presently hope and enthusiasm are going to start moving in you as surely as the sap is going to start moving in the trees.

Presently you'll feel yourself warming and thrilling—quickening with new desire, reaching out to new adventures. And then if you'll let Life have her way with you, as the trees let her have her way—if you'll work with life as the trees work—YOU'LL COME INTO YOUR NEW SPRINGTIME TOO!

So don't give up now! Don't say "I've done everything I can, and it's no use; I'm through!"

There's something yet that hasn't been done—there's something yet that isn't through—and that's life!

YOU CAN ALWAYS BET ON LIFE. NO MATTER HOW DISGUSTED YOU ARE NOW, HOLD ON A LITTLE LONGER—GIVE LIFE HER CHANCE WITH YOU!

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Simplified Courtship

The last decade produced many wonderful women; but most of us who lived through the Jazz Age will probably always link it up in memory with La Guinan, La Garbo, La Joyce and La West. Of such is the quality of glamour! * * *

Fools rush into love-affairs—and win—while "wise" men are studying the road-map and testing the brakes.

There will always be some people in the world who will marry for experiment—just as there will always be some who will try to prove that the gun isn't loaded, by pulling the trigger. * * *

Simplified courtship is the order of the day. All a girl wants to know is whether a man likes his love making rare, medium, well done or chilled. It's all ready-to-serve. * * *

A "perfect lady" is a woman who takes the precaution to turn the radio on full blast before she starts telling her husband what she thinks of him. * * *

While a middle-aged man is joyfully boasting that he "feels just like a boy," his wife is probably wishing that he would grow up and act like a responsible human being. * * *

It is hard for the average woman to learn to drive a car—because a car always takes her so literally. It has absolutely NO intuition, and never suspects that when she steps on the accelerator, she MEANT to step on the brake! * * *

Marriage is seldom a gamble, to a woman; it is something that she has been secretly plotting for years. It is only men, who leave it all to impulse and Lady Luck.

Turning a "good fellow" into a good husband is about the most hopeless task a girl can undertake.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Encounter

It happened, after many years they met:
Upon them both Time's hand had worked its change.
About her eyes were shadows
faintly set,
His mouth was grim, his smile was cold and strange.
Above them towered the city
street's high walls,
A back-drop for the stage
whereon they stood,
And all around rose shrill, ear-piercing calls,
Yet none more harsh than their rebellious mood.

An instant thus two strangers stood and gazed,
Hand touching hand, a thousand miles apart,
Then sudden fire within their spirits blazed
And fused them once again, loved heart to heart!
So it will ever be between these two,
Though next they meet on some sphere far and new.

Human Side of the News

The Attack On the President—Differences Among the Leading Economists

By Edwin C. Hill

THE hue and cry against the man in the White House has begun. Leading the pack is a popular weekly, emitting angry snarls of resentment, growling denunciation. One might fairly suggest that nine months of a new presidency, in such terrific times as these, is a period much too brief upon which to base such savage denunciations. The President should be given at least another year in his admitted experimentation—his earnest seeking this way and that for the correct solution of our economic and financial problems.

As for the imputation that justice has broken down and that criminals are pouring through the net, the answer could be fairly returned that not only has repeal, sponsored and delivered by President Roosevelt, already cut down crime immeasurably, but that kidnaping has well-nigh been throttled by the relentless activities of the Federal Department of Justice and the co-operation of the federal courts.

And finally, whatever may have been the blunders of the Brain Trust, or the honest mistakes of the administration, would one care to be living back in the early days of March, 1933, with the banks crashing and closing and the country paralized with fear? Would the people as a whole rather have things as they were then, or as they are today? * * *

Roosevelt Deserves The Credit

AND if they prefer conditions as they are today, with general business admittedly on the upturn, with millions of formerly idle and desperate men back at work, who should receive the credit, unless it be the man who so resolutely accepted leadership in the black hours of March the Fourth of 1933?

The barrage against the President is beginning. Echoes and rumbles are coming from various directions. Only a little while ago the Republican National Committee fired the first gun. But it is doubtful, indeed, if any of these attacks will have much effect on public opinion.

There is no indication, anywhere throughout the country, of a public fear that the President's policies are ruining the country. The people, or a very large majority of them, are still with him, still convinced of his honesty and sincerity and patriotism; understanding that he has been called upon to deal with problems such as no other American ever faced; realizing that there is scarcely any other method by which he can work things out than by the old-fashioned method of trial and error. There seems no other way.

It is hard to find two distinguished economists who will agree with each other on any major proposition. A recent listing, by an eminent authority, of the few living men who know anything about money, contained the name of just one banker. It seems, therefore, that when the experts are confused, the amateur might be given a chance, especially after his record of the past nine months.

To anyone convinced of the thorough insincerity of European disarmament conferences and peace talk, it is heartening to behold in the White House a President who perceives the realities of life, while hoping for some eventual triumph of the ideals. It is obvious that Mr. Roosevelt comprehends the true feeling toward America and Americans of practically every foreign nation, with the possible exception of Italy and Great Britain, and the possible further exception of those small countries that owe us not a dollar. * * *

Interest in Navy Is Encouraging

IT is heartening to learn that he will ask Congress to build the United States Navy up to its full strength by 1939, and at a cost of $516,000,000, and to increase the enlisted strength of the Navy from 79,000 to 100,000 or more. The inroads of blind pacifism almost crippled Army, Navy and Marine Corps, but apparently we have a President who knows that the world is a Mad Hatter's tea party, and that peace is not arrived at by long-winded conference between Tweedle-dee and Tweedle-dum.

Instead of the United States being on an equality with Great Britain as the leading naval power of the world, which she should be, she is actually today a third-rate power and not a very strong third rate. Japan has forged rapidly ahead, and today leads the United States in modern battle fleet strength.

There is a fair chance that the United States Marine Corps, barely saved from virtual extinction last year, may be increased in personnel under the President's inspiration. At present the strength of the corps, scattered all over the world, from San Diego to Peiping and from Panama to Shanghai, is about 15,000. It needs at least 2,000 more men and officers for the invaluable peace time work it performs, and there is no finer emergency service in the wide world than these same marines constitute.

Just as the United States Army has made a magnificent record directing the Citizens' Conservation camps, so the Marine Corps can take pride in preserving the peace in odd corners of the earth, in garrisoning our far-flung outposts, in relieving the sufferings caused by fire, flood and earthquake, fighting pirates, protecting the seal fisheries and ready, always, to leap out with a running jump to tackle any problem that Uncle Sam wants solved in elegant haste.

It is the oldest of our military services, by the way, dating back to the decree of the Continental Congress of November 10, 1775.

ISN'T IT SO?

Some women require a lot of pin money to keep looking as neat as one.

You can get an idea of how hard a man works by the heel marks on his desk.

Folks who can't afford luxuries can balance up things by learning to enjoy necessities.

A cow does not have the right of way on highways, but she takes it just the same.

Only a lumber dealer can be in his office and out of doors simultaneously.

No one ever traveled the road to fame on a pass.

An apology often is toughest when tendered.

French Set Another Trap For Roosevelt

By James T. Williams, Jr.

UNLESS THE United States comes quickly to its rescue, the Roosevelt Administration may find some difficulty in extricating the American government from a trap into which it fell under the Hoover Administration.

This trap was set by France for the purpose of enabling the French government to prevent the re-arming of Germany and to control the armaments of other countries.

Instead of being content to rely upon the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles to bring about general reduction and limitation of armaments France has insisted that the League of Nations should be given power to set up its own machinery for the supervision, control and regulation of the manufacture of arms and implements of war throughout the world.

Under the French plan for international supervision of armaments, the League of Nations, which France now controls, would have the power to limit the manufacture of arms and other war implements to government factories.

This would be fine for those European and Asiatic governments which have invested thousands of millions of dollars in government plants for the manufacture of arms and implements of war. They would have a great advantage over those governments which do not go in for gigantic expenditures for this purpose but rely largely upon private manufacturers to supply arms and implements of war when the emergency arises. * * *

A Good Argument Against the Plan

WHEN THIS French proposal was pressed under the presidency of Calvin Coolidge in 1924, his Secretary of War gave a clear and convincing argument against American acceptance of such a plan. His argument was to this effect:

"At present the United States maintains an extremely small and weak military force, our war reserves are entirely inadequate to meet war requirements under the general mobilization plan, and we possess no large government-owned manufacturing arsenals. If we should be solely dependent upon newly constructed commercial plants in the event of national emergency, it would require from 12 to 24 months before the rate of production would approximate our war-time requirements. The other great powers . . . are in a totally different situation."

But an even more impressive argument against the French scheme for supervising, through the League of Nations, the armaments of every nation is to be found in the instructions which President Coolidge gave, through his Secretary of State, to the delegation which he sent in 1927 to the preparatory conference at Geneva.

This delegation, of which admiral Hilary P. Jones, the Navy's able, far-seeing and patriotic statesman was the chairman, was instructed by Mr. Coolidge in these words:

"In case the question shall arise, you should make it clear that the United States would not agree to place the supervision of its armaments or the carrying out of any program for the limitation of its armaments in the hands of the League of Nations or any other international body.

"The execution of any international agreement for the limitation of armaments must depend, in so far as the United States is concerned, upon international good faith and respect for treaties.

"The United States will not tolerate the supervision of any outside body in this matter nor be subject to inspection or supervision of foreign agencies or individuals." * * *

Hoover Changed American Policy

THE COOLIDGE delegation carried out Mr. Coolidge's instructions and successfully opposed the attempt of France and her allies to use the League of Nations as "a peeping-tom" upon the national defense system of the United States. To all European proposals for international supervision of our armaments, the Coolidge delegation replied that while this country would not object to such an agreement as between other nations, it would not be a party to any such agreement in so far as the United States was concerned.

This American position was abandoned by the Hoover administration. It supinely surrendered to the French demand for league supervision of our national defense system. This pusillanimous commitment has thus far been acquiesced in by the Roosevelt administration.

If the Committee on Foreign Relations will promptly put the administration on notice that the American position in this matter taken by President Coolidge is still the American position so far as the Senate is concerned, the Roosevelt administration will be rescued from the trap set by France into which the American government fell under the Hoover administration.
